INDIA TO RETURN P.O.W.S DESPITE RED OBJECTIONS

Communists Say Armistice Will Be Violated, Indicate They Won't Accept Their Prisoners.

TURNBACK WILL BEGIN TONIGHT

Enemy Calls Allied Plan to Free and Relocate Korean and Chinese Captives 'Armed Abduction.'

PANMUNJOM (Wednesday), Jan. 20 (UP)—Indian troops planned to return more than 22,000 anti-Communist Korean war prisoners to the Allied Command today despite an eleventh hour Red warning that the transfer would be a "violation of the armistice agreement."

A spokesman for the Indian custodial force said 14,231 Chinese and 7726 North Korean P.O.W.s would be turned over to the United Nations beginning at 9 a.m. (6 o'clock tonight St. Louis time).

"There is no change in our plans," the spokesman said. "The turnover of the prisoners will take place as scheduled."

North Korean Premier Kim Il Sung and Chinese Gen. Pen Teh Huai said the U.N. command's announced plan to release the P.O.W.s as civilians and relocate them in Formosa and South Korea constituted an "armed abduction."

Protest to Thimayya.

The top Red leaders simultaneously informed Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya, chairman of the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission, that the Communists were unqualifiedly opposed to the release and indicated they would not accept delivery of the 347 pro-Red prisoners they captured. These include 21 Americans.

"We consider your proposal as in violation of the armistice agreement," the Red commanders said. "This decision is not only in violation of the terms of reference and humanitarian principles of the Geneva Convention but also incompatible with the just stand which should be taken by neutral nations."

An Indian spokesman said Thimayya still had not decided what to do with the pro-Communist prisoners if the Reds refuse delivery of them.

"As far as the prisoners in the pro-Communist camp are concerned in view of this (the Communist) answer," the spokesman said, "we will have to decide what to do."

The Communist note to Thimayya charged "United States military authorities" with planning to hand the anti-Red POW's "over to the Syngman Rhee clique and the Chiang Kai-shek gang."

Full Freedom Later.

The U.N. command, which has maintained the prisoners must be released in conformance with the Korean armistice agreement, said all of the P.O.W.s would be given their unconditional freedom once they were relocated.

India had advised both the Allied and Communist commands last week that it planned to return the men to their captors Jan. 20, three days before their authorized release date as civilians under the Korean armistice.

In announcing his plan, Gen. Thimayya ordered both commands to retain the men until a Korean peace conference decides their fate.

Preliminary negotiations for such a conference were broken off last Dec. 12 when the Reds accused the United States of perfidy. Liaison secretaries have

POPULATION OF U.S.S.R. PUT AT 210,000,000, UP 16,000,000 SINCE 1939

NEW YORK, Jan. 19 (AP).

THE population of the Soviet Union is now about 210,000,000. Soviet newspapers received here disclose there are 700 districts of 300,000 persons each for the Supreme Soviet elections in March. The population in 1939 of the same area now comprised in the Soviet Union was about 194,000,000.

Since the war the Soviet Government has kept its population a state secret to conceal heavy war losses. There has been no public census

Here are some of the things revealed in the election plans:

Moscow appears to have a population of some 5,400,000, a gain of about 300,000 from the last elections four years ago. Leningrad appears to have 3,300,000—no change from 1950. No other Soviet city seems to exceed a million in population

Almost 150,000,000 live in the European part of the Soviet Union.

SPECIAL U.S. AID ASSIGNED HERE IN RACKET INQUIRY

Max H. Goldschein to Conduct Intensified Investigation — Has National Reputation.

Max H. Goldschein, special assistant Attorney General in the Department of Justice trial division, has been assigned to conduct an intensified investigation of labor racketeering in St. Louis, it was announced today.

The announcement was made by United States Attorney Harry Richards upon his return from a conference in Washington with officials of the Department of Justice. He had been summoned to the capital Saturday.

Goldschein, recognized as one of the most vigorous and able procesutors in the department, has gained a national reputation as a director of grand juries. He was a member of a team of special assistants who headed a drive by the Federal government to smash the nation-wide crime syndicate headed by Frank Costello of New York which began in 1949.

At Richards's Request.

"Mr. Goldschein is coming here for grand jury work at my request," Richards said. "He will be assisted by William K. Stanard II, who recently was appointed special assistant United States Attorney, and by myself."

Goldschein was expected to leave Washington as soon as he is able to turn over work he now is engaged in to other assistants. It was indicated this would require several days.

Richards said he thought a visit made to Washington last weekend by United States District Judge George H. Moore and the foreman of two current grand juries probably had given "weight" to his previous request for Goldschein's services. The three men, who previously had expressed dissatisfaction with progress of the labor racket inquiry, met with Department of Justice officials.

One of the foremen, Austin P. Leland, heads a grand jury which will complete an extended term on Saturday. The jury, which began its investigation of labor racketeering last April, met today and will hold several additional sessions this week before being discharged.

16 AFL Men Indicted.

As a result of the Leland jury's work and investigation by a grand jury headed by Elmer C. Carlisle, which was impaneled in July, 16 AFL leaders have been charged in indictments with violation of the federal anti-racketeering law. Another defendant has been named in an indictment charging perjury, a charge growing out of the racket inquiry.

An offer by the Department of Justice to assign Goldschein to the investigation was rejected by Richards last fall. Later, after the inquiry had been stepped up following complaints by Judge Moore and the foremen, Richards requested Goldschein's services but the assistant Attorney General was busy working on Communist investigations at that time.

The Department of Justice authorized Richards to employ two additional special assistants for the inquiry. Stanard was named to one of the positions but Richards said the other would not be filled in view of the department's decision to send Goldschein here.

Goldschein is best known here for his direction of a federal grand jury which laid bare connections between the Kansas City underworld and political office holders in 1949 and 1950.

GOVERNOR CALLS ELECTIONS HERE, NO WORD YET ON SPECIAL SESSION

Vacancies in 2 Senatorial Districts to Be Filled Feb. 9—Earnings Tax Questions Sidestepped.

By BOYD F. CARROLL
Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 19— Gov. Phil M. Donnelly last night called special elections in St. Louis to fill vacancies in two State Senatorial districts, but refused to say whether this was an indication he would call a special legislative session on extension of the St. Louis earnings tax enabling law.

While the Governor, in a press conference, declined to answer, or sidestepped, all question as to an apparent move toward a special session to relieve the financial plight of St. Louis, the belief is growing in the Capitol that he will call a session.

Despite Donnelly's silence, persons close to him have expressed confidence he will call the Legislature. Speculation has centered on late February or March as the time.

Successors to Webbe, Byrne.

The special elections, set for Feb. 9, the same day as the St. Louis-St. Louis county election on adoption of the proposed metropolitan sewer district plan, are for selection of successors to the late State Senators Anthony M. Webbe (Dem.), Fourth district, and Harry J. Byrne (Dem.), Sixth district.

So far Donnelly has made no move, he said, to call special elections in five Missouri counties to fill five House vacancies resulting from death or resignation of State Representatives. But his office has compiled a complete list of these vacancies, the counties and the names of the former Representatives, essential in any election call.

The Governor also said he had not set the date for a conference requested of him by Mayor Raymond R. Tucker of St. Louis, to renew the city's appeal for a special session at which to present the urgent necessity for legislation to extend the life of the state enabling act for the St. Louis earnings tax, which expires April 1.

The tax now produces about $8,000,000 a year in revenue which the city would lose if the enabling act were not extended.

"Mayor Tucker asked for a conference," Donnelly said. "I told him I would call him, but have not done so yet."

'Without Extra Expense.'

Donnelly asserted his action in calling the two senatorial district elections in St. Louis could not "reasonably" be construed to indicate he would call a special session.

"The city is having a special election on the sewer project on Feb. 9," Donnelly said, "and this gives an opportunity to fill the two senatorial vacancies at the same time without any extra expense."

Asked why the special elections were called, if no further move were planned Donnelly replied "An election is being held down there (in St. Louis) and I thought I would do this much, as long as these vacancies existed there."

"Doesn't this mean a session?" a correspondent asked. Donnelly replied, "Dont ask me any questions about that."

If the Governor had no intention of convening the Legislature in special session, he could save more for the state by not holding a special election in St. Louis. Persons elected in Feb. 9 special election would only serve out the unexpired terms of Webb and Byrnes, ending in January 1955.

Regular Elections Coming.

Regular primary and general elections in the two districts already were scheduled for next August and November. Without special elections now, the state would not have to pay the $125 a month salaries of two temporary office holders until the end of the year, aside from the cost of the special elections.

Party nominees for State Senator in the special elections in the Fourth and Sixth districts will be selected by the Democratic and Republican senatorial district committees in the two districts, in meetings called by their respective chairman.

The Governor's writs for the two elections were directed to Sheriff Martin L. Tozer of St. Louis, who, under the law, is charged with issuing a proclamation or notice of the election, at least 10 days in advance of the Feb. 9 date set by the Governor.

The five vacancies in the House, each in counties with only one representative, and the former representatives, are: Lafayette county, Earnest W. Baker (Rep.), Higginsville, resigned; Morgan county, Reno A. Warnke (Rep.), Stover, resigned; St. Charles county, Omar Schnatmeier (Rep.), St. Charles, resigned to become United States marshal at St. Louis; Sullivan county, G. B. Fisher (Rep.), Os-

'Two Tough Professionals' Demanding $300,000 Ransom Seized—Story Kept Secret.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 19 (UP)—A wealthy San Francisco real estate dealer, kidnaped and held for $300,000 ransom for 64 hours, was rescued unharmed by police early today.

The kidnapers, described as "two tough professionals," surrendered without a fight when their plot fell to pieces. They were taken to jail in heavy shackles.

The victim, Leonard Moskovitz, 36 years old, who operates a flourishing real estate business with his twin brother, Alfred, was found in a rented downtown residence where he had been kept drugged, trussed up and blindfolded.

Tormented With Threats.

His abductors, Harold Jackson, 57, and Joseph Lear, 43, of Sacramento, had tormented him with threats that they would send parts of his body home if his family did not pay.

The kidnapers at first demanded $500,000, but later scaled down their demand to $300,000 when the victim's family pleaded they could not raise such a sum.

The ransom demand was the second largest in history, topped only by the recent Greenlease case in Kansas City in which $600,000 was paid to kidnapers Carl Austin Hall and Bonnie Brown Heady.

In the present case, the kidnapers were grabbed before any ransom was paid. The family had arranged to gather the cash at the Bank of America today.

For three days, Moskovitz's twin brother and father negotiated with the kidnapers in a series of guarded telephone calls and ads in the personal column of the San Francisco Examiner.

Calls Lead to Break.

It was the telephone calls made by the kidnapers that eventually gave police today's break in the case.

At 12:55 a.m., Lear called Alfred from a sidewalk booth and made the mistake of talking too long. With the aid of the telephone company, police were able to establish the area from which the call came.

Then at 2:35 a.m., the kidnaper returned to the booth and placed another call to arrange final details of the pay-off. He was arrested when police spotted him in the booth as they cruised by in a radio car.

Confesses Promptly.

Lear promptly admitted his part in the crime and led a 25-man police raiding squad to the residence about three miles across the city. Police kicked the door in and caught Jackson by surprise.

A disheveled but relieved Muskovitz was freed of the ropes that tied him to the bed.

The victim told police he had spent most of the time bound, gagged, blindfolded and with ear plugs in his ears. The kidnapers taped two saucers to his knees so that he could not move without making a sound.

Tree letters were sent by the kidnapers during the nearly three days of negotiations.

The first letter arrived at the Moskovitz home Saturday afternoon within five hours after Leonard was seized. In the victim's handwriting, it said the abductors wanted $500,000 and gave directions for establishing contact with them through the personal classified ad column of the Examiner.

Moskovitz's 61-year-old father,

CHURCHILL BARS BILL FOR SECRET VOTE ON STRIKES

LONDON, Jan. 19 (UP)—Prime Minister Churchill rejected today a proposal to make strikes illegal until after union members had taken a secret ballot under government auspices.

When the House of Commons met after its long Christmas recess, right-wing Conservative Sir Waldron Smithers, made the proposal. (A bill has been introduced in Congress at President Eisenhower's suggestion to require that the United States Government take a secret ballot among employes of any plant where a strike occurs.)

"I am informed that the disadvantages of the proposal would greatly outweigh any advantages," Churchill said.

BRITISH OFFICIAL SUSPECTS BOMB IN JET AIRLINER LOSS

LONDON, Jan. 19 (AP)—Civil Aviation Minister Alan Lennox-Boyd said tonight a time bomb may have been placed in the Comet jet airliner that crashed in the Mediterranean 10 days ago killing all 35 persons aboard.

"I would not like to align myself with any theory but considering the merical evidence it is a possible interpretation of what might have occurred," he said in an interview at the airport here.

Before his departure from Rome earlier today, the minister said:

"In the bad world in which we live we cannot rule out the possibility of sabotage. However, we've also to concentrate on any possibility."

The Comet, crashed off the island of Elba a few minutes after taking off from Rome. It was bound for London from Singapore and had made stops at Karachi, Pakistan and Beirut, Lebanon, as well as Rome.

Doctors noted that the 15 bodies recovered from the water had burns on the legs which could have resulted from an explosion.

Leonor Sullivan Urges Cheaper Cup of Coffee, Less Atom Talk

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19—Shapers of global policy in the Eisenhower Administration were advised by a St. Louis woman today to get their minds off the A-bomb and the national debt long enough to do something about the 15-cent cup of coffee.

Democratic Congresswoman Leonor Kretzer Sullivan, who styled herself a typical "harassed housewife," said it was high time somebody showed concern about "profiteering" which has driven coffee to $1.10 a pound and higher.

Otherwise, she suggested, the Democrats may have an issue in the next election which will dwarf that raised in former years by the ghost of the five-cent cigar.

To Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, Mrs. Sullivan addressed this question in a letter:

"What is our Government doing to arrange with the coffee-producing nations for fairer marketing of coffee in the United States?"

Coffee may not be Dulles's weightiest problem just now, the St. Louis Representative conceded, but he ought to realize that a good, strong cup in the morning—at a reasonable price—fortifies a citizen for the world-shaking news of the day.

Dulles told a reporter with a laugh that he has great sympathy for her.

BIG 4 TALKS WILL BE FUTILE IF REDS TRY OLD TACTICS, DULLES ASSERTS

But If Russians Are in 'Constructive Mood' They Will Find West Responsive, Secretary Says.

By WALLACE R. DEUEL
Diplomatic Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19—The United States hopes the Big Four conference, due to open in Berlin Monday, will bring about German unification and the liberation of Austria, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said today.

If the Soviets enter the conference "in a constructive mood" they will find the American, British and French representatives "responsive" and the gathering could have great "historical significance," Dulles told a news conference. The conference, however, will be a waste of time if the Reds pursue their usual obstructive tactics, the Secretary added.

Dulles plans to leave Thursday for the conference, he revealed. He and a staff of advisers will fly to Berlin in President Eisenhower's plane, the Columbine.

No Senators Going.

The delegation will include no Senators or Representatives, the Secretary disclosed in answer to a question. He has discussed the conference with congressional leaders and it was agreed that the issues likely to arise are unlikely to require the presence of members of the legislative branch. Dulles said. Delegates from Congress can join the conference later if this proves desirable, he said.

Dulles hopes the conference will last no longer than three weeks. He himself is due to attend the opening of an inter-American conference at Caracas, Venezuela, March 1.

The secretary said he hopes that he will be able to discuss with Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov at Berlin President Eisenhower's recent proposal for a world pool of atomic materials for peaceful purposes. The Berlin conversations, if any, will, however, be limited to discussions of how negotiations on the plan can best be conducted, he added.

Talks on the merits of the President's proposal would require the participation of atomic experts and Dulles is taking no such experts to Berlin, he revealed. Negotiations on the substance of the plan can best be conducted in Washington, he said.

On Korean Problems.

The Secretary stood fast today on previous American positions on two problems which have arisen out of the Korean truce. He said the United States opposes an Indian proposal to refer the Panmunjom talks back to the United Nations General Assembly, and he said once again, as he has often said before, that all prisoners of war still in the custody of the belligerents must be released as civilians not later than midnight Friday.

A final decision is near on the case of career diplomat John Paton Davies Jr., Dulles revealed in response to questions. Davies, under fire from Senator Joseph R. McCarthy (Rep.), Wisconsin, and others, has been called from his post in Lima, Peru, to Washington to take part in hearings on his case, the Secretary said.

Dulles said he himself will make the final ruling in the Davies case, but he doubts he will have time to do so before departing for Berlin.

Denies Morale Is Poor.

Dulles denied recent allegations by four retired career diplomats that morale in the service has been undermined by unwarranted "security" procedures and that diplomats are afraid to report the truth lest they later be charged with disloyalty.

Dulles dwelt at some length on the safeguards which he said make it certain that no Foreign Service officer will be disciplined on inadequate grounds. He makes a personal study of every case in which charges are made against a diplomat, he said. He does not always follow the recommnedations of his security officers, he asserted, but he knows of no case in which charges have been made recklessly or without some apparent basis in fact.

Dulles read a statement on the Berlin conference at the outset of the meeting. He said that in the past the Russians have "tried to stir up French fear of Germany and German resentment against France. They have sought to frighten the western Eudopean nations by picturing the United States as a militaristic imperialist.

'If at the forthcoming conference the Soviet pursues these same tactics then the conference will be a futility. We will all have wasted our time, and that applies to the Soviet leaders as well, for the Western nations are sufficinetly mature not to be

EISENHOWER SAID TO PLAN 4 BILLION SLASH IN DEFENSE

SOVIET PAPERS SAY U.S. 'POLICY OF STRENGTH' WILL RESULT IN WAR

LONDON, Jan. 19 (UP).

SOVIET newspapers warned today that America's "policy of strength" can lead only to war and "colossal destruction" for America.

The Government newspaper Izvestia, as quoted by the Moscow radio, also warned that modern warfare "cannot rely on one weapon only . . . cannot be waged successfully without a mass army."

The warnings appeared to be the Kremlin's semi-official reply to speeches made recently by President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

"The policy of strength," said Izvestia, "cannot but result in resistance on the part of those against whom it is directed."

Expected to Recommend Military Spending in Next Fiscal Year Be Held to $37,500,000,000.

AIR FORCE BOOST, LESS FOR THE ARMY

Cuts Also for Navy — Army to Cancel $500,000,000 in Contracts for Supplies by June 30.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (UP) — President Eisenhower will recommend a four billion dollar slash in defense spending in the budget message he sends to Congress Thursday, informed sources said today.

They said Eisenhower would propose that over-all military spending in the fiscal year beginning next July be held to about $37,500,000,000.

The budget will recommend slightly more funds for the Air Force, key to the Administration's "new look" military strategy, these sources said.

This means that the biggest spending cut will fall on the Army which is being gradually reduced in an effort to emphasize air and atomic power. The Navy, to a lesser extent, also will receive less money.

$41,500,000,000 This Year.

The budget message, according to these informed sources, estimates defense spending for the current fiscal year at $41,500,000,000. Thus the recommended spending cut would be about four billion dollars. Actual spending last year, fiscal 1953, totaled $43,600,000,000.

In his State of the Union message Jan. 7, Eisenhower said his budget message would outline a cut in federal spending more than five billion dollars below this year's level or to about $66,500,000,000.

In view of the planned defense cut reported today, it is clear that the military will absorb the lion's share of the total cutback for fiscal 1955. This could hardly be otherwise since defense spending is the biggest single item in the budget.

The Administration maintains that it can cut costs and at the same time build a stronger defense force by placing greater emphasis on air and atomic striking power and less on expensive ground forces.

Army Manpower Cut.

In line with this, it is known that the Defense Department expects to cut Army manpower by 18 per cent during fiscal 1955, and expects to cut back Army, Navy and Marine manpower by about 500,000 men between now and mid-1957.

The sharp cut in military spending next year will give the Administration's campaign to balance the budget a big boost, but because of declining revenue and other factors the Government still expects to be in the red for a while.

The President conceded in his State of the Union message that the budget will move closer to a balance in fiscal 1955 but still not quite make it.

Contract Cancellations.

Last November an Administration official estimated that the 1955 budget deficit would be three to four billion dollars even if federal spending could be cut nearly six billion dollars.

A Pentagon official said last night the Army will cancel contracts for more than $500,000,000 in military supplies by June 30.

Harold L. Pearson, deputy army uider secretary, said, the cancellations are part of a program to use up some heavily overstocked goods resulting from the "dregs" of two world wars and years of neglect" in proper accounting methods.

He said the Army has "begun to live off the pantry shelf on the biggest scale you ever saw."

Pearson said a survey has disclosed that the Army has about $30,000,000,000 in inventories scattered throughout the world, excluding real estate and materiel in the hands of combat units.

He said some of the property is being held for the Air Force, Navy, foregin aid and other purposes.

Pearson did not disclose what items will be affected by the forthcoming contract cancelations, but it was understood they will include everything from socks to fan belts.

They come on top of a recent $140,000,000 cutback in Army truck and trailer orders.

Pearson also said a "number" of army depots in this country will be closed as a result of steps to reduce inventories and speed supply distribution. He said the Army will cease to be the "biggest customer in the world."

Socks to Fan Belts.

By illustration, Pearson said Army orders by next June 30 will total only $5,000,000,000 compared with $11,000,000,000

SENATE UNIT OKS STATEHOOD FOR HAWAII, ALASKA

Committee Votes to Combine Two Bills and Report Measure to Floor Later.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP)—The Senate Interior Committee voted today to approve statehood for both Hawaii and Alaska.

Chairman Butler (Rep.), Nebraska, told reporters the vote to add Alaska statehood to the Hawaii statehood bill was "as close as could be," presumably 8 to 7. Butler declined to make public the roll call vote.

After voting to combine the Alaska and Hawaii statehood bills into a single package, the committee voted to delay its report to the Senate until the Alaska statehood section can be "perfected."

President Eisenhower twice has urged Congress to pass the Hawaii statehood bill. However, he omitted any reference to Alaska statehood in his message on the State of the Union.

Hawaii long has been regarded as a Republican stronghold, and Alaska as normally Democratic. In the last general elections, however, Democrats made gains in Hawaii, while Republicans took over majority control of the territorial legislature in Alaska.

Democrats in Congress have accused the Republican administration of making a political issue of the statehood question and supporting Hawaii alone in the hope of getting two Republican Senators to bolster the party position in the Senate.

The House passed the Hawaii statehood bill last March 10 by a vote of 274 to 138.

RUSSIA PLANNING TO OPEN TOURIST BUREAU IN LONDON

The Chicago Daily News-Post-Dispatch Special Radio. Copyright, 1954.

LONDON, Jan. 19 — Soviet officials are planning to open a tourist bureau here in April or May and allow a restricted number of holidayers to visit Russia.

The plan is to allow some to go to Moscow and others to resort spots on the Black Sea.

The London Daily Worker has announced the plan and the British Tourist Association has confirmed that negotiations are in progress.

The number of tourists would be restricted so that Russia's limited hotel and resort facilities would not be overtaxed.

Before the war Russian tour ships left London for Leningrad. The tourists then went overland to Moscow. It is believed that similar arrangemetns will be made.

Soviet plans to open an Intourist office in London first. That is the name of their tourist department.

WOMEN TOLD SPRING HATS MAY INFLUENCE LEGISLATORS

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 19 (AP)—The Virginia Federation of Women's Clubs has a program it would like to see approved by the current state legislature, and yesterday, the women got a bit of candid advice from their president on how to influenece the legislators.

"Go see your representatives," advised Mrs. Stanley Bailey of Roanoke, and "remember to use your feminine wiles."

"Your new spring hat is as important as what you have inside it."

FARM SURPLUS DISPOSAL ABROAD CRITICIZED AT SENATE HEARING

World Markets Would Be Disrupted, Says Senator Schoeppel — Benson Explains New Outlets Are Sought.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP) —Administration plans to dispose of a billion dollars worth of Government-held farm products overseas drew sharp criticism at a Senate hearing today.

Senator Schoeppel (Rep.), Kansas, told Secretary of Agriculture Benson that the proposal would disrupt world markets that already are nervous about what this country is going to do with its farm surpluses.

Benson, up for a second day of critical questioning, told the crowded Senate Agriculture Committee hearing that it was not planned to give the entire billion dollars worth away.

Proposes Sale.

"A good part of it should be sold, "Benson said, adding that the Administration hoped to find new markets overseas.

Benson said some may be given away, citing food gifts to East Germans and Pakistan this last year as possible patterns. He said such gifts often create more good will than direct dollar aid.

Schoeppel said foreign nations would say "'Why buy' if they felt we were going to give away these surpluses." He said this could "do the over-all farm program injury."

Benson quickly assured Schoeppel "we don't want to disrupt their markets" or strain trade and other relationships. He said conferences are planned with foreign agricultural leaders to acquaint them with our surplus problems and to develop new markets.

Dumping of Surpluses.

Schoeppel thanked Benson for this statement and noted that Congress had gone on record "against dumping our farm surpluses on any giveaway programs."

Benson disclosed under questioning, some of it hostile, that conferences are in progress on the feasibility of paying foreign governments in surplus United States grains, instead of cash, for the building of United States defense bases abroad.

He mentioned Spain and West Germany as two likely countries for a start on the program.

Before Benson was called, Chairman Aiken (Rep.), Vermont, said that he did not plan to push for a showdown vote on the Administration's flexible farm price support plan until about March 1. Aiken is a backer of the program which President Eisenhower outlined to Congress eight days ago.

In the meantime, Aiken said, he will ask the committee to consider other phases of the program. These include Eisenhower's requests for (a) authority to "freeze" 2½ billion dollars worth of crop surpluses from regular markets, (b) a 1¾ billion dollar boost in funds to support farm prices and (c) authority to dispose of a billion dollars worth of "frozen" surpluses abroad over the next three years. Officials said the last point contemplates the surpluses would be given to non-Communist countries in exchange for pledges to undertake economic projects.

Fuller Understanding.

"When all of these have been explained and considered, I think there may be a fuller understanding of what the President and Benson are trying to do," Aiken said.

"In six weeks it is entirely possible that our differences over parity will be resolved."

Aiken said he was "not at all discouraged" by the evident fact that a majority of his committee now favors continuance of 90 per cent parity price supports on major field crops, instead of the 75 to 90 per cent flexible props proposed by the President.

"I am confident that we are going to get a workable program," Aiken said. "If these surpluses can be removed from competition on the market and farmers can have a fresh start, they will get better returns out of the President's program than they would out of 90 per cent parity with the surpluses still hanging over them."

Senator Thye (Rep.), Minnesota, said he was not at all sure Eisenhower's plan to freeze crop surpluses would work.

Officials helping draft the plan said the governments getting the products would be asked to sign agreements to sign agreements to undertake specific projects aimed at bettering the living standards of their people.

India, Pakistan Listed.

Countries which would be eligible would be those hard-pressed to finance such projects, such as India, Pakistan and others, mainly in Asia.

Officials said that foreign governments which received American farm surpluses would be allowed to sell it at the going local price to their people. The money realized from this sale would be specifically earmarked for the development project guaranteed in advance.

It is not clear whether this new program would replace the current law which authorizes the Government to sell for local currency up to $250,000,000 dollars in farm surpluses.

OIL-FOR-SCHOOLS BILL PRESENTED AGAIN BY HILL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (UP) —Senator Lister Hill (Dem.), Alabama, today reintroduced his "oil for education" legislation, proposing to set aside oil and gas revenues from the outer continental shelf for federal aid to schols.

Twenty-seven Democrats, five Republicans and Senator Wayne Morse (Ind.), Oregon, joined Hill as sponsors of rthe amendment.

Hill proposed the measure as an amendment to the law — adopted last session—giving the Federal Government title to the outer continental shelf.

The outer shelf bill as passed by the Senate contained the oil for education provision, but it was deleted by House members. As envisioned by Hill, all revenue from any oil and gas fields developed in the outer shelf would be set aside for grants-in-aid to primary, secondary and higher education institutions.

OUTPUT TARGETS TRIMMED BY RED CHINA, U.N. SAYS

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Jan. 19 (AP)—A United Nations economic report cites figures showing that Red China's first five-year plan, launched in 1953, got off to a poor start.

The report made public yesterday listed in two tables the production targets issued Feb. 13, 1953, by the minister of finance and the targets announced in May.

The tables showed these original and revised targets (using 100 to indicate the 1950 production level):

Crude petroleum reduced from 142 to 129, copper from 139 to 129, lead from 149 to 135, zinc from 154 to 130, pig iron from 114 to 113 and crude steel from 123 to 122.

Cement was the only product to show an increase in its production target from 117 to 129.

MITCHELL NOMINATION OK'D BY SENATE WITHOUT DEBATE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP) —The Senate today without debate approved the nomination of James P. Mitchell, former New York department store official, as Secretary of Labor.

Also without dissenting voice votes and without discussion it approved:

Samuel M. Brownell, brother of Attorney General Brownell, as commissioner of education and Alice K. Leopold as director of the women's bureau of the Labor Department.

The new education commissioner is the former president of the New Haven State Teachers College in Connecticut. Mrs. Leopold was formerly Secretary of State for Connecticut.

MOROCCO CRACK-UP INJURIES FATAL TO 2ND U.S. FLYER

LAON, France, Jan. 19 (AP)— Col. John Powers Crocker, of Santa Anna, Calif., executive officer of the United States Air Force 126th Light Bombardment Wing, died last night of injuries received in the crash of a B-26 bomber in French Morocco, it was announced here today.

Col. Crocker was piloting the plane when it smashed up Jan. 14 near Mazagam. First Lt. Gordon G. Stewart of Peoria, Ill., was killed instantly. Two other crewmen, Capt. Gene Roberts of Prospect Heights, Ill., and Staff Sgt. Theo Cole McCool of Prattsville, Ark., were injured.

SENATE GROUP OK'S SOUTH KOREAN PACT

But Makes It Clear U.S. Won't Support Aggression by That Republic.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP) —The Senate Foreign Relations Committee today approved the mutual defense treaty with South Korea but made clear this country will not support any aggression by that republic.

The committee voted to attach to the pact a clause stating that both parties are obliged to aid each other only in the event of "an external armed attack" against one of them.

The clause was suggested by Senator George (Dem.), Georgia, and accepted by the committee unanimously to make it definite that the United States is not required to aid any armed move by South Korean President Syngman Rhee to unitfy Korea.

South Korea already has ratified the pact. The interpretive clause will not require any further negotiation as it only expresses the understanding of the Senate in acting on the treaty.

MEDICAL SCHOOL OF PITTSBURGH U. GIVEN $15,000,000

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 19 (AP)— The University of Pittsburgh's school of medicine has received a $15,000,000 grant from three local foundations.

Pitt's chancellor, R. H. Fitzgerald said yesterday the money would be used to assemble a full-time faculty. The grant was made by the A. W. Mellon Education and Charitable Trust, the Sarah Mellon Scaife Foundation and the Richard T. Mellon Foundation.

Fitzgerald said the university's school of medicine had received an additional $30,000,000 in donations in the last seven years for construction of a health center.

A letter from President Eisenhower to Chancellor Fitzgerald termed the new gift "a great opportunity for further service." The President added: "It is the type of advance that is wholly in keeping with the traditions of our country."

BIG HELICOPTER FOR MARINE CORPS IS DEMONSTRATED

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Jan. 19 (AP)—Sikorsky Aircraft Division demonstrated publicly for the first time yesterday what designer Igor Sikorsky called the largest, heaviest and most powerful helicopter that has done any substantial amount of flying.

The twin-engine, single rotor XHR2S helicopter also is believed to be the first ever built with retractable landing gear and with rotors which fold, thus making for easy handling aboard aircraft carriers.

The Sikorsky Division of United Aircraft Corp. is building the giant machine for the United States Marines.

Gen. Lemuel C. Shepherd Jr., commandant of the Marine Corps, said the machine marks a great advance in marine air operations. Before a large crowd of aviation industry representatives and military personnel the large Sikorsky machine was flown yesterday with three heavily-loaded jeeps aboard for a total "payload" of more than 6500 pounds. Its top speed is well over 150 miles an hour.

EISENHOWER AND M'CARTHY SHAKE HANDS AT PARTY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP) —President Eisenhower nibbled cheese and ham and drank a glass of tomato juice at a reception last night, and shook hands with Senator McCarthy (Rep.), Wisconsin.

Eisenhower spent a half hour at the reception, given by the Republican senatorial campaign committee for Washington reporters.

Just before Eisenhower arrived, McCarthy—who recently criticized Administration farm program and its handling of foreign policy—started to leave.

Spotting a group of reporters at the door, he laughed and remarked that he really ought to leave to keep another engagement, but figured that if he did some reporters might write that "I snubbed the President."

With that, McCarthy turned and went back into the room. Eisenhower was just about ready to leave when McCarthy spotted him, walked over and shook hands and talked in a low voice to the President.

McCarthy later laughingly declined to say what he told Eisenhower, declaring he couldn't remember.

FAVORS FREEING WORKER DEATH BENEFITS OF TAX

House Committee Approves Income Levy on Interest on Insurance Installments.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP) —The House Ways and Means Committee agreed today that all employe death benefits of up to $5000 should be free of income taxes.

The committee also approved taxing the interest received in installment payments of life insurance policies of $50,000 or more. All life insurance proceeds are tax-free now.

Present law permits a $5000 employe death benefit exemption only where the benefit is paid as part of a contract. The new proposal extends the exemption to outright, spontaneous gifts which are not part of a contract.

Helpful to Families.

Staff authorities said the new provision would be particularly helpful in cases where an employer wants to help a distressed family, or reward a particularly faithful deceased employe, but has not contracted to pay the same death benefit to all employes.

The new section was announced by committee chairman Daniel A. Reed (Rep.), New York, as part of a page-by-page revision of almost all the nation's tax laws. The committee has been working on the revision project for 10 days and expects to complete the job around March 1.

Staff experts said today's changes would result in some losses in revenue, and some increases, with the net effect probably an "appreciable" increase over a period of years. The chief aim was to make the laws fairer, they said.

Easing Tax on Annuity.

The committee yesterday approved changes which would generally soften personal income taxes on annuities and pensions.

Staff technicians estimated the proposed new plan would reduce tax bills by about $10,000,000 annually for some 500,000 persons now paying taxes on their annuity or pension income.

Eventually, the change would affect millions more who are paying now on private annuity policies or are paying into contributory company pension plans.

It does not affect income from pensions supplied wholly by an employer. All of this income is considered taxable.

New Methods.

For the present system of computing taxes on annuities, the committee plan would substitute two new methods depending on whether or not a man received in pension payments within three years all the money he had contributed toward it.

If he does—and this would apply to the great bulk of company contributory pension plans—he would pay no taxes on his pension until his entire contribution has been paid back. Thereafter he would pay taxes on the full amount of his pension.

Series of Bills on Eisenhower's Health Program Being Prepared

Would Provide Reinsurance of Prepaid Plans and Expansion of Hospital Construction Act.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—A series of measures, including federal reinsurance of prepaid medical plans and expansion of the Hill-Burton Act, was being prepared today in Congress to implement President Eisenhower's health message.

Republican leaders in the House and Senate said they would move quickly to put some of the Eisenhower proposals into effect. Majority reaction to the President's middle-of-the-road recommendations was generally favorable.

Preparing Four Bills.

Chairman H. Alexander Smith (Rep.), New Jersey, of the Senate Labor Committee, said he was preparing four bills based on parts of the health message. He listed them as:

1. A bill authorizing establishment of a limited $25,000,000 program of Federal reinsurance of private and nonprofit health plans, as recommended by the President. Smith said details of the program have not yet been fully worked out.

2. A bill amending the Hospital Survey and Construction Act, generally known as the Hill-Burton Act, to authorize construction of nursing and convalescent homes, institutions for the chronically ill and diagnostic or treatment centers, in addition to general hospital construction now authorized under the act.

3. and 4. Companion bills enabling the Federal Government to place increased emphasis on vocational rehabilitation of disabled persons.

Smith introduced the amendments to the Hill-Burton Act in the Senate today. The others, he said, are in the process of preparation, with the reinsurance proposal slated for introduction "in the next few days."

Similar Bill in House.

A similar reinsurance bill already has been introduced by Chairman Wolverton (Rep.), New Jersey, of the House Interstate Commerce Committee, which is conducting hearings on the problem of increased medical costs and research.

The Wolverton bill, one of five he has submitted, would establish a federal health reinsurance corporation with a total capital of $50,000,000, of which half could be used for Federal backing of hospital costs and half for reinsurance of medical costs.

Under the proposal, a subscriber to a private health plan reinsured by the Government could receive federal payment up to two-thirds of his claim against the private plan if that claim exceeded $1000 and was for hospitalization or medical care within a 12-month period.

In other words, if a subscriber had medical or hospital fees totaling $4000 in a 12-month period, the Government could reimburse the private plan by any amount up to $2000, with the benefit passed on to the subscriber. The private plan would pay $1000, with Federal reinsurance providing two-thirds of the remaining $3000, or $2000.

The reinsurance corporation would be financed through premium charges paid by participating private plans.

Choice of Hospitals.

Under the Wolverton proposal, the reinsurance corporation would establish uniform regulations governing contracts written by private and nonprofit health plans, and would guarantee that subscribers had a choice of hospitals in case of illness.

Another Wolverton bill would authorize direct Government loans to pay all or part of the cost of acquiring, building and equipping health service facilities used by nonprofit health plans.

His fourth proposal would allow income tax deductions for payments to health insurance plans up to $100 a year, without regard to the existing 5 per cent limit on medical expense deductions. Eisenhower's health message made no reference to a change in present income tax deductions for medical expense.

'Socialized Medicine' Rejected.

By the Associated Press.

A number of Republican members of Congress hailed the President's statement that he was "rejecting the socialization of medicine."

The American Medical Association applied that term to the compulsory health insurance system proposed unsuccessfully by former President Truman.

In Los Angeles, A.M.A. president Edward J. McCormick said he is not sure that private health organizations need financial aid from the Government as proposed by Eisenhower. "If left alone, I feel the companies will solve their own problems," he said.

He said, however, the A.M.A. must "go over all the details" before taking a definite stand, and for this purpose he has called a special conference in Chicago Sunday.

BRICKER STRIKES AT EISENHOWER TREATY STAND

He Says History Has No Example of Such Intervention by the President.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (UP) The Senate Republican Policy committee decided today to take no formal stand on the controversial Bricker amendment. Chairman Ferguson said after a two-hour meeting that his conferences with Senator Bricker got nowhere.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (INS) —Senator Bricker (Rep.), Ohio, in sharp criticism of President Eisenhower, said today there is "no parallel in history" to the present White House intervention to block his constitutional amendment on treaties.

Bricker told reporters that amending the Constitution is a matter for Congress rather than the President to decide. He said Woodrow Wilson opposed women's suffrage, but he added: "There is no parallel in history to intervention by the President as in this case."

Eisenhower has taken a strong stand against Bricker's amendment to curb the President's treaty-making powers.

Bricker told reporters that an Administration substitute is "entirely unacceptable" to him in its present form. He said he could not support a compromise which omits the "which" clause, as does the new Administration-backed formula. This is the clause which says a treaty shall not be effective as domestic law unless backed up by legislation which could be passed in the absence of a treaty.

The Senator said also he would be perfectly willing to fight out the issue of the "which" clause on the Senate floor. He said he still thinks he has the support of more than 60 Senators.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay said the Berlin airlift might have been impossible had the Bricker amendment been in effect.

The former commander of United States occupation forces in Germany, now a New York business executive, raised his objections in a letter to Senator Kefauver (Dem.), Tennessee, which Kefauver made public.

Clay, cochairman of the Citizens' Committee Against the Bricker Amendment, said the airlift required arrangements with Britain and France. "I am afraid it would never have been placed in operation in time to have been effective," he said.

COUNTY FUTURE AT STAKE IN VOTE FOR BOND ISSUE, PRIEST SAYS

Msgr. Dooley Asserts Population Will Surpass That of City — Need for More Facilities Stressed.

The residential and economic future of St. Louis county is at stake in the $44,732,500 bond issue to be submitted to the voters in the county at a special election Feb. 9. Msgr. P. J. Dooley, pastor emeritus of Holy Redeemer Catholic Church, Webster Groves, said today.

In a statement urging support of the bond issue for public improvements, Msgr. Dooley asserted that the growth of the county is the best argument for the need of development. He is a member of the Citizens' Bond Issue Committee and of the Public Works Advisory Committee, named to supervise the expenditure of the bond issue funds.

"St. Louis county probably has grown faster in the past several years than any other residential and business area in the United States," he said. "This growth has more than doubled the population of the county in the past few years, to a point where only some 40 communities in all the nation now have a larger population.

Growth to Continue.

"This growth will continue by leaps and bounds in the years ahead. It is only a question of time until the county's population will surpass that of the city of St. Louis."

The increase in population has out-distanced the development of facilities needed by the people, Msgr. Dooley said. This particularly is true so far as highways, medical care, health protection, recreational facilities, government buildings and facilities for the care of dependent children, mentally and chronically ill persons, and those suffering from tuberculosis are concerned, he added.

Reviews Effort.

Reviewing the effort expended by members of the St. Louis County Financial Advisory Committee in weighing the county's needs before recommending the bond issue proposals which are being submitted to the voters, he asserted:

"The bond issue deserves the hearty support of every voter in the county. Taxes required to support the issue will be extremely low and the payments for the bonds, it is estimated, will extend over a period of some 26 years.

"If the bond issue fails, the county will stand to lose some $45,000,000 in state and federal funds for highways in the county. This vast sum will come to the county 'for free,' provided the bond issue is passed.

"The county's future is at stake in the Feb. 9 election. Failure to pass this bond issue will set the county back many, many years."

Indorsement by Business Group.

The bond issue was indorsed yesterday by the Raleigh Luncheon Group, made up of 176 business men from Clayton and University City. A resolution adopted by the organization urged all county voters to support the proposal "because it is essential to the needs of the people."

"Passage of the bond issue will give us much-needed relief," Lee G. Stealey, president of the organization said. "Its defeat would be harmful to the central business and residential areas of the county."

Appointment of a Citizens' Campaign Committee for the town of Olivette to work for passage of the bond issue was announced by Carroll J. Donohue, chairman of the Olivette Citizens' Association. Virgil A. Poelker, a lawyer, was named chairman of the campaign committee.

LAST DAY FOR RESIDENTS OF COUNTY TO CHANGE ADDRESS FOR BOND VOTE

TODAY is the last day for residents of St. Louis county to notify the Board of Election Commissioners of a change of address within the county in time to be eligible to vote in the special bond issue election Feb. 9.

New registrations are not being accepted for the special election, board employes said. The canvass of registered voters was completed in the county last Wednesday, they said but a final tabulation of the number eligible to vote in the election has not yet been made.

APPARENT NEW TWIST IN NUMBERS RACKET REVEALED

Operators of a policy game raided here yesterday apparently had figured out a numbers racket on the numbers racket, Maj. James Thompson, head of the gambling squad, said today.

In most policy operations, result slips of winning numbers are distributed simultaneously with the pickup of bet slips. But when police arrested Amos Herron, Negro, at his home at 722 Stoddard street, they found a little different setup.

They found Herron and Mr. and Mrs. Odell Williams, 3117 Lucas avenue, examining bet slips. They also found a small, hand-operated printing press ready to run, and one freshly-printed result slip. In this particular game, said Thompson, there was a half-hour delay between pickup of bet slips and distribution of results.

Herron admitted managing the game and, with the Williamses, was booked suspected of establishing a lottery and suspected of possession of gambling paraphernalia. Although the three refused to admit it, Maj. Thompson said apparently the examination of betting slips was to determine if any of the tentatively selected "winning" numbers had received a heavy play.

ALTON WOMAN DETAINED FOR CARELESS WALKING

Mrs. Helen Wetzel, of Alton, arrested yesterday for careless walking, spent last night at Central District police station and today was fined $2 and placed on probation.

Judge Robert G. Dowd stayed the fine after Mrs. Wetzel testified that her hearing is impaired and she did not realize she was disobeying an officer's signals at Broadway and Olive street. Traffic Patrolman Walter Alewel testified he arrested Mrs. Wetzel when she brushed his hand aside as he tried to bar the way and continued across the street despite a warning.

Mrs. Wetzel, 52 years old, was held overnight when she was unable to furnish $500 bond. She gave her address as 502 South Anderson avenue, Alton.

MRS. EDWARD M. MEYERS DIES; MIRIAM SHOP MANAGER

Mrs. Edward M. Meyers, manager of the Miriam Thrift Shop, a philanthropic organization at 216 South Jefferson avenue, collapsed and died yesterday of a cerebral hemorrhage at Stix Baer & Fuller tea room downtown. She was 65 years old.

Mrs. Meyers, who was active in club work, the Red Cross and the National Council of Jewish Women, lived at 6007 Pershing avenue.

In addition to her husband, she is survived by a son, Robert F. Meyers, 7724 Carleton avenue, University City. Funeral services will be tomorrow at 3:30 p.m. at the Mayer undertaking establishment, 4356 Lindell, with interment in Valhalla Cemetery.

SHOT TO DEATH IN ROW

Charles C. Pettit, 2226A Chestnut street, was shot to death last night in the 2100 block of Market street in an altercation with Mrs. Marie Pettigrew, 2218 Chestnut street, a former friend of Pettit's.

Mrs. Pettigrew told police they had been drinking and became involved in a dispute over repayment of money she said Pettit had borrowed. Pettit attempted to get a revolver he kept in the glove compartment of his machine. She reached the weapon first, she said, and fired at Pettit. Both Pettit and Mrs. Pettigrew are Negroes.

PINE LAWN POLICE REVISIONS APPROVED

Recommendations Seek to Improve Force, Meet Grand Jury Criticism.

A series of recommendations by Mayor Raymond L. Horstdaniel of Pine Lawn for reorganizing and improving the police department of that city to meet criticism of a St. Louis county grand jury was approved last night at a special meeting of the board of aldermen.

Mayor Horstdaniel also asked the board to employ a special investigator to conduct an inquiry into the grand jury's charges that the Pine Lawn police were "untrained, inept and wholly incapable or unwilling to perform the minimum rudimentary duties of police work."

At the same time, the Mayor announced that he was lifting the suspension of Marshal William A. (Rocky) Cass, announced last week. Horstdaniel said he was uncertain of his power to remove or suspend an elected official and for that reason was reinstating Cass. He had charged Cass with failure to attend police court trials.

In his statement to the aldermen last night, Horstdaniel recommended:

That the three-man aldermanic welfare committee be charged with creating and bringing about the training of the city's regular and special police.

That one officer be enrolled in each session of the St. Louis Police Academy until the entire force has completed the course of training.

That if and when new officers are added to the force they be required to file applications like those required on the St. Louis force and that a thorough investigation be made of each applicant.

That salaries be increased so that there will be "no left-handed excuses or complaints."

That one more regular and one more special officer be employed.

That an adequate system of records be kept by the marshal, who is ex-officio chief of police, to make available information sought by other law enforcement agencies and that the welfare committee investigate every three months to see that these requirements are being observed.

That the marshal-chief of police be required to submit detailed monthly reports on the activities of the department.

That a new police car and motorcycle be purchased.

That after the next election of a marshal, that office be declared a full-time post with a salary substantial enough to attract well qualified men, and that rules and regulations for the department be enacted in an ordinance.

ECLIPSE OF MOON IS OBSCURED BY CLOUDY SKY HERE

The total eclipse of the moon was obscured by a heavy cloud blanket last night in the St. Louis area and throughout most of the Middle West, but viewers in other parts of the nation obtained excellent views of the phenomenon.

One airline pilot cruising above the overcast at an altitude of 7000 feet over Iowa reported the moon seemed to turn into a copper penny during the period of totality—8:17 to 8:47 o'clock. The characteristic hue is caused by the refraction of the suns rays as they pass through the earth's atmosphere.

Lunar eclipses occur when the earth comes directly between the sun and the moon. The next total eclipse will occur in November, 1956. A more interesting phenomenon—a total eclipse of the sun—will take place next June 30 but the path of totality will be several hundred miles north of St. Louis.

WOMAN ON WAY TO HAVE BABY FATALLY HURT IN CRASH

Mrs. Rollyn C. Trieman, 13C Lake Shore drive, House Springs, died at St. Louis Maternity Hospital after being injured in an automobile accident early today and giving birth a short time later to a child. The child was born dead. Mrs. Trieman was 32 years old.

Her husband was driving her to the hospital when he lost control of the automobile on an icy stretch of Gravois road on an approach to the Meramec bridge at Fenton. The machine plunged down a 20-foot embankment and turned over.

Mrs. William C. Bratton, Lindbergh boulevard, Affton, was seriously injured in an accident at the same place. Her husband saw the machine driven by Trieman go over the embankment. Bratton turned his automobile around to go to the aid of the Triemans. He also lost control of his machine and it went down the embankment.

TESTIFIES JURY LISTS ARE PICKED BY SAME METHOD

Commissioner Says, at Hearing of Alleged Reds, Uniform Standards Are Used.

Hearing on a motion to dismiss all prospective jurors scheduled for the trial of five alleged Communist leaders on charges of conspiring to advocate overthrow of the Government by force continued today before United States District Judge Roy W. Harper.

James J. O'Connor, clerk of the district court and a member of the jury commission, testified he had applied uniform standards in making deferments and rejections from prospective juror lists.

He identified a large number of questionnaires submitted by white persons who were subsequently rejected as prospective jurors on various grounds. O'Connor said yesterday that defense statements to the effect he had excluded persons on the sole ground they were Negroes were "absolutely in error."

Defendants in the case are William Sentner, James F. Forest, Mrs. Dorothy Rose Forest, his wife; Marcus A. Murphy, a Negro, and Robert Manewitz.

Manipulation Charged.

Mrs. Mary Kaufman of New York, attorney for Mrs. Forest and Manewitz, charged at the opening of the hearing that jury officials had "intentionally and systematically" limited representation of manual workers (on the jury list), overweighing the panel in favor of the owner-manager groups, and made the same limitation on representation of Negroes on the jury lists.

Questioned closely by Mrs. Kaufman about several jury qualification questionnaires of Negroes which he had marked exempt, O'Connor said there were eight which he had marked exempt inadvertently.

O'Connor testified that when this had been drawn to his attention by the motion now being heard, he immediately sent new questionnaires to the eight individuals.

In reply to another question, O'Connor said the jury commission had followed the practice of putting the letter N on the jury cards of Negroes.

It was done, he said, to make sure there were enough Negroes represented in the jury wheel. He added the practice had been terminated last month, but agreed that there were still some cards so marked when the jury panel for the case was drawn.

Analysis of Panels.

Mrs. Kaufman also offered a statistical analysis of jury panels drawn during the last five years purporting to show over-representation of the "owner-manager" group on the jury lists and the under-representation of Negroes.

The Government argued that to quash a jury it must be shown that any exclusion was intentional and systematic and pointed out that O'Connor and the jury commissioner had made affidavits that they never excluded any person because of race, color, creed or occupation.

Trial of the five alleged Communists under the Smith Act is scheduled to start Monday in Judge Harper's court.

Handling of County Juvenile Delinquents Called 'Chaotic'

Chief Probation Officer Says Centralized Police Agency Would End Confusion in Methods.

A centralized police authority would end a "confusing variety of methods" in handling the county's juvenile offenders, Ralph L. Smith, chief probation officer for the St. Louis County Juvenile Court and public welfare commissioner, said last night.

Many county police departments operate on a high level of efficiency on juvenile cases but others do not, Smith told members of the county Citizen's Commission on Law Enforcement.

"Many officers are completely unfamiliar with juvenile procedure. Some are puzzled and others are afraid to tackle such cases," he said.

Typical of "chaotic" conditions is the fact that 16-year-old licensed drivers, as minors, cannot be sent to traffic court, "although this is done by most communities illegally," Smith noted.

By a show of hands, commission members then indicated they would support a change in the law to permit court prosecution of such offenders.

'Patchwork' Law.

The present state law on juveniles is "a patchwork dating back to 1917, and is as outdated as that period of no traffic problem," Smith told the commission. He urged members to study House Bill 206, defeated in the state senate in the last legislative session, as a humane bill which allows broad action on juvenile cases "without the stigma of declaring the subject a delinquent."

State Representative A. Clifford Jones, commission member, interpolated that the bill's defeat was attributable to opposition from the St. Louis Juvenile Court. He said a committee of the Missouri Bar Association will discuss reintroducing the bill at a meeting later this month.

A "crying need" in the county is a "study institution" for youthful offenders "not acceptable for what we know as children's institutions," Smith said. If a child requiring psychiatric attention is referred to his office, it takes two months to get an appointment at the only available agency, the County Child Guidance Clinic, he informed the group.

Search for Foster Homes.

"We try to keep children at the detention quarters in the children's building for as short a time as possible, but sometimes we must keep them a year while we search for an institution or foster home for them. One 9-year-old boy, a repeating offender, will undoubtedly return there from time to time, until he reaches the magical age of 12 and can be sent to Boonville (Reformatory)," Smith continued.

Less than half the juvenile offenders in the county ever are brought to the juvenile department, and if they were, "I'd need 10 times the staff I have now," Smith declared. He has a staff of four social workers.

In answer to members' questions, he said he thought the county's total of juvenile offenses was low compared to areas, and that a training course for policemen would improve treatment of juveniles.

"These officers are groping their way through the problem, and they'd be happy to learn more, although their practices may be limited by what their superiors want," Smith commented.

Awaiting a revised opinion by its legal counsel on what recommendations it can make on law enforcement, the commission agreed to discuss members' suggestions at its next meeting Feb. 1.

Alternates proposed previously are a joint city-county police department, a consolidated county department, a voluntary police system for unincorporated areas and municipalities wishing to join it, and improvement and strengthening of the present sheriff's office.

NEW PARKING RULE SIGNS TO GO UP ON PART OF CASS

Traffic Division crews will start posting signs tomorrow on Cass avenue from Broadway to Easton avenue, putting into effect the no-parking provisions of the master traffic control ordinance, Traffic Commissioner Charles G. Gonter announced today.

Parking will be prohibited on the south side of Cass from 7 to 9 a.m. and on the north side from 4 to 6 p.m. daily except Sunday in accordance with the plan to bar parking on the side of heavier traffic flow during peak hours.

As in previous steps of this kind, police will hand out warning potices for violations the rest of this week. Enforcement, including the towing away the automobiles of persistent offenders, will begin Monday.

INDIA TO RETURN P.O.W.S DESPITE RED OBJECTIONS

been conducting meetings in an effort to get the talks started again but have made no progress.

The present problem would not have arisen if the prisoners had been processed, as provided for by the armistice, and separated after interviews into those who wanted to return to their own people and those who wanted to stay with their captors. Refusal of prisoners to co-operate and stalling by the Red interviewers caused the explanation program to collapse, after only a small proportion of the P.O.W.s had been interviewed.

Faced with the approach of the Jan. 22 date, and not wanting to decide on the disposition of the prisoners on their own responsibility, the Indians decided to return them to their captors ahead of the deadline. This decision, itself, violates the armistice, the Reds say.

"We demand that the chairman of the Neutral Nations Repatriation commission withdraw this proposal," the Communist letter said.

The Communist decision put the prisoners who said they wanted to remain with the Reds in an uncomfortable position, because it was believed the Indian command would withdraw its guards Saturday.

Armin Daeniker, Swiss delegate to the commission, said after a meeting Tuesday the prisoners could remain unguarded in the demilitarized zone "if they continued to receive logistical support."

By this, Daeniker meant they could remain in the cold north compound as long as the Communists sent them food, fuel and other necessities.

Reds Offer Troops.

(International News Service said the Communists offered to send Red troops into Korea's truce zone to "maintain order" if the P.O.W.s are kept in neutral custody.

(The Red commanders said they would "prevent acts of disturbance and intrusion against the location where the P.O.W.s are held in custody," INS reported, adding:

("Allied sources had warned that any Red military move into the two and a half mile-wide demiltarized zone would violate the armistice and might renew the Korean hostilities.")

Gen. John E. Hull, U.N. supreme commander in the Far East, flew to Korea on the eve of the release to inspect the huge camps built as collection points for the men.

Hull said he expected no interference from the Communists but intimated his troops were capable of dealing with any overt Red attempt to break up the release operation.

Hull said there were no enemy troop movements in the vicinity of the compounds.

"But they still have three days," Hull said.

ONLY 8 OF 60 NATIONS SO FAR HAVE APPROVED U.N. ASSEMBLY RECALL

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Jan. 19 (AP).

EIGHT nations, including the Soviet bloc, so far have approved India's proposal to recall the United Nations General Assembly Feb. 9 for debate on Korea. A majority of 31 of the 60 United Nations members must concur before the session can be held.

Those favoring such a meeting are Iraq, Guatemala, Liberia, the Soviet Union, White Russia, the Ukraine, Czechoslovakia and Poland.

India proposed the recall of the Assembly Jan. 10 and Mme. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit of India, the Assembly president, ordered the poll.

The United States has said it will await the outcome of the prisoner return in Korea, scheduled this week, before reaching a decision.

SAN FRANCISCO MAN IS RESCUED FROM KIDNAPERS

Maurice, a well-to-do retired real estate man and civic leader, immediately notified the police.

Late Sunday night a second special delivery note asked the family to hurry ransom arrangements.

The family placed a want ad in the Examiner advising the kidnapers they were unable to raise $500,000 ransom.

Then came the first telephone call, reducing the demand to $300,000 and saying:

"The kid is sick and we want to get rid of him."

The family acknowledged it was ready to go ahead with payment of the ransom by placing a second want ad in the Examiner Tuesday morning, reading:

"L. Ready to conclude sale. Please advice when and where to deliver."

Another telephone call followed and the caller told Alfred Moskovitz the method of making the pay-off would be revealed in a further contact.

The third ransom note, which Moskovitz wrote, confirmed the phone call and was delivered less than three hours after the call.

Pleads With Father.

Moskovitz pleaded with his father to meet the demands and said:

"For God's sake, don't try to bargain. They are willing to turn me loose for $300,000 and not a penny less."

The original note said the pay-off should be made in old bills that "must not be marked and not in sequence and not from just one Federal Reserve bank." The Greenlease ransom was all in new bills.

The money was to be placed in a "large strong" suitcase, secured "with four wide web straps." A rough drawing of how the suitcase was to be tied was included.

The third note asked for $100,000 in 20s, $100,000 in 50s and $100,000 in 100s."

In the course of the telephone conversation that trapped Lear, Alfred Moskovitz assured the caller that the ransom bills were not being marked and frequently asked him to speak louder.

'I Hear Someone Coming.'

Lear asked the twin to have lunch with him later in the week. Then he said: "I'll have to hang up now, Ollie. I hear someone coming."

It was the police who made the arrest.

At the Hall of Justice, Leonard, wearing wrinkled slacks and a topcoat, told reporters that the kidnapers tricked him into accompanying them on the pretense of wanting to make a real estate deal. But once they got him in the car they threatened him with a knife and said "one peep out of you and you're a dead man."

"I was sure glad to see those policemen appear," he said when he reached the police station.

At police request all news media withheld reporting the kidnaping until today. Police feared premature release of the story would endanger the victim's life.

By the Associated Press.

Leonard Moskovitz told reporters his kidnaping actually had its beginning last Wednesday when a Mr. Lund—"that's what Harry Jackson called himself—asked me to pick him up at City Hall" to take him to see a house.

"He said he wanted to meet his brother-in-law, who would have to help him out in the house deal," Moskovitz related.

"I thought it was curious but I drove out and stopped where he told me on Arbor street.

"We got out and he made sure that I stayed in front of him. He pushed me into the living room. He grabbed both my arms and pushed me down, sitting on top of me and said, 'Don't get exicted.'

"Another man then appeared. He had a knife and he said, 'One peep out of you and it's the end.'

"Then they said, 'We won't hurt you, we just want money. You and your old man have it and if he doesn't have it he knows where he can lay his hands on it right away.'

"They made several references to my father as being a Golden Gate bridge director and a big shot. I tried to impress on them that I just didn't have money like that—$500,000—but they seemed to be in a hurry for their money and wanted me to start writing letters demanding ransom.

'Gruesome' Letter.

"The first letter they dictated was so gruesome I pleaded with them not to use those words. I told them the shock of my being missing would be enough for my family without referring to cutting off parts of the human body."

During all this conversation, the younger of the two men, Lear, kept referring to "the big boss."

Moskovitz said Lear told him the boss was "a terrifying creature who would stop at nothing . . ."

"I succeeded in persuading them to let me make a few changes in the note. Then they took me into the bedroom and tied me down.

"On the second day they blindfolded me and were really sore when the answer appeared in the paper saying the $500,000 couldn't be raised.

"They threatened me again.

"Later they said they talked with the big boss, who said he would be willing to come down to $300,000 but not a penny less. . . .

"They made me write three other letters. The first explained how the ransom should be handed over. They planned that my father or brother should take the 7:45 p.m. Starlight (Southern Pacific train) to Los Angeles and they were to stand on the rear platform of the last sleeping car with the money in a suitcase. At some point, there would be a signal—a red light and green light flashing on and off for about 15 seconds.

"On this signal, the person would toss the bag with the money off the train.

"Another note—if the signal was missed—instructed the same procedure on the return train to San Francisco.

Pointed Out Fallacies.

"At this point I used whatever salesmanship I had to point out the fallacies of this plan, but it was not until 3 p.m. Monday that I got that point through.

"I told them it would be better to contact my brother, who could tell them how much money they had collected.

"At 12:45 a.m. today they took me out of the house to a phone booth and I talked to my brother. Then they took me back and the younger man went out.

"Mr. Lund went into another room and at about that moment I heard a terrific noise. I thought it was gunfire and I thought it was the end for me.

"Then I learned it was the police."

Parties Plan Early Meetings to Pick Candidates.

Democratic and Republican committees in the Fourth and Sixth State Senatorial districts here were attempting today to arrange early meetings to select their respective candidates for the Feb. 9 special elections.

Both parties expect to complete their meetings within the next two or three days so their nominees may be quickly certified to the Board of Election Commissioners. The Election Board hopes to be able to order the printing of the necessary ballots before the end of the week.

Several possible candidates for the Democratic tickets are being mentioned. Those under consideration in the Fourth district include State Representative Joseph W. Martino, James M. Webbe, a brother of the late Senator Webbe, and Deputy Constable Raymond S. Webbe, a cousin of the late Senator. James Webbe is chief clerk of the Board of Aldermen, and was named last year to succeed his brother as Democratic committeeman of the Seventh ward.

In the Sixth district, John P. Barrett, a painting contractor, is reported to be the leading Democratic candidate. He was an unsuccessful candidate for the Board of Education in 1949 and 1951. Other Democrats mentioned are State Representatives Thomas A. Walsh and John P. O'Reilly.

Chairman Ancel A. Skaggs of the Republican City Committee said he knew of no active Republican candidates for the two senatorial vacancies.

RUSSIA TO RAISE ASIATIC ISSUES

MOSCOW, Jan. 19 (UP)—The Communist party newspaper Pravda said today that a Big Five conference to include Red China will be pushed as one of the major issues at the Berlin Big Four meeting next week.

A Pravda editorial said Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov also will raise the related major issues of recogniation for Red China, a Korean political conference and an armistice in Indochina.

Other recent editorials have indicated that another major issue would be a system of European security guarantees between East and West.

But the Soviet Union unquestionably is opposed to reported western plans to propose such guarantees which would include the European Defense Community and the North Atlantic Treaty organization.

Editorials also have indicated that the Soviet Union still insists on the formation of an all-German government before German elections. The West insists on free elections first.

BIDS SOUGHT FOR NEW SOUND SYSTEM AT KIEL

The Board of Public Service announced today it would receive bids Feb. 23 for installation of a new sound amplifying system for Kiel Auditorium, to replace the present antiquated system. The city has received frequent complaints from users of the Convention Hall, Opera House and other parts of the building. Cost of a new system was estimated at $60,000.

Bids will be received Feb. 2 for installation of a new elevator in St. Louis Chronic Hospital, formerly the Infirmary, to make space available for 200 additional beds on the third and fourth floors. Officials said use of the space would relieve other city hospitals of care of the aged infirm.

The board received a recommendation from the City Plan Commission for widening of the roadway at the top of the levee to 44 feet from Chouteau avenue to Carr street, widening of Washington avenue from 32 to 60 feet at the north end of the riverfront memorial area and widening of Poplar street from 32 to 72 feet at the south end.

G.O.P. Publishes 4-Page Tract As Reply to Democratic Digest

Republicans Chide Their Opponents for Their More Costly Publication—Leaflet's Originality Emphasized.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 — The Republican National Committee's answer to the Democratic Digest was made today in a four-page tract called "Straight From the Shoulder, a Journal of Political Fact."

The No. 1, Volume 1 monthly issue of the Republican propaganda leaflet chided the Democrats for their more costly and ornate publication, the current issue of which is a 112-page job, with a three-color cover.

The Republicans said this about their journal:

"1. It is an original product; not a reprint of someone else's effort.

(The Democratic Digest in size and format similar to the Reader's Digest, is mostly reprints and condensations of newspaper and magazine articles, many from Republican publications. It is enlivened by numerous cartoons. It contains some original articles, including "Talk of the Nation," a light political essay modeled after the New Yorker magazine's "Talk of the Town.")

"2. It comes to you free of charge; it is not for sale by subscription, newsstand or shillelagh."

(The Digest sells for 25 cents on the newsstands and $3 for a year's subscription. Its present circulation is about 100,000 copies monthly, of which 65,000 are on subscription. It has no free list and local Democratic groups are said to have importuned their members to subscribe.)

"3. It will be circulated in the United States, its territories and possessions but not in Germany, France or Canada."

(When the first issue of the Digest appeared, Republicans criticized the Democrats for selling the magazine overseas and in Canada. The Republicans asserted "politics should stop at the water's edge." The Democrats replied that several hundred copies had been put on newsstands in London and Paris as a promotion stunt. The form printed in the magazine says that 50 cents a year should be added for foreign subscriptions.)

"4. It does not pretend to be the answer to anyone's one-party press."

(The back cover of the first issue of the Digest said the Magazine was the answer to the one-party press and a dream come true.

("For here, at last," the advertisement said, "is the answer to the one-sided opinion of the one-party press. Here, at last, is the magazine that—like Adlai Stevenson—will (talk sense to the American people)."

The Republican National Committee said the leaflet would be issued at regular intervals, at present on a monthly basis, and is being mailed to approximately 182,600 party leaders and workers. Mailing will be increased as requests are received.

The estimated cost for printing and mailing for the first year was given as between $75,000 and $100,000. The same charges for the Digest are running about $120,000 a year, but the magazine is not yet in the black because of editorial overhead. The Democrats hope to make their publication self-supporting and have set up a separate corporation to handle its finances.

Explaining how their publication differed "from others in the political field," meaning primarily the Digest, the Republicans said:

"It attempts to confine itself to politcal arguments based on Republican party principles, the Eisenhower Administration's programs and policies and the actions of Republican members of Congress.

"It will concern itself solely with national issues as viewed by both the Republican and Democratic parties. It will carry no cartoons or photographs—only an occasional device such as the one carried on the front page of the first issue. Its basic purpose is to strengthen the channels of communication between national headquarters and party workers at all levels."

The visual "device" referred to was a two-column plate—not a cartoon—showing a clocklike hand shifting from left to far right from "total state-managed economy" to "liberty-incentive economy."

The leading front page article began:

"The course has been changed. A twenty-year detour has ended.

"The old path: A managed economy and its inescapable pursuit of the total state.

"The new path: An incentive economy, and a return to the pursuit of liberty.

"The pilot: Dwight D. Eisenhower, thirty-fourth President of the United States."

There followed a review of Eisenhower's State of the Union message. The other long article was an exposition of Eisenhower's proposal to strip citizenship from all Americans found guilty of conspiring to advocate the overthrow of this Government by force and violence.

The editor of the new publication is James C. Austin, a member of the publicity department of the National Committee. Others listed on the masthead are National Chairman Leonard W. Hall and Robert Humphreys, director of public relations.

MATTHEWS WANTS STATE TO RUN EXPRESS HIGHWAY

A proposal that the city and county join in a request that the Missouri State Highway Commission take over operation and maintenance of the Express Highway was made today by County Supervisor Luman F. Matthews in a letter to Mayor Raymond R. Tucker.

The letter pointed out that the Express Highway is important to citizens of both the city and county in "everyday driving," and its maintenance is a drain on the "precarious finances" of the city. Matthews also observed that the highway is often closed in bad weather, necessitating detours over other city streets "to the great inconvenience of residents of those areas."

Supervisor Matthews suggested that he and the Mayor, "in the public interest," ask the highway commission to assume responsibility for operation and maintenance of the highway, "a service the commission is well qualified to perform. "The letter added that "users have every right to expect the highway commission to maintain a traffic facility used in interstate and intrastate traffic for all-weather purposes."

12 CALIFORNIA HILLSIDE FAMILIES FLEE MUD SLIDE

SIERRA MADRE, Calif., Jan. 19 (UP).—Sierra Madre Police Chief G. G. McMillan said today 12 families have left homes to escape rain water and mud flowing down the Sierra Madre mountains, burned bare by recent forest fires.

"No general evacuation of the 8000 residents has been planned," McMillan said. "Further evacuation depends on the rain storm." He said continued rain may force other families to move out "but there are plenty of areas on higher ground that will not be affected by the rain."

Four areas on the outskirts of Sierra Madre were hit by mud and water moving down the mountains early today. The mud streamed over slopes of the mountains where recent forest fires burned off protective brush and timber.

BILLION-DOLLAR EXPANSION FOR GENERAL MOTORS

Program Designed Mainly to Provide More Capacity for Its Automotive Divisions.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19 (AP)—General Motors today announced another billion-dollar expansion program designed mainly to provide additional capacity for G.M.'s automotive divisions.

Harlow W. Curtice, G.M. president, disclosed the undertaking in an address to business and industrial leaders at a luncheon preliminary to the opening Thursday of G.M.'s Motorama of 1954.

He said G.M. has spent two billion dollars on expansion since World War II and predicted a gross national product this year "approximately equal to the 365 billion estimated for 1953."

"No depression is in my vision," he said. "It is my belief the national economy will be strong and healthy throughout the year."

"There is one danger we must guard against—and that is psychological," Curtice said. "If those who persist in taking a pessimistic view of the future succeed in planting fear in the minds of the public, those seeds of fear could ttake root and the result might be the very condition we seek to avoid."

Public confidence, he said, "is a key factor in maintaining a high level of economic activity."

Curtice did not detail just where G.M. will spend the billion dollars involved in the expansion program which is to be completed by the fall of 1955.

The program, he said, "is being undertaken at this time to assure General Motors adequate capacity to enable us to keep pace with the normal growth of the market as we appraise it for the future."

Demands of the expansion project, he continued, "were one of the reasons for our recent $300,000,000 debt financing." Other reasons, he said, included need for working capital occasioned by rapidly growing sales volume; substantial advances by G.M. to some of its steel suppliers, and for taxes.

Curtice said G.M.'s defense sales last year totaled nearly two billion dollars. Defense business," he added, "requires proportionately more working capital than does our normal civilian business."

Of taxes he said "in the last four years, excess profits taxes alone payable by General Motors totaled about $700,000,000."

"The fact we are embarking on an unprecedented expansion program at this time," the G.M. president said, "is evidence we have confidence both in the immediate future and in the long-term growth of the market for our products. This program is a measure of our faith in our country."

Fisher Body Announces Sites of New Plant Facilities.

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19—While full details as to locations of the billion-dollar General Motors plant expansions were not given in its announcement today, Fisher Body announced that for its part new plant facilities would be in the following areas:

Kansas City, Mo., Janesville, Wis., Cleveland and Hamilton, O., Grand Rapids, Pontiac and Flint, Mich., and Pittsburgh, Pa.

JAMES ROOSEVELT SUES FOR SEPARATION FROM WIFE

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Jan. 19 (AP)—James Roosevelt, who separated five months ago from his second wife, Romelle Schneider Roosevelt, has sued for a decree of separate maintenance, alleging that she caused him "mental and physical anguish and distress."

They were married in Beverly Hills, Calif., in 1941. They met in 1938 in Rochester, Minn., where Miss Schneider, a hospital nurse, was assigned to Roosevelt's case when he had an abdominal operation.

The late President's eldest son said he is willing to pay a reasonable amount for support of his 38-year-old wife and their three children, James, 8; Michael, 7, and Anna Eleanor, 6, in accordance with his financial ability to pay." He did not ask for custody of the children, but for visitation rights.

Roosevelt, 46, once a Boston insurance broker, was Democratic national committeeman for California and in 1950 was defeated in the California gubernatorial race by Earl Warren, now Chief Justice of the United States.

Roosevelt's first wife was Betsy Cushing, daughter of the noted neurosurgeon, Dr. Havey Cushing of Boston.

A.&P. Anti-Trust Suit Settled; Big Chain Will Not Be Broken Up

Consent Decree Requires Food Store Organization to Dissolve Its Produce-Buying Subsidiary.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP)—A compromise settlement of the Government's anti-trust suit against the A.&P. food chain was announced today by Attorney General Brownell. The big retail chain will not be broken up.

The Attorney General said a consent judgment, accepted by both the Justice Department and the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co., was entered this morning in the United States District Court in New York City before Judge Edward A. Conger.

Brownell said the decree provides that A.&P. must move at once to dissolve Atlantic Commission Co., its produce-buying subsidiary. The subsidiary had been accused of functioning in an inconsistent dual role as a direct buyer for A.&P.'s 6000 retail stores scattered through 40 states, while at the same time acting as a selling agent for the A.&P. suppliers in sales to the big chain's retail competitors.

The civil anti-trust action in New York was brought in September 1949 by Attorney General McGrath after A.&P. had been convicted of criminal anti-trust law violations in a trial held at Danville, Ill., and had paid $175,000 in fines.

The McGrath suit specifically asked the New York court for an order requiring that the A.&P. retail chain be broken down into seven separate and independently owned retail food chains which would compete with each other.

The consent judgment places various strictures on A. & P.'s future operations. These were described by Brownell as designed "to protect A. & P.'s suppliers and competitors against unfair competition."

"Nothing in the decree will deter A. & P. from continuing to sell groceries at prices which would normally result from the efficiency of its buying and selling operation or from any other lawful use of its merchandising skill and extensive distribution facilities," he said.

Control Put on Prices.

The department said that A. & P.'s far-flung manufacturing and processing corporations may sell their own manufactures to the outside trade but must do this at prices no higher than those charged A. & P.'s own retailing outlets.

The original McGrath suit charged the company with trying to throttle competition by selling below cost in selected areas and recouping these losses through sales at higher prices in other less competitive areas.

"Today's judgement," the Justice Department said, "hits at this traditionally unlawful practice of enjoining the defendants from assigning or approving any gross profit rate, for the purpose of eliminating competition, with knowledge that it will result in the operation of any A. & P. division at a loss."

The suit identified George L. Hartford of Montclair, N.J., and John A. Hartford of Westchester county, N.Y., as owners of all of A. & P.'s voting stock. The latter is now dead.

$2,500,000 Divorce Settlement.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 19 (AP)—A common pleas judge today granted Mrs. Dudley S. Blossom Jr. an uncontested divorce and approved a property settlement of $2,500,000. Mrs. Blossom, 37 years old, testified her husband "treated me like a paid housekeeper and humiliated me in the presence of friends." The couple separated nearly a year ago after 16 years of marriage.

THOUSANDS LEAVE HOMES AFTER JAVA VOLCANO ERUPTS

JAKARTA, Indonesia, Jan. 19 (AP)—Thousands of Javanese fled their homes today in the wake of an eruption of the volcano Merapi. The first big blow-off yesterday killed 25 persons and injured 66 others. Officials said 2000 persons had been moved out of the immediate area and that thousands of others were leaving their homes.

In 1006 the volcano wiped out a Hindu-Buddhist kingdom then flourishing in central Java. The toll in the last major eruption, in 1950, was 7000 dead. About 1,900,000 persons live on the 9950-foot mountain's fertile eastern and southern slopes and in the surrounding valleys.

The eruption yesterday was preceded by two tremors, five hours earlier. Later a thick rain of ash fell in a 17-mile radius. A stream of lava is reported moving toward the town of Bojolali.

Tax Delinquent Found Executed.

Mathews to See Quinn Again Today About Big Pay Increase

Brooklyn lightweight CARMINE FIORE stings FREDDIE (BABE) HERMAN of Los Angeles during the third and final round of their scheduled 10-rounder at Brooklyn. Fiore won on a technical knockout at the end of the third round when the bout was stopped because Herman complained that his right leg was paralyzed.

Richards Admits Yanks Should Finish Second.

SITTING around Hot Stove League winter baseball sessions seems to have caused some of our brightest baseball minds to run a temperature and give off hot air. . . . In the case of Paul Richards, manager of the White Sox, this led to mid-winter forecasts for his team which, he told listeners during a recent dinner talk, should win the league pennant this year.

He conceded the Yanks second place, but couldn't see the Cleveland Indians finishing better than fourth behind the prospective third place Red Sox.

* * *

There's no law against optimism, so Paul is willing to demote the Yanks to second, when most of the baseball world seems ready to concede them a sixth consecutive pennant and a possible sixth consecutive world title.

* * *

When it comes to long sequences, baseball has had them before. . . . The Giants one season won 26 consecutive games—and barely finished in first division. . . . In the betting field at Monte Carlo, the red once turned up 26 successive times over the black, on the roulette table. . . . So it doesn't seem safe to take the stand that five times in a row is the last word in consecutive world baseball championship victories.

* * *

In any case, the White Sox, a club without a competent third baseman as yet, with not enough outstanding pitchers and not enough power-punch at the plate, should not be majoring in optimism so soon. . . . The Casey Stengels may be ageing—but guessers said that last year. . . . You have to decide whether it's probable or just wishful thinking when clairvoyants predict the crack-up of the Yanks.

* * *

Marciano Easy for Good Boxer'—Bucceroni.

DAN BUCCERONI, fourth ranking challenger among the heavyweights, according to Ring Magazine, isn't figuring much in the news about World Champion Rocky Marciano's next defense of his title. . . . He has been mentioned for a fight with Rocky, but Charles and Nino Veldes are getting the most of the headlines.

Bucceroni is thinking seriously about himself as a contender and tells Russ Hodges about it in Real Magazine now on the newsstands. He told TV Commentator Hodges he "can outbox and outpunch" the "clumsy and crude" Marciano who "does not know how to fight."

* * *

Later on in the article Dan goes still farther when he adds: "He (Rocky) is strong but that's all I can say for him. . . . He's not nearly as terrific a hitter as they've made him out to be. . . . A good boxer could take him easy."

* * *

SO far there's nothing to justify this last statement. . . . Rocky's record shows 45 pro fights with 40 of them ending in knockouts and five in decision victories. He beat a fair boxer in Roland La Starza, and he twice stopped a smart, clever foe, former Champion Jersey Joe Wolcott. . . . Jersey Joe was quite a man, having kayoed former Champion Charles once, defeated him on points another time, and had Joe Louis on the floor three times in two title battles when Louis was champion.

We'd like to see Bucceroni fight Marciano. . . . It ought to be an evening of block busters, because Daniel can throw a rather atomic glove himself, and is willing to trade wallops. . . . But no mere good boxer is going to "take Marciano easy."

* * *

Danny's not so nifty. . . . La Starza outpointed him last year. . . . And you know what Rocky did to him. . . . Chances are, though, Dan would mak it more interesting against Marciano than Ezzard Charles, who seems likely to get the first crack at the title.

Native Dancer Will Return to the Races.

NATIVE DANCER will return to racing and go out to extend his already wonderful record of 18 victories in 19 races, his only defeat coming in the Kentucky Derby, which — so observers have commented — he might have won in another stride or two.

Recovered from his injury of late last season, the Dancer is in training and will be ready for several of the 100 grand stakes on the year's agenda. . . . A big, strong horse, full of vitality, he might go on to try for national all-time thoroughbred supremacy of this country by surpassing the achievements of Man O'War and Citation.

As a 4-year-old, winning will be more difficult for the Dancer because in all handicaps he will carry top weight. . . . The more he wins the higher his weight allotment will soar. . . . In such cases they almost inevitably weight a top handicap winner into defeat.

Kirksville Rallies to Beat Cape Girardeau

KIRKSVILLE, Mo., Jan. 19 (AP)—Kirksville caught fire in the second half to thump Cape Girardeau 72-63 here last night in a M.I.A.A. basketball tilt.

Jack Beck led the Kirksville attack with 21 points. Ray Rippelmeyer was high for Cape Girardeau with 19.

Cape Girardeau held a 30-29 half-time edge after staying in front during most of the first two periods.

Gus Bell, Pierce and Sauer Sign

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Jan. 19 (UP) — Home Run King Eddie Mathews may find out today whether he can switch jobs and still get a substantial salary increase.

The 22-year-old Santa Barbara (Calif.) slugger, who led the major leagues in home runs in 1953 with 47, will confer with General Manager John Quinn of the Milwaukee Braves about his 1954 contract. He also planned to talk with Club President Lou Perini.

Mathews announced willingness to abandon his accustomed position at third base in order to play in the outfield if Manager Charlie Grimm so wishes.

"I don't think we'll have any trouble," Mathews said about the contract conference. "I'm sure we'll reach an agreement.

"I think I can play third base as well as anybody, but I want Charlie to know I'll play any place he puts me. . . whatever is good for the team."

New Braves' Infielder.

Mathews played in the outfield on an all-star tour of Japan last fall, and since he came back, the Braves have acquired Danny O'Connell, a second or third baseman, from Pittsburgh.

Thus far Grimm has indicated that O'Connell would be assigned to second base, but Mathews, who said he had no preference between third base and the outfield, thought that if the manager wanted to play Jack Dittmer at second, O'Connell could play third and he could play in the outfield.

Mathews talked with Quinn for about 10 minutes yesterday, but he said they barely discussed his contract. He said "he didn't expect to be a holdout."

Mathews was reported to have received $12,000 last year, including a late season raise of about $4000.

Gus Bell Gets Increase.

Gus Bell, a center fielder obtained by the Cincinnati Redlegs from Pittsburgh last season, today signed his 1954 contract calling for what club officers said was a "substantial and well deserved salary increase."

Bell was the twenty-first Redleg to sign his contract for the coming season. The Club announced earlier in the day that Infielders Rocky Bridgers and Connie Ryan, Outfielder Lloyd Merriman and Pitcher Jack Collum had signed contracts.

The Chicago Cubs announced the signing of outfielders Hank Sauer, Hal Jeffcoat and Rookie Don Robertson and Bruce Edwards, whom the Cubs consider a third baseman. They now have signed 11 players.

Sauer expressed the hope that he could repeat the year he had in 1952 next season in a letter which accompanied his contract and said he was in good condition. The National League's most valuable player in 1952, Sauer broke bones in his hands three times last season and finished the campaign with a .263 average and only 19 homers.

The Chicago White Sox revealed that they had signed Left-hander Billy Pierce, increasing their list of satisfied players to 16. Pierce posted an 18-12 record last season, struck out a league-leading total of 186, ranked second in shutouts with seven and beat the New York Yankees four times. He was believed to have signed for $25,000.

The Philadelphia Athletics announced that six more players, including Pitcher Bob Cain, have signed contracts for 1954. Besides Cain, who was obtained recently from the Baltimore Orioles for Pitchers Joe Coleman and Frank Fanovitch, the club signed Infielders Jack Littrell and Tom Giordano, Outfielder Ed McGhee and Pitchers Art Ditmar and Mario Fricano.

The Philadelphia Phillies revealed that former Yankee infielder George Stirnweiss would be the manager of their Schenectady farm club in the Eastern League. He replaces Skeeter Newsome, who will manage Syracuse in the International League.

Outfielder Mel Clark signed his 1954 contract with the Phillies today.

TKO Victory Nets Fiore a Feb. 12 Date

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Jan. 19 (UP)—Welterweight Carmine Fiore, whose terrific left hook temporarily paralyzed Freddie (Babe) Herman, arranged today to make his next ring appearance on Feb. 12 at Madison Square Garden.

His opponent probably will be the winner of Friday's Garden fight between Vince Martinez and Rocky Casillo.

Fiore, a converted southpaw, registered his sixth straight victory last night at the Eastern Parkway Arena on a technical knockout over Herman of Los Angeles in the third round. Fiore was a 3-1 favorite.

Fiore of Brooklyn landed a left hook to the body shortly before the bell ended action in the third round. The blow caused great distress to the slender Herman but he was able to clinch and staggered to his corner at the bell.

Dr. Samuel Swetnick examined Herman in the corner and reported that the left hook to the solar plexus had paralyzed Herman's right leg and he would be unable to continue. Referee Jack Watson awarded Fiore a technical knockout victory in the third round according to New York rules, since the bell had not rung to start action in the fourth.

The paralysis was only temporary and Herman recovered the complete use of his leg within five minutes after being assisted to the dressing room.

Fiore scaled 146¾ pounds to Herman's 140.

The television fight was action-packed until the final punch, and it was loudly applauded by the 1500 fans at the arena. It was Fiore's fifty-first victory in 65 professional fights.

Poor Behavior at Prep Games Draws Student Council Scrutiny

By John J. Archibald

There has been no incident in St. Louis to compare with the recent rowdyism in Detroit when a crowd of spectators attacked players on a high school basketball team, but the matter of poor behavior on the part of fans at prep games was the topic of a city-wide meeting of student representatives yesterday. Members of the All-City High School Student Council tackled the problem in their monthly meeting at McKinley High.

The Detroit affair, in which the captain of the winning team was critically injured and all night high school sports were barred as the result, was pointed out as an example of what increasingly poor sportsmanship can lead to.

Some type of reward for schools displaying good sportsmanship was discussed. Suggestions included trophies, certificates, and an extra school holiday.

Schools represented included one or more members of the Public, Prep, and ABC Leagues, as well as several independents.

Methods of grading the various groups of fans was one of the problems. Walter Williams, manager of the Public League, Frank Sskwor, the council's sponsor, and newspaper representatives were among the guest speakers.

Committees of students will present various types of grading sheets when the council meets next month at Principia Academy. Whether to have game officials or faculty members do the judging was not decided. The plan, if adopted, would not go into effect until the fall semester.

It was Williams who suggested the topic of the decline in sportsmanship. The council has aided in remedying several other problems dealing with high school sports in the past.

Excessive "riding" of referees by partisan crowds was especially condemned by the group, and booing of opposing players, attempts to distract them during crucial plays, and other forms of rowdyism were among the evils discussed.

Injury to Keep Maplewood Star Out Two Weeks

Bob (Sparky) Harris, leading scorer of the Maplewood High basketball team, will be lost to the squad for about two weeks, it was learned today. Harris injured his foot during the St. Charles game last Friday and will be unable to play tonight against Ladue.

Coach Howard Sanders said Harris stepped on some peanut shells or some straw on the floor at St. Charles, causing Sparky to injure the tendons in his foot.

Friday night Maplewood is scheduled to play Ritenour in what could be a battle for the lead in the Suburban race. Both schools have 3-0 league records going into tonight's round.

Ritenour will be at home to St. Charles tonight. Other league games are Ferguson at Kirkwood, Webster at Clayton, Wellston at Normandy and University City at Brentwood.

200 Attended Game to Fight, Says Boy Who Admits Stabbing Of Detroit High School Player

DETROIT, Jan. 19 (AP)—A 16-year-old boy has admitted the ice pick stabbing and serious wounding of a high school basketball player which has led to a ban on all major night-time athletics in Detroit's public prep schools.

The ban, a drastic action without precedent here, was ordered by School Superintendent Arthur Dondineau yesterday after a swift huddle with school principals. Their meeting lasted only five minutes.

In the background was a long period of youngster hoodlumism at prep after-dark games. Public concern has long been evident.

A problem in athletics financing is almost certain to result from the ban.

Football income will be affected particularly. The ban includes both football and basketball. All games now must be played in the day time.

Boy in Serious Condition.

The stabbing victim, Ross DeBoskey, 17, Mackenzie High School star, remained in serious condition at receiving hospital. One lung was punctured. He was stabbed in the back.

Police said the boy who admitted the stabbing told of it this way:

"Somebody else had his (DeBoskey's) head and everybody else was beating him, so I stuck him."

Police Inspector Ralph Baker said the 16-year-old, a college preparatory student, admitted the stabbing after all-day questioning. The stabbing took place Friday night.

The boy said he was accustomed to carrying the ice pick "just for protection," police said.

Police have arrested 14 youths.

Rumors of Trouble.

According to police, the boy who admitted the stabbing said "word" had been going around Central High School the day before the game that there would be a fight.

The boy is a student at Central. Central played Mackenzie the night of the trouble.

More than 200 boys went to the game from Central expressly to get into a fight, the boy was quoted as saying.

School officials said the ban on night football would probably mean a loss of $35,000 from next fall's games.

The Board of Education plans two new football stadiums for which $500,000 has been appropriated.

Superintendent Dondineau commented:

"I hope some day we will be able to go back to night contests because I think it is a good form of social activity for the children. However, I don't think we will go back until we have time to reorganize the thinking of the children. That may take two or three years."

Schlundt Adds Two More Records as Indiana Routs Ohio State

Iowa Five Wins From Illinois

NEW YORK, Jan. 19 (AP)—At his present pace big Don Schlundt is going to run out of records to break long before he finishes his spectacular basketball career at Indiana University.

The 6 foot 9 inch center, just approaching the midway point in his junior year, already owns the individual scoring records for many of the midwest's main basketball arenas. Last night, he added two more prizes to his long string—the Big Ten mark and the record for his home floor at Bloomington.

Shooting with amazing accuracy Schlundt scored 47 points as the Hurrying Hoosiers ran away from Ohio State 94-72 for their sixth straight conference triumph.

The old Big Ten mark of 43 by Iowa's Dick Ives had stood for 10 years. Schlundt's total was 11 above the former Indiana fieldhouse mark as he connected on 16 field goals in 27 attempts and on 15 of 17 free throws.

Indiana, No. 3 behind Kentucky and Duquesne, was the only member of the nation's top 10 teams in action last night. Three of the second 10 were busy with Maryland, No. 14, whipping Virginia 70-56; Kansas, No. 17, defeating Iowa State 76-61 and Illinois, No. 20, losing to Iowa 79-70.

Logan and Cain Shine.

The Illini couldn't match a brilliant fourth quarter show by Bill Logan and Carl Cain, who scored 13 points between them in the last 10 minutes. Iowa now has a 4-1 conference record, good for second place.

Illinois held a one-point lead —38-27—at halftime and the Illini were tied with the youthful Hawkeyes at 52-52 just after the start of the final period.

But then Logan, who had sat out much of the game after drawing four early fouls, was sent back in. He scored seven of his 14-point total in the final period and Cain added six of his 24-point total.

The game was rough in spots, with Iowa's ace forward, Deacon Davis, tangling at different times with Illinois' Jim Dutcher and Ed Makovsky. None was banished from the game, although officials twice halted play to warn players of both sides.

Illinois's Johnny Kerr, the Big Ten leading scorer, topped point making for the night with 29 points.

It was Iowa's first basketball victory in 26 years on the Illinois floor.

Make Good on Free Throws.

Wisconsin made 28 of 30 free throws in defeating Michigan State 57-53 in a Big Ten game. Two foul shots by Sub Bobby Delpit with seven seconds left gave Tulane a 63-61 Southeastern Conference decision over Tennessee. Davidson surprised Virginia Tech with a second-half splurge that brought an 87-69 Southern Conference victory.

Tulsa held Murray State to four points in the final 15 minutes in scoring a 61-51 overtime verdict. The Kentuckians were blanked completely in the overtime session.

Wyoming climbed into a tie with Colorado A. & M. in the Skyline Conference by edging New Mexico, 56-53. West Texas State took over the lead in the Border Conference with its fourth in a row, 67-60, over New Mexico A. & M.

Tulane's triumph over Tennessee put the Green Wave in third place in the Southeastern behind Louisiana State and Kentucky as Vanderbilt stumbled before Mississippi, 78-74.

Rice moved back into contention in the Southwest Conference by beating Arkansas 80-55 on a second-half flurry sparked by Don Lance. Texas Christian defeated Baylor 73-60 with Henry Ohlen scoring 24 points.

Bradley rolled over Houston 86-71 and Seton Hall made the poorest defensive showing of its basketball history in bowing to John Carroll, 94-86.

Hollywood Hurler Is Rookie of the Year

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 19 (UP)—George O'Donnell, with a pitching record of 20-12 for Hollywood last year, was named as the Pacific Coast League baseball writers association rookie of the year.

O'Donnell, now the property of the Pittsburgh Pirates, set the league afire by winning six straight games at the start of the 1953 season after coming here from New Orleans of the Southern Association.

O'Donnell was the third member of the championship Hollywood team to win league honors. Manager Bobby Bragan previously had been picked as manager of the year and First Baseman Dale Long was chosen the league's most valuable player for hitting 35 homers and driving in 116 runs.

Tulsa Drops Spring Sports to Cut Mounting Athletic Deficits

TULSA, Okla., Jan. 19 (AP) — The University of Tulsa, a member of the Missouri Valley Conference, dropped its spring sports program yesterday in a step toward trimming mounting athletic deficits.

In a terse announcement on which he said there would be no elaboration, Dr. C. I. Pontius, university president, said the school's board of trustees voted unanimously to continue only the football and basketball programs.

The decision to abandon tennis, golf, baseball and track also was unanimous, Pontius added.

Prior to yesterday's meeting of the trustees it had been reported they might act to curtail the football or basketball programs as well.

It has been estimated the elimination of the spring sports will save anywhere from $7000 to $10,000 annually.

Since Tulsa closed a losing football season last fall there have been recurring newspaper reports that part or all of its intercollegiate athletic program was jeopardized by climbing costs and dwindling revenue.

Unofficial estimates have set the losses for the 1952-53 participation in all sports at close to $90,000, about $50,000 of which reportedly was eliminated by public subscriptions to a Tulsa quarterback club fund-raising campaign. Other estimates have set the possible deficit for 1953-54 as high as $125,000.

In St. Louis, Arthur Eilers, commissioner of the Missouri Valley Conference, said he was sorry to hear about the university's decision, but added "they know their own problems."

The departure of Tulsa from spring sports leaves tennis, golf and baseball a five-team valley affair. The track championship, with St. Louis University failing to field a team last spring, apparently will become a four-way contest among the other members—Oklahoma A & M, Houston, Wichita and Detroit.

Tennessee Will Not Be Punished by SEC

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Jan. 19 (AP)—Southeastern Conference Commissioner Bernie Moore will not punish Tennessee for failing to inform other SEC schools of its athletic scholarship awards because it was a "technical error."

Moore said last night he telephoned Tennessee Football Coach Harvey Robinson at Knoxville and was told the University's scholarship committee had a new secretary who probably forgot to send the other schools a list of high school athletes who signed aid grants with Tennessee.

"If it was just a technical error—and I believe it was, because my office was notified," Moore said, "I see no reason why Tennessee should be punished."

The Atlanta Journal said that Tennessee had violated a conference agreement by failing to send the scholarship lists to all other members.

Orioles Sell 14 Players to Richmond Club

BALTIMORE, Jan. 19 (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles, now in the American League, sold rights to 14 of their minor league players yesterday for $50,000 to Richmond, their International League successors.

Seven of the players played for the Orioles in the International last year, five didn't play anywhere and two were in military service.

Last year's performers were Pitchers Ken Heintzelman, Dick Starr, and Wimpy Nardella, Third Baseman Russ Kerns, Outfielders Marv Rackley and Roy Weatherly, and Catcher Marty Tabacheck. Rackley was the team's leading hitter at .317.

Pitcher Joe Ares and Infielder Ed Kasko are the returning servicemen being transferred to Richmond which along with Havana, Cuba, was admitted to the International League this year. Havana replaced Springfield, Mass.

The other five players in the sale belonged to the Orioles, but preferred not to play last season. They are Pitchers Blix Donnelly, Ray Poat, and Gordon Mueller, First Baseman George Byam and Outfielder Butch Woyt. Only Mueller is considered a possibility to come out of retirement.

Art Ehlers, Oriole general manager, said the straight cash sale involved nothing of a working agreement between the American League team and Richmond. The Orioles have no triple AAA farm team or agreement with one.

Representing Richmond in the negotiations which were started a month ago were Harry Seibold, the owner, and Elmer Burkhart, general manager.

Little Mo Plans One More Foreign Invasion

CHICAGO, Jan. 19 (INS)—Maureen (Little Mo) Connolly, 19-year-old women's world tennis queen, plans one more conquest of England, France and the United States before she weds her sailor sweetheart early in 1955.

Maureen, honored yesterday in Chicago as the career girl of 1953 by the National Sporting Goods Association, said her big present ambition is to win again at Wimbledon in England, in France and in the United States tournament.

She flew back to California shortly after she received the career award but not before she said that she plans to marry sailor Norman Brinker, now stationed in Honolulu, as soon as he is out of the service.

Little Mo said that Doris Hart was the best opponent she has met in the course of her tennis tourneys.

'Greatest of Sports Letters,' Tatum Says

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Jan. 19 (INS)—Maryland University Football Coach Jim Tatum has received what he called "the greatest of all sports letters."

It was from Mrs. Ola Grigg of Sherman, Tex., mother of Larry Grigg, Oklahoma halfback whose touchdown gave the Sooners an upset victory over Maryland in the Orange Bowl game at Miami.

Mrs. Grigg told Tatum that after the game "Maryland people came to me and congratulated me for having the boy that made the winning touchdown."

She added: "I want to congratulate you for being in a state that shows such fine sportsmanship."

Tatum's comment: "I want the whole country to know what a wonderful mother Larry Grigg has. It is the greatest of all sports letters."

U.S. Sled Team Beats Record, Trails Italians

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy, Jan. 19 (AP)—An Italian two-man bobsled broke Cortina's two-day-old course record today to show the way to the speed kings of seven other nations in time trials for the world championship races this weekend.

Driver Guglielmo Scheibmeier and Brakeman Andrea Zambelli streaked down the twisting, icy 1700-meter slide in 1:26.33 to beat 21 other sleds and shave nearly a secon doff the course record set Sunday.

An American team of Lloyd Johnson of Rapid City, S. D., and Army Sgt. Pat Biesladecki of Ware, Mass., also beat the old record, but trailed the Italians by half a second.

The course record set Sunday in Italy's national championships by Italo Petrelli and Luigi Ficoli was 1:27.08. That pair, driving the new style Italian sled which set that record, was way back today, nearly a second behind Scheibmeier's old, conventional sled.

Johnson, holder of the world four-man title, is working as a civilian in Germany. He was not entered in the two-man event and was allowed to run in the trials only under a last-minute decision of the International governing committee. He is not expected to participate in the championships.

The official United States entries were far down the list in today's trials. The No. 2 sled piloted by Stanley Benham of Lake Placid, N.Y., with James Bickford of Saranac Lake, N.Y., as brakeman finished fifth with a time of 1:27.70. The No. 1 sled with Arthur Tyler and Edgar Seymour of Rochester, N.Y., was ninth in 1:28.70. An alternate United States sled with Capt. Dick Severino of Saratoga Springs, N.Y., and Airman 1-C James Stearns of Saranac Lake, was timed in 1:29.78.

Lakers Defeat Hawks To End Losing Streak

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 19 (UP)—The Minneapolis Lakers ended a four-game losing streak in the National Basketball Association professional league by handily trouncing Milwaukee 91-72 in the Municipal Auditorium here last night.

The Lakers were never threatened and the Milwaukee Hawks could never get closer than 15 points to them after the opening minutes of play.

Clyde Lovellette, making his professional debut at Kansas City, scene of many of his Big Seven triumphs, scored 10 points in the first half and six in the second for a total of 16. But he had to yield high point honors to his teammate Vern Mikkelson, former Hamline star, who scored 18 points. Milwaukee's top performer was Don Sunderlage, the former Illinois great, tossed in seven baskets and two free throws for 16 points.

Braves Sign No-Hit Star.

CLAREMONT, N. H., Jan. 19 (AP)—Rudy Fortin, a 19-year-old righthander who hurled four no-hit games for St. Mary's High School last spring, has signed a minor league contract with the Milwaukee Braves' farm club in Evansville, Ind. Fortin's four-year high school record included 28 victories, eight losses and 474 strikeouts in 272⅔ innings. Evansville is in the Class A Three-I League.

Southern Association Attendance Dropped 9 Per Cent Last Year

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 19 (AP)—Attendance at Southern Association baseball games in 1953 was 9 per cent less than in 1952, but the league still had its ninth best year in 53 years, Charles Hurth, president of the Southern Association, said today.

The total paid attendance for the regular season was 1,327,926. Of the 38 minor leagues, only the Pacific Coast, International and American Association, all higher leagues, topped the Southern Association, an AA group, in attendance.

Another 63,334 fans paid their way in to see the league playoffs. The all-star game and the Dixie Series games, both of which were played in Nashville, drew 7569 and 9022, respectively.

Atlanta led the league with a home attendance of 290,510.

Finch, Thym Are Stopped By Mississippi

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 19—Ole Miss had the antidote for Vanderbilt's 1-2 scoring power, Dan Finch and Bobby Thym, and the Commodores had their third defeat on the records today, a 78-74 setback at the hands of the Rebels.

Finch, who Saturday night tied the all-time Vanderbilt scoring record with 36 points, could only get 12 Monday night. Thym, the Commodores second best scorer, tallied the same.

Meanwhile, Denver Brackeen and Cob Jarvis were pouring in 27 and 23 respectively for Ole Miss.

However, the two Reb stars had to give ground to Babe Taylor. Vanderbilt's sophomore guard who tallied 28 points for the evening.

The Rebels had to overcome a three-point Vanderbilt advantage late in the third period to gain the verdict. Ole Miss was equal to occasion outscoring the Commodores, 6-2 in the final three minutes and 12 seconds of the third period. That spurt enabled the Rebels to hold a 53-49 margin at the end of the third quarter.

Bluth Trails Campi by 242 Pins in Match-Game Qualifications

Easterner Leads With 3696 Total

CHICAGO, Jan. 19 (AP)—Two former St. Louis bowlers will carry the hopes of St. Louis for a berth in the finals of the national all-star bowling when the final four game qualifying block is rolled.

Tom Hennessey, who now bowls out of Detroit, is seventeenth in the standings with 3568, while Hank Lauman, now of Los Angeles, ranks thirteenth with 3585.

Both stand a good chance of gaining one of the final berths.

Among the women, Laverne Carter, wife of defending champion Don Carter, formerly of St. Louis and now of Detroit, has the best chance of being among the women finalists. Laverne currently ranks eighth with 2327.

Ray Bluth is the St. Louis leader with 3454, 242 pins behind the leader, Woody Hulsey has 3418, Richard Volling 3380 and Harry Uphouse 3349. Gwinnette Herbert has 2097 among the women and Ida Mae Gotch 2188.

Campi Takes Lead.

A pair of wrong way bowlers, Tess Johns of Cleveland and Lou Campi of Dumont, N.J., paced the 224 bowlers in the qualifying trials.

Campi, who once shared the national doubles crown, moved into the men's lead with a 3696 total for 18 games, four more than Earl Johnson of Tacoma, Wash., and 12 ahead of veteran Pete Carter of Detroit who is third.

Campi, a 48-year-old contractor, violates one of the cardinal principles of bowling as on the approach, he finishes on his right foot rather than the left foot as do the rest of the conventional men stylists.

Mrs. Johns, a 34-year-old housewife, only throws the experts for a loss as she throws the bowling ball with her left hand rather than her right. If she manages to win the qualifying trials, she will be the first left-hander in history to do so.

Trailing Mrs. Johns are Olga Gloor of Chicago, who posted 920 for four games, the second highest series ever rolled by a woman in the all-star, and Doris Knechtges, a veteran performer from Detroit. Mrs. Johns has 2385 pins for 12 games, Mrs. Gloor, 2377, and Miss Knechtges, 2371.

McMahon Adds to Lead.

In the special matches, Mrs. Marion Ladewig, Grand Rapids, Mich., the defending and only women's champion, extended her lead to 29 pins over 1952 runner-up Shirley Garms of Palatine, Ill., 2176-2146.

Junie McMahon, of Fairlawn, N.J., a former champion, continued his mastery over defending champion Don Carter of Detroit as he took a commanding 3626-3487 lead with only 18 games to roll.

Penn Favors Return To 'Ivy Group' Sports

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 19 (UP)—The University of Pennsylvania trustees adopted an athletic committee report yesterday calling for "a closer athlete relationship with the 'Ivy group.'"

Full details of the plan, in effect an Ivy League round robin in all sports, must wait until it is approved by the trustees of all member schools.

Robert T. McCracken, chairman of the trustees, said the final announcement will be made by Dr. Grayson Kirk of Columbia University, possibly this spring.

The report, which McCracken said "clarifies rather than initiates policies," stated that it "should be the policy to assist actively in creation of more formalized leagues or conferences with natural rivals in various sports, including football, basketball, baseball, soccer, swimming, rowing and track."

"We believe the University should endeavor to maintain a closer athletic relationship with the 'Ivy group' and should reaffirm its desire to adhere to the letter and spirit of such 'Ivy group' agreements as may be entered into."

Jesse Turner will oppose Henry Henderson in the eight-round middleweight main event.

Thomas won 11 out of 16 bouts before entering military service, and this will be his first start in over two years. Castro has fought mainly on the West Coast.

Pro Tennis Players to Hold Clinic Here for Youngsters

When Jack Kramer and his touring professional tennis troupe shows at Washington University Field House next Monday night, the former national singles champion will appear in a tennis clinic in which the leading boys and juniors of the city will compete. Again in 1954—of all the lines of cars—

CHEVROLET IS LOWEST PRICED!

As in years past, Chevrolet brings you the biggest savings in first cost with the industry's lowest-priced line of cars. Because of greater buyer preference, year after year, more Chevrolets are built than any other car. This, in turn, means mass production economies that are passed on to you in terms of higher quality at lower cost.

And this year, Chevrolet brings you more "money's worth" . . . more downright dollar value than ever before! The new '54 Chevrolets are brimming with new Fisher Body beauty—fresh new styling refinements outside . . . new, even finer fabrics and even richer color harmonies inside. You get new high-compression power and even finer performance . . . new engine quietness and smoothness combined with money-saving gasoline mileage.

In addition, Chevrolet for '54 is first in the low-price field with a complete choice of automatic power features—conveniences like Powerglide, Power Steering, Power Brakes,* Automatic Front Window and Seat Controls.* Of course, these options cost extra, but a new Chevrolet with all the power features you want actually delivers for less than most other makes without them. Fact is, no other cars have ever offered you so much for such low cost!

Come in and see all the wonderful new things you get in the new Chevrolet for '54. Then see how you save with the lowest-priced line in the low-price field.

*Power Brakes available only on Powerglide models. Automatic Front Window and Seat Controls only on "Two-Ten" and Bel Air models.

BERKELEY EFFORT TO ANNEX CITY AIRPORT RENEWED

Aldermen Vote Bill Authorizing Petition for Court Approval of Proposal.

The City of Berkeley, whose annexation of Lambert-St. Louis Field was invalidated in Circuit Court yesterday, moved last night to renew its annexation efforts.

Taking note of the ruling by Circuit Judge Raymond E. La Driere at Clayton, which sustained the City of St. Louis contention that Berkeley had failed to obtain court approval before annexing the St. Louis airport, the Berkeley Board of Aldermen passed an ordinance authorizing a petition for such approval.

Judge La Driere, in issuing a permanent injunction against the annexation, voted at a special Berkeley election last Nov. 3, considered only one of three allegations made by the City of St. Louis in its suit filed Nov. 17.

The court held that Berkeley failed to comply with a state law, which became effective last Aug. 31, requiring a declaratory circuit court judgment before annexation of unincorporated areas. Counsel for Berkeley had argued this judgment was unnecessary because that city had indicated by ordinance its intention to annex before the law took effect.

It was expected that other St. Louis objections to the annexation would be considered at the hearing on the petition for a declaratory judgment to be filed by Berkeley.

Among these objections was one that the annexation was unreasonable because it included land "not necessary to the development of Berkeley," including the airport.

City of St. Louis lawyers contended also that, although the airport as a municipal property would be tax-exempt, the county municipality would levy personal property taxes on St. Louis's tenants at the field. Berkeley would not offer "any corresponding benefits" for the additional revenue it would receive, the St. Louis petition alleged.

INFANT FREEZES TO DEATH IN CRIB, LEFT BY MOTHER

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19 — An eight-month-old boy was found frozen to death yesterday in an unheated two-room Brooklyn apartment. His 2-year-old sister, in a bed alongside the crib, was found suffering from frost bite and malnutrition. Temperature at the time was 17 degrees, having risen from a low of 8.8 during the night.

The mother, Mrs. Carmen Ramos, 19, was taken into custody last night at the home of an aunt in Manhattan. She told police she had left the children in the care of a neighbor, not identified, Sunday night and thought both were "all right." Police also sought her husband, Pedro, from whom she had been separated for a year.

A neighbor called police yesterday when she entered the apartment after not seeing Mrs. Ramos for two days.

7000 MORE NEEDED IN MOTHERS' MARCH

Additional Volunteers Are Called for to Aid in Two-Hour Fund Drive.

An additional 7000 volunteers for the Mothers' March on Polio are needed to insure complete coverage of the city and county, it was announced yesterday.

Although the March of Dimes headquarters has had enthusiastic response to appeals for volunteers, Mrs. Leslie T. Barco, co-chairman of the drive, reported that the 27,000 already enlisted are not adequate to conduct the campaign thoroughly. Those wishing to volunteer may call CHestnut 4181.

It was emphasized that the "whirlwind drive," scheduled to last no more than two hours beginning at 6:30 p.m. on Jan. 29, requires an army of workers to insure success.

Pointing out that the Mothers' March cannot replace any other phase of the campaign, including special gifts and employe gifts, Postmaster Bernard F. Dickmann, general chairman, said that the drive is simply the climax to the over-all campaign.

"I want to urge every worker, from our various chairmen right on through the employe representatives, to raise as much as possible in their work," he said.

A 50 per cent increase in funds, which must come from the Mothers' March, has been requested to finance the new polio prevention program with vaccine and gamma globulin, in addition to the regular patient care and research program, Dickmann said. Last year's march raised $240,000 in the city and county.

Meanwhile, recruitment of workers continued in county communities and in St. Louis parochial and public schools where captains reported their complements of volunteers filling up rapidly.

GIRL LEFT DYING AT DOOR OF HOSPITAL; MAN IS HELD

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Jan. 19 (AP)—Authorities said today the death of a University of Utah girl who was left dying at the entrance of Salt Lake General Hospital apparently resulted from an illegal operation.

An autopsy on Joanne Howald, 22 years old, disclosed no evidence of any external violence.

Police reported the girl, a medical technician at the University, was left standing at the emergency entrance of the hospital early Monday. The car which brought her sped off, and she collapsed before hospital attendants could get her inside.

Several hours after the girl died, police took into custody for questioning a man described as a university graduate student.

12TH CREWMAN FLEES RED POLAND'S LINER BATORY

SUNDERLAND, England, Jan. 19 (AP)—Police reported today that another crew member of the Polish liner Batory had jumped ship in England—the twelfth to do so in the last year and a half.

He was identified as Michal Rozak, assistant steward. Police said he was being sought for questioning.

Eight members of the Batory's crew jumped ship July 24, 1951, and claimed asylum in England. Their example was followed by a musician May 6, 1952, and by the skipper Jan Cwiklinski, and the ship's doctor June 23, 1953.

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—Mrs. Marguretta Johnson, 619 E. 8th St., says: "Nearly all my life I was tormented and embarrassed by dandruff and itchy scalp. Native Dancer Nominated for $160,000 Race

CHICAGO, Jan. 19 (UP) — Racing5s richest runner now in training, Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Native Dancer, has been nominatde with 107 other horses for the world's richest grass race, the Arlington Park Handicap expected to gross $160,000 next summer.

Executive Director Benjamin F. Lindheimer announced the nomination list for the one mile and three-sixteenths stake. Second eligibility payments for the race and six other future events on the Arlington-Washington Park program will be due Feb. 1.

The handicap was expected to be Native Dancer's first run on a turf course.

He has won $743,920 in two years of competitions with victories in 18 of his 19 starts. His only defeat was to Dark Star in the 1953 Kentucky Derby.

Native Dancer's earnings made him fourth in the alltime money winning standings, surpassed only by Citation, Stymie and Armed.

Last year Native Dancer captured both of the major three-year-old races of the Chicago season, the $154,300 Arlington Classic, and the American Derby at Washington Park.

Bowlers Roll 289 and 664.

Lee Finch rolled a high single game of 289 in the Sunday Morning League at Ray Holmes Bowl and Burt Burton tallied 664 total, including high single game of 242, in the Vinita Women's League at Silver Shield Lanes during last night's bowling activity. Finch, who ended with 681 total, started out with a spare and then made 10 straight strikes before leaving the No. 9 pin standing. Two teams, Up & At 'Em and the Wreckers, registered identical team games of 708 and 716 at Knittig Bros. Lanes.

Beaumont Wins.

Beaumont had two double winners as it defeated St. Louis U. High, 42-35, in a dual swimming meet at Beaumont. Tom Wiber captured the fancy diving event and won the 40-yard free style race, while Lee Thomure won the 100-yard breast stroke and 120-yard individual medley relay.

O'Neill Says Wrong Swing Cuts 40 Points Off Jones's Hitting

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 19 (UP)—Manager Steve O'Neill said today he would stay with Willie Jones at third base for the Philadelphia Phillies, but he added pointedly that the big South Carolinian was his own worst enemy at the plate.

In Steve's blunt appraisal, Jones is a menace to his major league career with a batting stance which is whittling 40 or 50 points from his average.

A sturdy stickman in his early days in the league, Willie tumbled to a .225 batting average last season, a drop of 25 points from his disappointing average in 1952 and a full 60 points off his 1951 mark.

"He has a bad swing up there and he won't correct it," Steve said. "He's hard to convince."

"But, he should be convinced now after a whole season like last year. He knows that if he hits .225 again, he's through in major league ball."

"He stands up there and pulls all of the way around," Steve explained. "What he wants to do is to quit trying to out-homer (Del) Ennis and get his regular hits."

Beginning with 1949, his first full season, Willie hit 19, 25, 22, 18 and then 19 big ones. But, said O'Neill, that's not the point now.

"The way he's standing up there, his long ball now is a foul into the bleachers," O'Neill added.

Willie was mentioned a dozen times or more during the off-season as a trade possibility, but even that was no indication O'Neill was giving up on him.

"He's the kind of a guy who'll hit a lot for you," O'Neill said. "He was a good hitter. But he's gotta change his present stance. He should know that."

Currently, Jones is rated the third baseman for the Phils, barring any unexpected trades which may bloom with startling suddenness. There doesn't seem to be any in the making.

"We talked with everyone about everyone," Steve explained. "We got some vague promises and half-promises, but that's all. We start with what we have."

That puts Earl Torgeson on first base, Granny Hamner at second, Ted Kazanski at shortstop and Willie-with-the-wrong-batting-stance at third for the start of spring training.

Gundlach Wins by 29-3 In Optimist Tourney

Gundlach defeated Irvin 29-3, in the first round of the North Side Optimist basketball tournament at Beaumont High School.

In other games, Perpetual Help defeated Columbia, 20-11; St. Mathews won from Ashland, 45-10; Marquette nipped Bethlehem Lutheran, 22-18; Clark won from Walbridge, 46-35; Holy Rosary defeated Elliott, 30-19 and Ames took two extra periods to shade St. Engelbert, 12-11. Farragut advanced on a forfeit.

Tonight's games at Bethlehem Lutheran will be Gundlach vs. Perpetual Help; Farragut vs. St. Mathews; Marquette vs. Clark; Holy Rosary vs. Ames and Irving vs. Columbia.

SEWER DISTRICT PLAN CALLED WAY TO SAVE MONEY

Metropolitan Group Leader Says Funds Are Wasted on Inadequate Facilities.

The proposed Metropolitan St. Louis Sewer District is designed to save taxpayers in the city-county area large sums of money now wasted through construction of inadequate sewage disposal and treatment facilities, W. Phillips Shatts, president of the Metropolitan Plan Association, said yesterday.

The area-wide sewer district plan, which will be voted on at special elections in the city and county Feb. 9, would establish a central agency to manage, maintain and develop all sewers in St. Louis and the heavily populated sections of St. Louis county. At present, sewer systems are operated by 11 municipal governments and 24 individual sewer districts in the area.

Indorsed by Group.

Shatts said the proposal has been indorsed by his association "as a step toward obtaining critically urgent metropolitan area sanitation improvements."

"It is generally conceded," he said, "that sanitary hazards exist which are detrimental to residents beyond the range of any one county, city, village, or sewer district, and that great sums of money are being wasted in constructing inadequate sewer lines and treatment plants.

"The proposed plan is designed to remedy these losses by providing for essential overall planning and co-ordination. It should aid in overcoming some of the difficulties of financing sewer construction adequate for future population and industrial growth. It also should aid in encouraging the adoption of needed zoning and subdivision control laws, building and sanitary codes.

Intelligent Approach.

"From the viewpoint of the metropolitan area as a whole, this plan is an intelligent approach to a co-ordinated basis for solving common metropolitan problems, which now exist and will increase. Widespread public interest and support are necessary."

Indorsement of the metropolitan sewer plan by five additional organizations was announced by the citizens' committee working for approval of the plan. They are the AFL Building and Construction Trades Council, the St. Louis Junior Chamber of Commerce, the Safety Council of Greater St. Louis, the Lindenwood Improvement Association and the Des Peres School Parent-Teachers' Association.

EISENHOWER SAID TO PLAN 4 BILLION SLASH IN DEFENSE

last July 1 and $13,000,000,000 a year ago.

He said the Army will place orders for $1,250,000,000 in the peak quarter of this fiscal year compared with $6,000,000,000 in the peak quarter of fiscal 1951.

Pearson scheduled a meeting of 28 commanders of major Army installations in Chicago today to explain how the Army is achieving economies.

He said it has been discovered that the Army has a 15-month supply of some commercial type items with another eight months of supply on order.

Pearson said the Army is disposing of surplus items at a rate of $150,000,000 a month but has barely touched the surface. The Army has $2,500,000,000 worth of surplus today or the same as a year ago.

He said the Army was receiving for its surplus prices ranging from a few cents to 60 cents on the dollar and "we will do well to average 15 cents on the dollar" of the original cost.

100 Firms Shared 98 Billions in Orders in 3 Years.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP)—The Defense Department disclosed yesterday that for the three years of the Korean war the military services purchased $98,723,000,000 in equipment from 100 large companies.

The department made public its final report on large prime contractors.

The report, covering the period beginning July 1950 and ended June 30, 1953, will be the last in the series, the Pentagon said, as it has been discontinued "for economy reasons."

General Motors Corp., including all of its subsidiaries and divisions, completed military contracts worth $7,095,800,000, or 7.2 per cent of the total. Boeing Airplane Co. performed contracts worth $4,402,900,000, or 4.4 per cent of the total. General Electric Co. and subsidiaries ranked third in dollar value of military contracts with 3.6 per cent, or $3,459,200,000.

Douglas Aircraft Co., Inc., United Aircraft Corp., the Chrysler Corp. and Lockheed Aircraft Corp. came next in line of military contracts. The value of their contracts and percentage of the total follows:

Douglas $2,867,800,000, 2.9 per cent; United Aircraft $2,816,400,000, 2.8 per cent; Chrysler $2,199,900,000, 2.2 per cent; Lockheed $2,152,100,000.

The remaining three companies in the big 10 were Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Corp. with contracts worth $2,072,100,000, 2.1 per cent; North American Aviation, Inc., $1,931,600,000, or 2 per cent, and Republic Aviation Corp., $1,877,700,000, or 1.9 per cent.

Russians Playing One Satellite And People Against Another in Effort to Destroy Old Nations

Promote Divisions in East Europe by Favoring Minorities—Aim Is Ultimate Absorption Into Kremlin's 'Communist Federation.'

By DAVID M. NICHOL
(LAST OF A SERIES.)

BERLIN, Jan. 19.

AT the peak of his power and authority in 1920, Lenin, the most farsighted leader of the Soviet revolution, wrote: "Time will tell whether a German hegemony or a Communist federation is to arise out of the ruins of Europe."

German hegemony, or control, was very nearly established under the brutal program of the Nazis. Now, in the view of Kremlin leaders, it is the Soviets' turn and there is no evidence that they have abandoned the long-range goal of a Communist federation.

Russia has been halted in the middle of Germany by the stirrings of the Western world, and plagued with a sorely unbalanced economy as a result of a too hasty armaments race.

Now Soviet authorities apparently are intent on correcting the "errors" that resulted in the setbacks.

For public consumption, this corrective process is described as the "new course."

Inside the Iron Curtain, the signs all point to an increased effort to bring the prophesied "Communist federation" into being among the satellite nations in eastern Europe.

Party Congresses.

The coming months of 1954 probably hold important developments, or which there are two indications:

1. Every satellite Communist party, beginning with that of Poland late in January, has scheduled a party congress or assembly during the year. In Poland, it will be the first since the so-called "congress of unification" in 1948.

2. Between June and December, 1954, occurs the tenth anniversary of "Liberation by the Red army," or the formation of a postwar revolutionary government, in each of the satellites except Germany.

The Soviets are inclined to make something special of these occasions.

"The federation," as it emerges, probably will have very little in common with the original ideas of Lenin.

Subjection to Russia.

Lenin presumably was thinking of a voluntary community of states, but that notion went out with the rise of Stalin to power.

Stalin's theory was that people might have a limited amount of "cultural autonomy"—the right to speak their own language in addition to Russian—as long as their economies and resources served Moscow's selfish interests and there was never any challenge to Soviet supremacy.

Stalin's successors have given a superficial boost to "cultural autonomy," but have cut down as ruthlessly as Stalin anyone who exceeded the carefully defined boundaries.

To an extent that the West often fails to recognize, the Russians already have remade the economy and society of the satellite regions. The churches have been subdued and warped to Moscow's purposes There remains the problem of the nations themselves.

Destruction of Old States.

In carefully calculated fashion, this also has been attacked. One state is being played against another with the obvious intent of destroying the nations of eastern Europe as they have existed in the past.

As one means of splitting the Germans, a sizeable minority of Sorbs, a nearly lost people with Slavic antecedents that go back 1000 years, is being cultivated in southeastern Germany around Bautzen.

Their language and customs are being retaught to them by Communist instructors, although there is no indication that any but a small number of Sorbs is interested.

Presumably they will be declared "autonomous" whenever the Russians feel the time is right.

Poland's powerful nationalism has been hitched to the Soviet wagon by an ingenious shuffling of territories.

Any cooling of Polish fervor for the Kremlin, any weakening of Soviet support for the Warsaw Government probably would mean the loss by Poland of the extensive Oder-Neisse regions which were German until the end of the war. Every Pole is aware of this.

Slovaks Favored.

In Czechoslovakia there has been a subtle increase in Soviet sponsorship of the Slovak people.

Moscow obviously has recognized the effectiveness of Hitler's methods in occupying Prague and granting Slovak "autonomy," to destroy the Czech nation.

The demoralizing and disintegrating effect of the Soviet nationalities policy is plainest, however, in Romania.

Some Romanian refugees believe their country will be the first of the postwar satellites to disappear completely in its present form.

Adding importance from the Soviet view is the fact that the elbow of the Carpathian mountains and the Danube river delta, both geographically in Romania, are of immense strategic value for control of the whole of the Balkans.

Such control has been a basic aim in Russian policy for centuries.

Grab of Bessarabia.

The piece-meal destruction of Romania began with a Soviet grab in 1940 of province of Bessarabia, between the Prut and Dniester rivers. This was a direct outgrowth of Stalin's deal with the Nazis.

The region since has become the Moldavian Soviet Socialist Republic, one of the 16 that make up the "union."

From the Moldavian capital of Kishinev a campaign is being conducted to bring about the "voluntary" reunion under Soviet auspices of Moldavia and the territory between the Prut and the Carpathians.

A sizeable chunk of northwestern Romania was carved out under Nazi direction and awarded to Hungary. It was restored to Romania at the end of the war, but much of it now has been made an "autonomous Hungarian region."

Immigration From U.S.S.R.

Soviet Tatars have been moving in numbers along the Black sea coast into the Romanian region of Dobruja, between the Danube delta and the Bulgarian border.

Presumably they come from the Crimea, where a Soviet "republic" was liquidated by an enraged Stalin for its wartime collaboration with the Germans.

In prewar Romania there were four recognized nationalities. Under Communist sponsorship, there are 14.

The Romanians themselves are being assured continually by the Soviets that they really are ancient Slavs and "little brothers of the Russians," for all the Latin origin of their language.

It is little wonder that established national boundaries begin to lose their significance.

Company in Misery.

The one development on which the Soviets hadn't counted and for which they have found no real antidote is a growing kinship in misery among all the 90,000,000 in the satellite countries.

A Romanian refugee recently told me in Munich, in all seriousness:

"We don't even hate the Hungarians any more."

Czechs who have escaped to Berlin say they have been given aid and shelter all across the Soviet Zone of Germany by their onetime mortal enemies, the Germans.

Three different hymnals are in use in a single Protestant church in former East Prussia, now under Polish control.

The hymnals are written in Polish and in old and new German, and the hymns are sung in all three.

"The Protestants of Masuria do not see in this anything separating them, but rather an element uniting them in common belief," writes a woman in a letter smuggled from the area.

If anything breaks the Soviet grip on these regions, it will be this brotherhood of little people that the Soviets themselves have created

Common Bond.

And should Europe ever be united in freedom it will owe a heavy debt to Stalin and his successors, just as it does already to Hitler, for teaching Europeans what liberty means by taking it away.

In their moments of introspection, if they ever have them in the Kremlin, the Soviet leaders must recall another of Lenin's prophetic warnings.

Once before, when Europe was in bondage and misery, Lenin told an audience in Zurich:

"The present gravelike stillness in Europe must not deceive us . . .

"The ruling class . . . and their lackey governments are moving more and more into a blind alley from which they can never extricate themselves without tremendous upheavals."

Admittedly Lenin was not thinking of Communist "ruling classes," but the description is no less valid today.

The Russians obviously have recognized a lurking danger.

Their "new course," this fantastic mixture of more bread, more work and more repression will be sufficient, they believe, to head it off.

MALENKOV TOO BUSY TO SEE AMERICAN COLLEGE EDITORS

MOSCOW, Jan. 19 (AP)—Soviet Premier Georgi M. Malenkov sent word yesterday to seven visiting American college editors that because he was "very busy" he regretted he was unable to receive them for an interview.

The editors applied in writing two weeks ago for a chance to talk with Malenkov as the highlight of their three-week visit to the Soviet Union. They have been permitted to make a 5000-mile trip into the interior and have been granted relative freedom to talk to people and use their cameras.

Democratic Liberal Talks Being Resumed

Senators Say Seminars Proved Helpful Last Year.

By DORIS FLEESON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.

DEMOCRATIC Senators of the liberal persuasion are resuming their practice of holding regular biweekly conferences on the legislative program.

The idea of Senator Lister Hill of Alabama, this type of seminar proved fruitful last year. It is in no sense a minority caucus and no attempt is made to commit those present to any one point of view. The whole object is self-education on the issues as they arise.

An effort is made to give light and leading information on the many complex questions that come before the Senate. Veteran members give the benefit of their experience on tactics. Special topics are occasionally assigned to Senators best equipped to deal with them. Such Senators then are expected to alert their colleagues when problems in those fields arise.

Fluid Group.

Membership at the conferences is fluid. There leading spirits estimate that they will have upward of 20 at each session. Roughly speaking, they are the Democrats who voted to give Senator Wayne Morse, Oregon independent, his old assignments on the Armed Services and Labor Committees.

The story of the effort to help Morse is a fair illustration of the attitude generally prevailing among Democratic liberals with respect to the elected leader of the technical minority of 48 senators, Lyndon Johnson of Texas.

Johnson did not make any attempt to help Morse, who had backed the Democratic candidate for president in 1952—the offense for which his committee assignments were taken away by the G.O.P. This seemed to Democratic liberals to be wrong in principle besides being ungrateful, and they insisted upon making the fight.

Johnson's Persuasion.

Senator Johnson persuaded most—but not all—his fellow southerners to stand by him as a party matter.

The liberals feel no personal bitterness toward Senator Johnson. "What I am not willing to concede," one of them explained, "is that what is good for Texas is good for our party. In this case, the Republicans were dead wrong and we had the power to make the situation right.

"What do we get out of helping the opposition punish Morse, who is popular with both the farmers and labor — just the elements we think are going to put us back in power next fall?"

Approved Attire in India

Types of clothing approved by Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India in preference to western style attire, according to recent circular to government departments. Suit at left is for normal summer wear. At right, suit with long black coat and tight trousers is suggested for official occasions. Woman wears a sari which must be practical and smart, Nehru says, because it has stood the test of time. Youngster wears outfit based on Nehru's own choice of summer attire.

RUSSIANS VISITING IN INDIA ISOLATED FROM LOCAL REDS

NEW DELHI, Jan. 19 (AP)—India's Communists have been left on the outside looking in at the 30-member Soviet Russian cultural delegation just beginning a six-week tour of this country.

Prime Minister Nehru's government made certain of that by inviting the Russian artists—largest cultural group yet brought to India from behind the Iron Curtain—as government guests and carefully controlling their program.

Sources close to the government said Indian officials are determined to prevent local Reds from exploiting the visiting Communists or using them at functions which might be held to raise money for Communist activities in India.

That is why the government of India is entertaining the Russian group every day of their long visit here and picking up the check for all expenses when it is over. These sources said the Communist action in taking over the ousted British Guiana Prime Minister Cheddi Jagan and his partner L. F. S. Burnham and using them for propagandizing the Communist movement here in part prompted the government planning.

Little Room For Agreement By Big Four

Berlin Conference Likely to Harden Attitudes of Both Sides.

By J. M. ROBERTS Jr.
Associated Press News Analyst.

RUSSIA and the western allies have now agreed where they will meet to argue their disagreement about Germany.

From here on, the chief interest in the four-power meeting will lie in what is to be revealed there about methods of approach and attitudes.

Even this field is narrow, both sides having expressed themselves and so revealed diametric opposition at every major point.

The Allies are so intent on giving no form of recognition to the East German Communist government that they wouldn't agree to hold part of the meetings at the Soviet Embassy in East Berlin. That would have been a tiny recognition of a German government in East Berlin. Instead, they agreed to meet part of the time in the home of the Russian high commissioner in East Berlin. The high commissioner is also the Russian Ambassador, and his home is also the embassy.

The Russians wouldn't agree to meet in the four-power control building in West Berlin, four-power control having broken down in 1948. They did agree to meet in the building "formerly" used as four-power control headquarters.

The objective of both sides seems to be to go to the conference on the defensive, taking care not to lose ground rather than in any hope of gaining some.

The decision on a meeting place indicated the conference is expected to last about three weeks. At the end of that time the positions of the two sides are merely expected to be firmer than ever.

After that, the hopelessness of agreement with Russia having been demonstrated, the western allies can get ahead with their defense knitting—especially the establishment of the European Defense Community and other supranational agencies in Europe which have been stalled by last ditch hopes for some settlement.

Dulles Talks Frankly So Paris Can't Mistake U.S. Intentions

His Warning Over EDC Was Prompted by Feeling He Was Obliged to Speak, Not by Bad Will Toward French.

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND
(Copyright, 1954.)

WASHINGTON.

IT IS AN ironic fact that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles is being praised for speaking clearly and candidly to our enemies and is being criticized for speaking clearly and candidly to our friends.

The debate is still on, in Washington and Paris at least, whether Dulles did the proper thing in saying right out in the open that if France did not go forward with the European Defense Community there would have to be "an agonizing reappraisal" of American policy. Dulles spoke the exact truth. Nobody suggests that he didn't.

Two world wars and the Korean aggression might have been averted if Britain and the United States had spoken their intentions clearly and candidly in advance of the fatal actions.

Isn't it just as valuable and just as vital that America's allies—as its possible enemies—should know frankly what the United States intends to do? And since decisions by the great democracies have visible public support to carry them out, it is best that such declarations should be made publicly.

This is exactly what Dulles has been doing in stressing the urgency of EDC and in warning France that its continued postponement would inevitably force the United States to consider alternative policies in western Europe.

But there remain those who still contend that Dulles must have been wrong in speaking out in Paris and subsequently because so far nothing has happened, because Dulles's words would have not stirred the French government or the French people to a decision either way.

The answer to that is that while the United States cannot be responsible for what France finally decides on EDC, Dulles is responsible for not allowing France to make a decision without knowing clearly and candidly the intentions of the American government.

Obviously Dulles's first motivation is the welfare of the United States and his conviction is that America's allies must be able to count on knowing what the United States will do under given circumstances.

Those who know Foster Dulles know that he possesses a great esteem for France and awareness of the large role she can and should play in the Western alliance.

My mind goes back to the bleak and unproductive meetings of the Big Four Foreign Ministers in London in the spring of 1947. It was "no," "no," "no" from the Soviet representatives in London and coincidentally, with Thorez just back from Moscow, the French Communists threw everything they had at the French government to try to bring it down in collapse and take over.

Communist provocateurs were on hand from the satellite countries. Strikes were called across the nation and were steadily suffocating the public services and the public utilities of the whole country—all aimed at discrediting and crippling and forcing the government from office.

At this moment Dulles went to Secretary of State George Marshall, whom he was serving as a bipartisan adviser, and urged that an American official immediately go to Paris in person to demonstrate our understanding, our interest and our support of the free people of France. Dulles caught the last through train to Paris before the strike halted all London-to-Paris transportation. He visited the French leaders, from President of the Republic to mayor; he made numerous public appearances and not improbably helped to strengthen the courage of the harried French government, three days later, emerged victor over the disruptive forces of the Communists.

What Dulles has had to say about France and the EDC may not have been momentarily pleasing to the French, but he speaks as a true friend.

Ironies and Bibles

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

One of your letter writers, A. Mervyn Davies, says in the Sunday Post-Dispatch that a unanimous decision of the New Jersey Supreme Court is a "stupendous irony." This is the decision, written by Chief Justice Arthur T. Vanderbilt, rejecting as unconstitutional the plan of the Gideons' organization to distribute Bibles (King James version) through the public school system.

The "stupendous irony" really seems to be that Mr. Davies does not know that the Bible IS a "sectarian book."

* * *

Our public schools include thousands of children of the Jewish faith, and thousands more who have been taught from translations of the first edition of the Bible, which appeared in 400 A.D. Before the time of Martin Luther, between 1450, when the art of printing was invented, and 1522, there were 626 editions of the Catholic Bible. Of this number 17 were in German, prior to Luther's translation, and nine of these editions appeared before Luther was born.

The King James version, to which Mr. Davies evidently refers, was authorized in 1611 and translated from Luther's edition. It contains the same changes and omissions. To cite a few: nine sacred books are omitted from the Old Testament; the title "Apocalypse" is changed to "Revelations"; the order of the Ten Commandments is different; a sentence is added to the Lord's Prayer.

Two good reference works on this subject are: "A Graphic History of the Preservation of the Old and New Testament" and "Where We Got Our Bible."

* * *

I agree with Mr. Davies's conviction that our young people need religious instruction. Let's return to religious instruction on released school time for that was also lost in a Supreme Court decision which was misinterpreted. Many public school systems have since reinstated this program.

In these classes the boys and girls are taught by qualified persons of their own faith, not left to interpret different versions of the Bible for themselves—which is the error Mr. Davies seems to be advocating.

Sauce for the Gander

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Labor union members will no doubt appreciate the Administration's concern for their welfare as shown in the proposed changes in the Taft-Hartley law—but it hardly seems fair to confer all the privileges on the workers only.

If we are to have Government-supervised elections on strike votes in the unions, in all fairness the individual stockholder "should have an opportunity to express his free choice by secret ballot held under Government auspices" as to whether the last offer of the union should be accepted or rejected.

FLOYD H. MAIN.

Companions to a 'Gateway'

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

It was with dismay that I read your Jan. 10 editorial, "This Can't Happen Here!" Whenever I am in St. Louis, I always visit the Old Courthouse with pleasure, and always in hope that somehow more money has been forthcoming for its further restoration. Eventually it will give St. Louis a monument comparable only to our Old State House, or New Orleans' Cabildo.

But St. Louis would be more fortunate than Boston or New Orleans in that the famous old Speck's and Schumacker's are still, and always should be, across the street. Lunch at Speck's, with its covered coffee cups, its gilt mirrors and glass wall chandeliers, carried me back to the old rigorous days, and gave me good courage for a strenuous afternoon of honest work. And then Schumacker's for a good dinner, comparable only to one in the restaurants you mention, or Locke-Ober's in Boston and Simpson's in London.

Do arouse St. Louis and have it create a historical mecca worthy of a "Gateway to the West."

Shaves, $1; Haircuts, $1.40

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

When the barbers up their prices one of two things or both will happen:

Some customers will go to a non-union shop where the price is lower, or most people will stretch the intervals between trimmings. In either event, the union barbers will have fewer customers.

This is the same as the P. S. Co. Every time they hike the fare they get fewer riders. Are the barbers pricing themselves out of business?

CUSTOMER.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

You were for the New and Fair Deals lock stock and most of their barrels. It follows, then, that you should also be for their consequences. Why protest even by implication against $1.40 haircuts? Why not just be thankful that they aren't twice that price.

O'Fallon, Ill. W. J. SHEA.

For a Healthier America

Since his health is a man's first asset and its preservation his chief concern, President Eisenhower's message on medical care must have aroused keen interest in all but those who see in it some veiled threat to their present position. And there cannot be many such.

The President covered just about every aspect of medical and hospital care, so the message necessarily became an enumeration of fields for action, rather than a series of perfected legislative proposals. Details must be worked out by Congress with the help of experts—all guided by Mr. Eisenhower's over-all injunction to avoid "socialized" medicine and to make the Government's role chiefly one of co-operation with state, community and private agencies.

Beyond the general proposition that no aspect of a federal health program should be allowed to become a device for raiding the Treasury, this approach is beyond criticism. It is as desirable as ever that Government interference be held to the minimum.

To the average man, the most interesting of the presidential proposals must be that of federal re-insurance of existing medical and hospital pre-payment plans. Mr. Eisenhower had previously spoken of this protection against the high cost of catastrophic illness. So he said little more than that the re-insurance fund, similar to the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, might be started with an appropriation of $25,000,000, this sum eventually to be paid back.

Since both voluntary, non-profit agencies and dividend-earning insurance companies are active in this field, some distinctions may have to be made. Thought also should be given to making these plans more attractive by other means than increased benefits so that more people will enroll in them. Health insurance should cover a considerably larger portion of the population than is now the case.

Further, insurance will not be enough so long as the nation has a shortage of doctors. And being enabled to pay for a bed in a hospital which has not been built is not going to help either. So the President was fully justified in advocating support for new hospital construction.

Wisely, Mr. Eisenhower also stressed the need for institutions for the chronically ill, convalescent homes, treatment centers for ambulatory patients and rehabilitation facilities. Our general hospitals could be more purposefully utilized if they were relieved of the burden of these limited services. And the over-all cost would be considerably lower since these patients require few of the facilities of a general hospital.

* * *

The President believes that states and communities—and even private agencies—should determine actual needs and that the Government's part should be primarily one of extending grants-in-aid. As a sound precaution, however, Washington should reserve the right to set minimum standards for such help. And sometimes Washington may have to goad states or cities to undertake their responsibilities.

This has been indicated all too often by the experience of the United States Public Health Service. President Eisenhower properly praised its formulation of a model pure milk ordinance, restaurant sanitation rules, standards for the purification of drinking water and its search for ways of combatting the country's most widespread and dangerous diseases.

The Government also should put much more energy into the rehabilitation of the disabled. Mr. Eisenhower said that there are 2,000,000 disabled Americans today who, with proper training, could be returned to useful activities. As a matter of economics, these people should be helped to support themselves instead of being dependent on others. More importantly, the psychological burden of helplessness should be replaced by the satisfactions of renewed activity.

* * *

Such are the high points of the President's health message. With the exception of the reinsurance proposal, there already is some activity in most of the fields he mentioned, but not nearly enough. The best arguments for more doctors, more nurses, more hospitals and a better way of meeting the cost of medical care are to be found in the President's figures on the prevalence of disease in the United States and the inadequacy of the means for coping with it.

This is something for Congress to ponder while facing the admittedly heavy program outlined by the President. Being a rich nation, we have done better than most. Yet considering what might be achieved with the energy drained away by ill health and disease, can we afford to do no more?

Gain in St. Louis County

A grand jury evidently is to be impaneled in each term of court in St. Louis county instead of just for the September term as had been the practice, and that is no minor gain.

Grand juries operate behind a veil of secrecy and can obtain sworn testimony that frequently is not available to other law enforcement agencies. Moreover, the machinery for disposing of criminal cases is greatly speeded up when a grand jury is available to vote indictments.

All of which adds up to quite an improvement over the once-a-year grand jury in Clayton. And for this, thanks to all who had a part in the step, including the last grand jury.

Handicap to Bi-State's Future

The injury the Bi-State Development Agency suffered at the hands of the last Missouri Legislature is beginning to cause pain—only a little, perhaps, but intense enough to suggest the trouble is much more serious than it appears on the surface.

The worst hurt the Legislature inflicted was in refusing to clarify Bi-State's authority to issue revenue bonds. So long as that condition exists the agency will find it unusually difficult to dispose of its bonds, and then only by paying through the nose in interest charges.

Currently, for example, Bi-State is going to be forced to pony up some 4¾ per cent to those who buy the revenue bonds by which it will finance its first project, the barge terminal on the Chain of Rocks canal. For tax-exempt paper, that is mighty steep interest—but it is the best the agency can do so long as its powers remain under cloud.

An even greater difficulty is that under these conditions the agency will be unable to handle a really large project. The Chain of Rocks canal job will cost $1,500,000, a relatively small operation for an agency like Bi-State. But before it can take on anything substantially larger it will have to have more freedom to seek financing.

The Illinois Legislature has already done its part—both in clarifying Bi-State's authority to issue revenue bonds and in appropriating cash for the agency's own operating expenses. By the time the next Missouri Legislature convenes Bi-State ought to be paying its own way with revenue from the barge terminal and will not need any operating funds.

But it will need the authority that Illinois has granted and which Missouri should have granted a year ago. Until it gets it, it has no hope of attaining even a fraction of its very real potential for metropolitan progress.

The Attack on Arthur Dean

Senator Welker of Idaho has demonstrated once again that the primitives on the Republican party's extremist fringe are as much opposed to President Eisenhower as they would be to a Democratic Chief Executive.

Irresponsibly and inaccurately, Senator Welker delivered on the Senate floor a bitter personal attack against Arthur H. Dean, the special United States envoy who has been discussing Korean peace talks with the Communists at Panmunjom. Mr. Dean, a former law partner of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, was denounced as an "appeaser" apparently because he had remarked in an off-the-record interview that some day (not now) and under some circumstances (not the present ones) the United States might (possibly) want to consider the recognition of Communist China.

Mr. Dean got the usual treatment. His membership in the Institute of Pacific Relations was pointed to as evidence that he was soft on Communism—though his record in that organization is one of having helped oust the Communists who infiltrated it. Welker denounced him as an "associate" of Frederick Vanderbilt Field, although in fact Mr. Dean was a leader in the move to oust Field from the Institute.

However preposterous the charges may seem in this country, they will undoubtedly impair Mr. Dean's usefulness as negotiator at Panmunjom should the peace talks be resumed. Thus we have a Republican Senator setting out to undermine the position of a Republican Administration's representative in diplomatic negotiations of the greatest delicacy. And some leaders of the Administration think they can do business with the primitives!

Slow Motion Up to Now

The citizen may well wonder what is going on in the labor rackets investigation in St. Louis when Chief Judge Moore and the foremen of the two grand juries make a trip to Washington to confer with high officials in the Department of Justice. This wonder can only be increased when, immediately on the heels of that conference, United States Attorney Harry Richards, an Eisenhower appointee, is summoned to Washington for questioning by his superiors. Now comes the news that Max Goldschein, the celebrated rackets prosecutor, is being sent to St. Louis to see that the investigation goes ahead as it should.

So little was done through the new Department of Justice facilities in pressing the inquiry against labor racketeering that Chief Judge Moore found it necessary in November to say as much in his grand jury charge. Out of that came a revival of investigative activity. Now it is reported that Judge Moore and the grand jury foremen are still dissatisfied with the way the inquiry is being directed.

This is something in which Attorney General Brownell ought to take a personal and immediate interest. If he does not do so, it will be up to President Eisenhower to make it White House business. The G.O.P.'s 1952 campaign was based in part on a pledge to expose and prosecute racketeering. Why after a year does there still appear to be so much foot-dragging?

Bad Policy as Well

Circuit Judge La Driere has knocked out Berkeley's "annexation" of Lambert-St. Louis Field on the grounds that the election was not authorized by a court judgment. That is a technicality although it is enough in this instance. Let it also serve to make clear that it is bad public policy for a small adjoining community to try to collar the St. Louis airport.

Victories for Free Expression

When the Supreme Court handed down its unanimous decision in May, 1952, against church-pressured prohibition of the Italian-made film, "The Miracle," in New York, the Post-Dispatch said that it was not too much to describe the ruling as "a landmark for free expression." Now, 18 months later, the Supreme Court, with Chief Justice Warren presiding in the place of the late Fred M. Vinson, cites its decision in "The Miracle" case and knocks out censorship in New York against the French film, "La Ronde," and in Ohio against a crime movie with the title, "M."

Since the Supreme Court wrote no opinion in these latest censorship cases, but merely overruled the highest courts of New York and Ohio, it is pertinent to recall the words of Justice Clark in "The Miracle" decision, Supported by all the other Justices, he said:

> In seeking to apply the broad and all-inclusive definition of "sacrilegious" given by the New York courts, the censor is set upon a boundless sea amid a myriad of conflicting currents of religious views, with no charts but those provided by the most vocal and powerful orthodoxies. New York cannot vest such unlimited restraining control over motion pictures in a censor.

Thus did the Supreme Court for the first time extend to motion pictures the Bill of Rights' fundamental protection of free expression. It was a landmark decision and the new rulings, based on it as a precedent, underscore the fact. Would-be moral censors of what adult Americans may see and hear in moving picture theaters have now lost three times in the United States Supreme Court—and unanimously each time.

Tentative Transit Plan

Adoption of the tentative draft of a plan for a Metropolitan St. Louis Transit District, prepared by the transit freeholders of city and county, would not of itself solve the area's transportation problem. But it would give the community the power to do so.

From a legal point of view, the draft is commendable because of its wide grant of powers—powers affecting not only ownership and operation, but also taxation, financing, regulation and even control of streets and traffic. This may well be the way a metropolitan transit district should be set up—with powers broad enough to handle almost any foreseeable contingency.

Will the cure be achieved simply by a desirable transfer of legal authority from Jefferson City to a home-rule body in the St. Louis metropolitan area? Or has local transit reached the point at which it can no longer be satisfactorily provided under private, corporate management? Should public ownership be the next step? Would it provide the efficiencies and the savings essential to a cheap, fast ride?

These are the questions still to be answered.

Press Conference or a Show?

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Veteran White House correspondent objects to direct quotation and broadcasts of presidential news interview; says spontaneity may suffer, President will be unable to discuss delicate topics freely; issue is whether one news medium should weaken another.

Richard Strout in The New Republic

I have been attending presidential press conferences, man and boy, for 30 years. Recently a 20-year-old rule against direct quotation was abolished and the full transcript was released and a tape recording put on the air. I think this is a mistake, and I would like to say why.

To begin with, the presidential press conference is a vital part of the American governmental system. Unlike other democracies, the United States separates executive and legislative functions into compartments. Under the parliamentary system the Prime Minister and Cabinet answer questions direct on the floor of Parliament; in the United States the White House press conference is the substitute that has been built up in the course of time.

Dwight D. Eisenhower

Congress can't ask Mr. Eisenhower questions, so the reporters do. The system was only invented in the time of Theodore Roosevelt, but it is hard to see how the Government would function today without it. An intolerable stress and tension would ultimately build up, I believe, if the nation did not have some direct access to the President.

The situation requires a procedure which is dignified, responsible and as flexible as possible. The public needs to know what is on the President's mind and what his mood is; if the President is wise, he will also find out what is on the public's mind, and what its mood is by the type of questions asked. There is no secret about this: it is a two-way proposition. James C. Hagerty, the able White House press secretary, agrees that the press conferences are "50-50 propositions" on either side.

Direct quotation of limited portions of the White House press conference has been a regular tradition of these sessions for years. If a President throws off a vigorous phrase a reporter frequently asks, "May we quote you on that, Mr. President?" More often than not permission is given. But it is done after reflection. Otherwise the President's answer is put in the third person, or paraphrased, and the Chief Executive is not held to the strict letter of what he has informally thrown off.

It seems paradoxical for a newspaper man to oppose the fullest direct quotation possible. But the new rule of verbatim recording and transmission of the President's conferences as a matter of public record, I think, turns what has been an extremely handy, carefully evolved semi-official and unique contrivance into a theatrical performance.

The press conference becomes a show. Its informal, easy-going nature is changed into a self-conscious half-hour broadcast. I have been on many question panels in "meet-the-press" type shows. The atmosphere is entirely different from that at the normal Washington press conference.

The President will no longer be able to discuss delicate subjects with the freedom of the past. The collective, informal mood that frequently characterized press conferences at their best in the past is less easily developed today and will not develop at all if each reporter knows that his boss, the world and his wife will listen to what he is about to say.

The experimental new system of broadcasting tape recordings of press conferences puts a premium on exhibitionists. It may cause certain reporters to ask questions simply for the sake of prestige. It is likely to freeze and formalize the whole affair. It raises the question of the role of different communication media in Washington.

Radio and TV are certainly here to stay. Reporters may be a little uncomfortable to be made unpaid radio performers in tape recordings that officials put out without their consent, but that is a secondary issue. The fact is that Mr. Eisenhower, like any President, can get his words into the living room by radio or TV any time he wants to make a public speech; what I ask is whether one important and established publicity medium should be weakened in order to serve as a vehicle for another.

"Ah, but," it will be argued, "the freshness and spontaneity of the press conferences are what give them their special radio appeal." The trouble is that broadcasting (and later perhaps television) will destroy this very spontaneity for which it is prized.

Finally, let me say that I don't think the broadcast press conference is going to work for a reason not yet considered. I think for the President's own self-protection he will not want some press conferences broadcast, nor some passages of other conferences. But if the White House starts to edit the tape record, or if it decides it is safe to put out one performance but not another, reporters will immediately point out the omission, or that the whole conference was considered unsuitable. Won't this defeat the very purpose intended? This will be a "no comment," not to a particular question, but to an entire broadcast!

I speak only for myself in airing these views, yet without exception the experienced newsmen with whom I have happened to talk have had much the same feelings. Personally I think it is too bad that the transcript of the questions and answers is made available for publication at all. To broadcast the performance on top of that seems to me a serious mistake.

One-House Idea Has Vitality

From The Des Moines Register

Indications now are that there may be no vote in Nebraska this year on abandoning the one-house legislature. Public sentiment in favor of the unicameral is such that foes of the plan are not sure that it would be wise to put the question before the voters.

Four Republican and four Democratic leaders last year drafted a proposed substitute for the present nonpartisan unicameral. The timing seemed to be good. There was much dissatisfaction with some of the legislation, especially involving truckers, approved by the 1953 unicameral at the longest session on record.

So party leaders, long opposed to some features of the unicameral, drafted an alternative.

This called for replacing the nonpartisan, one-house legislature of 43 members with a two-house legislature of from 110 to 140 members elected on a party basis.

The party chiefs obviously didn't judge rank and file sentiment properly. They've discovered that there is strong opposition to the two-house proposal. Now the Republican party leaders are considering substituting a proposal which would keep the unicameral but end the nonpartisan feature. It might also provide for a larger legislative body.

Doubt on Opium Theory

COLERIDGE, OPIUM AND KUBLA KHAN, by Elisabeth Schneider. (University of Chicago Press, 370 pgs., $5.)

Coleridge's "Kubla Khan," like Wordsworth's "Daffodils" and Gray's "Elegy," ranks among the 10 most anthologized poems in our language. It has been called "the quintessential poem of romanticism," though its magical creation links it with no particular literary school.

"Kubla Khan" is also one of the most popular hunting grounds for critics, whether they share John Livingston Lowes's celebrated view that it is a beautiful but meaningless dream fragment, or believe the poem affords deep symbolic interpretations.

Miss Schneider fires her opening round by examining the ideas of Lowes and the psychological and symbolist critics, whom she later challenges with her findings. She brings out modern medical evidence opposing the notion of "Kubla Khan" as a special "opium dream" and concludes that both Coleridge's and Thomas De Quincey's "dream" writing spring far more from "the coalescing of individual temperament with literary tradition" than from opium eating habits. Here she also makes convincing comparisons of Coleridge's ideas with the theories of Erasmus Darwin, the eighteenth-century physiologist, who seems to have escaped the notice of other Coleridge scholars.

Samuel Coleridge

The rest of the book forms probably one of the most incisive critical studies written on "Kubla Khan." The author delves into the poem's sources, date and meaning with a great deal of reserve and few presuppositions. Echoes are found mainly in Southey's poem, "Thalaba" (which, Miss Schneider picturesquely writes, was composed "as with a dump truck") and Walter Savage Landor's "Gebir." Coleridge's poem has the texture of Milton, too, who haunted the Lake poets with cadences and sound patterns and provided many a romantic with elaborate hidden correspondences.

Yet Miss Schneider points out the trouble of drawing parallels between these settings and "Kubla Khan" and the danger of mistaking a "generic likeness" for an "influence." Finally, she feels the coolness of the poem and of the poet himself, "dehumanized behind his mask of hair and eyes and magic circle," who created the vision of an unbuilt paradise.

The casual reader may skip the extensive notes and still enjoy this book. But the appendices, including one on Dorothy Wordsworth's drinking can named "Kubla," are sprightly and, as much as the main text, certainly recommended for reading.

CHARLES GUENTHER.

Naive and Sophisticated

MY MOTHER'S HOUSE and SIDO, by Colette. (Farrar, Straus and Young, 360 pgs., $3.95).

The author's mother appears, thinly disguised in many novels by Sidonie-Gabrielle Goudeket, nee Colette. That she was so germinal a source of inspiration implies her genius and charm.

The two short books in the present volume are composed of autobiographical sketches of Colette's childhood, centered for the most part around her mother. Adele-Eugenie Sidonie Landoy, affectionately known as "Sido," was sired by a quadroon, and one likes to think that the dash of color in her blood contributed to her whimsical, wise and poetic personality.

These sketches have the charming blend of sophistication and naivete we have come to expect of Colette. Most of the action takes place in or near the Colette family home in Saint-Sauveuren-Puisaye, in the farm district of Lower Burgundy. —WILL WHARTON.

WALTER LIPPMANN

Arming Against Total War Only

WASHINGTON.

IN HIS ADDRESS last week Mr. Dulles found himself laboring with the facts of life, which are very hard indeed for any Secretary of State. He had, on the one hand, to explain a change in our military policy and planning which had become, as he put it, "imperative." And, on the other hand, he had to remember that it was "equally imperative that a change should be accompanied by an understanding of our true purposes."

For without it, there might be a panic among our friends abroad, dangerous miscalculations among our adversaries abroad, and, he might well have added, confusion at home.

Dulles

He could, I think, have made his own task a little easier if he had explained that it is of the essence of the new strategic policy, and indeed of any global policy, that there can be no complete public understanding if by that is meant something like blueprints for all contingencies. The cardinal principle of the new policy is to get away from being pinned down, rigidly committed, and therefore without power of maneuver and with little freedom of decision.

It is therefore impossible to explain to every American, and therefore to all our adversaries as well, just what we would and what we would not do if they did this, that, or something else.

Deterring General War.

"The basic decision," said Mr. Dulles, is "to depend primarily upon a great capacity to retaliate, instantly, by means and at places of our own choosing." The chief though not the sole "means" is strategic air power using atomic missiles.

The question is: retaliation against what? The answer to that question, which is crucial, is in a sentence further on in the speech: "We can deter such aggression as would mean general war, and that is our confident resolve."

The general principle then of the new military policy is to "deter" the Soviet Union and Red China from committing a military aggression which would precipitate a general war.

For this great but special purpose strategic air power is to become the paramount military arm, in the same sense as the fleet used to be. The development of air power is to be made a tolerable economic burden for the long haul by making savings on the ground army and the surface navy.

Another way of putting this is to say that in order to be fully prepared against a great and total war with the Soviet Union, we are retrenching on those military expenditures which are primarily important for local wars and for the cold war.

Two Kinds of Defense.

There have been compelling reasons for this decision. Unless our own people and our European allies believed, as they did in 1950, that a great war is coming in two or three years, they will not pay the costs of the two kinds of rearmament.

They will not support the ever rising costs of two different kinds of military establishment, the one built around the new atomic weapons and their carriers which are good only for total war, and the other consisting of the so-called conventional forces which are of great military importance short of a general war.

The real problem which had to be solved has been obscured by the talk about economies and reduced appropriations. The fact of the matter is that the new armaments have now been developed to a point where much more must be spent upon them if we are to maintain an indubitable supremacy. What is coming is prodigiously expensive, and so in fact also is the modern equipment of the ground army and the surface navy.

A choice had to be made. Without it our military establishment would have to face the risk of becoming mediocre in all arms, and not truly efficient in any.

What we may hope and believe we are getting is the continuing capacity to keep our lead in the new armaments—which are indispensable to preventing a general war. What we are giving up is our reliance on military means as the main instrument of our leadership in the cold war.

Blessing in Disguise.

This sacrifice may turn out to be a blessing in disguise. For there is accumulating evidence in the Far East and in Europe that our emphasis on military measures is excessive and subject to diminishing political returns.

Mr. Dulles did not go into any of this in his speech. But it is an unavoidable corollary of the new military policy that there will have to be important changes in our diplomacy.

They are already indicated though without emphasis, as respects the Far East, in Mr. Dulles's address. Our military objective in Korea is now explicitly limited to preventing military aggression beyond the armistice line. The unification of Korea by military means, which we attempted in the autumn of 1950, is no longer an objective.

Negotiations in Indochina.

In Indochina the matter is no less plain. So far as American forces are concerned, they will be used, said the Secretary of State, "if there were open Red Chinese Army aggression there." These are very carefully chosen words and they say that there will not be American military intervention in the war now being fought by the men now engaged in the fighting.

Since no one, I think, believes that the French with their associates can do better than win a chance to negotiate honorably, our own decision not to intervene with our own forces carries with it the obligation to promote that negotiation by political means.

MRS. OSCAR JOHNSON FUNERAL TOMORROW

Widow of One of Founders of International Shoe Co. Dies at 89.

Private funeral services for Mrs. Oscar Johnson, philanthropist and widow of one of the founders of the International Shoe Co., will be tomorrow at 2 p.m. at the Johnson home, 38 Portland place, where she died yesterday of infirmities. She was 89 years old. Burial will be in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

Mrs. Johnson was Miss Irene Walter of Holly Springs, Miss., before her marriage to Oscar Johnson in 1889. He was then a rural storekeeper in Mississippi. In 1893 he organized a shoe manufacturing business in Memphis with his brother, the late Jackson Johnson, and their cousins, Edgar E. and the late Frank C. Rand. After the concern removed to St. Louis in 1908, the firm became Roberts, Johnson & Rand Shoe Co., and by consolidation with other companies in 1911 formed the International Shoe Co.

Mr. Johnson died in 1916, leaving personal property of $2,147,000, besides the Portland place home and what was then listed as a farm in Franklin county. This farm, with later additions, became the 7500-acre St. Alban's country place developed by Mrs. Johnson on the Missouri river bluffs.

Gift to Washington U.

Mrs. Johnson and her two sons, Oscar Jr. and James Lee Johnson, gave $550,000 to Washington University, for establishment of the Oscar Johnson Institute of Research in Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology. The institute opened in 1931 and made available what were then considered the finest facilities in the world for research in diseases of the eye, ear, nose and throat. The institute, with McMillan Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat Hospital, stands at Kingshighway and Euclid avenue.

Mrs. Johnson gave Washington University stock valued at $234,750 in 1950 for a medical rehabilitation center. She also gave a 150-acre forest from the St. Alban's farm to Missouri Botanical Garden in 1942.

Development of the St. Alban's tract by Mrs. Johnson began when she started intensive farming there more than 30 years ago. In later years she added to the acreage and purchased two islands in the Missouri river.

The farm, besides raising staple grain and feed crops, provided blue grass pastures for blooded Angus beef cattle and fine sheep. Fine Duroc-Jersey and Poland-China hogs were bred there, and a model dairy, with a Guernsey herd, became the source of supply for the highest grade milk for a St. Louis distributing firm. It has since been discontinued.

Community Developed.

A community of lovers of country life grew up about the St. Alban's center and road construction was carried on for several years, to render the nearby bluffs accessible and to provide approach to the scenic attractions of the region.

Her own home, The Chateau, contained costly paintings and historic objects, and the dining room was decorated with murals portraying scenes of old St. Louis. Much of her time was given to supervising improvements and planning new developments at St. Alban's.

She was a past president of the St. Louis Woman's Club and was active in support of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra.

Mrs. Johnson's sister, Dr. Anne Walter Fearn, who died in April, 1939, was famous for her work as surgeon of the International Settlement in Shanghai, China, and for her 45 years' service among the Chinese. Mrs. Fearn, who was several times a guest at her sister's home here, told of her own busy life in an autobiography, "My Days of Strength."

In addition to her sons, Mrs. Johnson is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Malcolm Moss, of Berkeley, Calif. and two sisters, Miss Lillian Walter and Mrs. John H. Dye of New Canaan, Conn.

JUILLIARD QUARTET PRESENTS CONCERT

Group Substitutes for Pascal Ensemble in Chamber Music Series.

By THOMAS B. SHERMAN

The Juilliard String Quartet, substituted for the Pascal Quartet last night for the second concert in the Ethical Society chamber music series played, as usual, in the Sheldon Auditorium. The program consisting of Beethoven's Quartet No. 10, in E-flat, the Debussy Quartet and Bartok's Quartet No. 4 was cordially received by a large audience.

In most important respects, however, the Juilliard ensemble was not up to the standard that has prevailed at these concerts for the last several seasons. Though a respectable precision was observed, the timbres of the several instruments lacked rich or otherwise interesting qualities and they were not well blended.

The performances suggested that the music had been studied but the control was not sufficient to produce the fine differentiations of sound, the subtleties of timing or the significant accents that result in the illuminated phrase. Most of the Debussy quartet was too coarse in texture to express its delicate and fanciful emotion. The muted andantino was an exception. It was notably poised, fluent and tender.

The quartet made its best showing with the Bartok music by reason of an aggressive treatment of pace and rhythm. Here too, a more exacting control could have made the variety of unusual sonorities that characterize this work much more arresting. Even so its bold character—manifested in all its elements and not the least so in its strange and striking melodies—was well enough projected to create a favorable impression in the audience.

As an encore, the Juilliard players repeated the pizzicato movement. The quartet was composed of Robert Mann, violin; Robert Koff, second violin; Raphael Hillyer, viola, and Arthur Winograd, 'cello.

MUNICIPAL OPERA POLLS PATRONS ON TASTE IN SHOWS

Municipal Opera wants to know what shows its patrons want to see, and has mailed questionnaires to its subscribers and guarantors to find out.

"Frank answers" are sought as to whether patrons liked last year's program at the Forest Park theater, and which shows they would like to see repeated this year. They may rank Broadway musicals, standard light operas and grand opera in English, and write-in general suggestions to make the theater "more enjoyable."

Widest latitude in the question blank, thought to be the first of its kind here, is afforded in a list of 49 possible productions ranging from "Aida" to "The Wizard of Oz," from which patrons are asked to check their own choices for a 1954 schedule. They may add their own suggestions.

Apparently to insure candor in the replies, an accompanying letter from Jacob M. Lashly, Municipal Theater Association president, points out that patrons need not sign their names.

Eisenhower Helping G.O.P. Bid for Votes

WASHINGTON.

THUS FAR THE WHITE HOUSE stage management for this second session of the Eighty-third Congress is most skillful for the effect sought. The President and his party face a critical election in November, at which control of Congress is at stake. The chief problem is to hold enough of the marginal vote—part Independent, part Democratic—which veered to Gen. Eisenhower in 1952 and swung the election to him and his party.

Such voters require some stirring up. They must be offered something specific that is attractive. Nothing has such appeal as a social welfare program. So what are we seeing? We are watching a procession of social welfare proposals from the White House to Congress in a profusion that has caused almost amazement. There has not been such dramatic staging since the early days of the Roosevelt New Deal.

Eisenhower.

The timing is expert. The technique is one familiar in the literary craft. In his annual message to Congress, the President sketched his various social welfare aims as in the first chapter of a book.

Effort to Recoup.

Then he began to follow this up with a chapter devoted to each one in the form of special, detailed messages to Congress. In that way he not only keeps interest keyed up, but also gets emphasis.

While these all are listed as humanitarian measures, they are, as well, useful as "cushions" in event of a recession, for they represent increased purchasing power to be pumped into business and industry. They are to be supplemented later with a blueprint of public works held in readiness.

The Administration's stress on social welfare is an effort to recoup from the first session of the Eighty-third Congress, which was devoid of measures in that category and, in fact, much of anything else.

As they look forward to the November election, some Administration leaders would like to forget that the first major measure passed in that first session and signed by the President was the offshore oil bill which chiefly benefits big oil interests.

Administration managers likewise seek to avoid the mistake made during the only Republican oasis in 20 years up to the party's assumption of power in January, last year, that oasis being the Eightieth Republican Congress, 1947-49.

The design of party leaders for that Congress was to devote the first session to objectives desired by business and finance and big campaign contributors, tax reduction, a cut in spending, and a tightened labor law, while the second session was to be devoted to a modified social welfare program to please the rank and file.

Senator Taft's Prodding.

The first session went off according to plan, with tax reduction, a cut in spending, and the Taft-Hartley Act. The second session started according to plan when the Senate, largely under prodding by the late Senator Taft, got through a minimum wage increase bill, a public housing bill, a federal aid to education measure.

But Republican House leaders—identically the same who manage the House today—pigeonholed these measures and did that just the week before the national convention in 1948 which nominated Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York for a second time. In its platform the party came out for the social welfare measures which the House leaders had buried the week before.

Theme for Truman.

That offered the perfect foil for President Harry S. Truman. In his own speech to the Democratic convention later, he revealed in that Republican inconsistency. Republicans said they were for these measures in their platform, he said, but had killed them in the House only the week before.

Administration managers are well aware of that 1948 pitfall and it is assumed they will try to make good on at least some of the Eisenhower social welfare program.

They cannot escape blame if they fail, for most Democrats are ready to support these measures since they were first proposed by their party.

President Eisenhower is playing his part with the social welfare pyrotechnic display that we are watching.

RAILS LEAD LATE RALLY; HESITANT STOCKS JOIN IN

Gains Run to Between 1 and 2 Points in Many Areas of List — Increase in Volume

NEW YORK, Jan. 19 (AP)—Railroads inspired a late rally today in the stock market that sent prices ahead throughout the list. Most of the best gains were held to the close.

Rains ran to between 1 and 2 points in many areas of the list, and a considerable number of small losses fell by the wayside in the rise.

Associated Press averages of 60 stocks closed up .9 of a point at 11.7. The industrial stock index rose 1.3 points, rails 1.1 points and utilities .1 of a point to a new 1953-54 high of 56.4.

(Dow-Jones industrial stock average advanced 2.24 points and rail 1.36, while utility lost .07 of a point.)

One less issue than yesterday, or 1159, were traded. There were 638 gainers, 264 losers, 257 unchanged from yesterday.

Volume piled up during periods of rising prices—an action considered bullish—and came to an aggregate 1,840,000 shares for the day. Yesterday's total was 1,580,000 in an irregular market.

Trading started fast with prices fairly steady. The pace eased as prices moved narrowly. The first pickup in trading interest came as prices began a rising flurry shortly before lunch. These brief periods of betterment continued in the afternoon.

Aircrafts displayed many fairly strong points. Oils were in demand.

General Motors was alone on the higher side in its division most of the time with a gain of between 1 and 2 points. The boost came after the company disclosed plans for a billion dollar expansion program in the next two years.

Montgomery Ward was another lone point of strength up between 2 and 3 in frequently active trading.

Plymouth Oil got a lift out of a new well in the Greenwood field of Cado Parish in Louisiana.

The Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. on the American Stock Exchange was ahead smartly after the Attorney General in Washington announced the Government had settled its anti-trust case against the company with a consent judgment.

Some constructions of nearby delivery fine goods in the cotton textile market are getting tight, mill representatives reported. The situation has resulted from recent fairly substantial purchases, especially the print cloth section of the market. For second quarter delivery however, mills reported that buyers resisted the present asking prices for print cloths. They noted, if the price was shaded about ¼c a yard, several good sized orders could be placed.

Kempton Dunn, first vice-president of the American Brake Shoe Company, will succeed Maurice N. Trainer as president on Feb. 1. Trainer, who has reached retirement age has been named to the newly-created office of vice-chairman, according to announcement by Wm. B. Given Jr., chairman.

The new president, a native of Philadelphia, has been with the company since 1932. He became first vice president and director in 1952.

LONDON STOCKS LOWER

LONDON, Jan. 19 (AP)—Industrial troubles, highlighted by the Communist-led electrical strike, took the zing out of the stock market today.

The shares list carried a long string of minuses but falls were not generally heavy.

South African gold shares headed downhill in a quiet session but some issues picked up just before the close.

Foreign bonds made a reasonable showing although German municipal issues and German bonds came on offer in a small way. Peruvians however were in demand.

... At Last

You can be an investor for only $40 a month!

That's right. You can start buying stocks on our "pay-as-you-go" plan for just $40 a month—or even $40 every three months.

How does the plan work?

You tell us how much you'd like to sign up for. It can be any amount from $40 to $999—every month or every three months.

Then tell us which stock or stocks you'd like to buy. You have your choice of nearly 1100 common stocks on the New York Stock Exchange.

When we get your first money order or check, we buy the stock you want and send you a confirmation or receipt by return mail, showing what the stock cost and how much commission you paid.

How much does it cost to buy stocks?

On purchases of $100 or less, the commission is a flat 6%. Over $100, it's $3 plus 1%—with a minimum of $6.

Thus, if you set aside $200 every 3 months, you'd pay the minimum commission of $6 or about 3%. And if you could send in as much as $999 each time, your commission would never be more than 1.3%.

The only other cost is the small charge that always applies under Stock Exchange rules when stocks are sold in less than 100 share lots—12½ cents a share for stocks selling under $40, and 25 cents a share for those selling at $40 or more.

There are no other charges. No "management" fees. No interest or service charges of any kind.

But suppose I send in $40 for a stock selling at $29.25 a share. What happens to the money left over?

Well, it's just like getting 40 cents worth of gas at 29¼ cents a gallon. You buy one full share of stock and part of another.

What about dividends?

If you own 4/5ths of a share, you're entitled to 4/5ths of the dividend. If you own a full share, you get the full dividend.

Now how long do I have to sign up for?

For any period you like from one year to five.

What happens if I miss a payment?

Nothing. In fact you can miss three or four and we'll still keep your account open. And if you ever feel that you have to withdraw from the plan, that won't cost you a penny either. We simply close your account and send you whatever stocks or dividends we may be holding—plus full cash value for any partial shares.

How do I get started?

Just fill out the coupon below, and we'll send you a membership blank together with our booklet which gives you complete details on the Monthly Investment Plan.

Without obligation, please send me your booklet and a membership blank in the Monthly Investment Plan.

Soybeans Spurt on Inquiry for 200 Cars of Bean Oil for Europe

CHICAGO, Jan. 19 (AP) — urgent demand sent soybeans scooting up for gains of about 5 cents on the Board of Trade today. Wheat was very strong and feed grains firmed. Dealings became active in all pits.

Old crop soybeans set new highs since they've been traded. The months representing the 1954 crop were higher but their gains did not match those of the old crop months.

Touching off buying in soybeans was a substantial boost in bean meal and bean oil prices, the latter helped by a government inquiry for 200 cars for export to West Germany.

What deliveries representing the 1954 crop also set new seasonal highs. Demand was stimulated by indications red wheat stocks were declining. Feed gains were aided by the strength in other cereals.

U.S. BONDS STEADY TO UP

NEW YORK, Jan. 19 (AP)—The bond market advanced selectively today with high grade corporates and United States Governments showing the way.

Advances of fractions generally and in some cases a point or more were in a majority and covered a wide range of issues near start of final hour.

A late development in the new financing field was the sale at auction of $30,000,000 of Ohio Edison 3¼s to a Halsey, Stuart syndicate for 101.34. Reoffering is expected at 101.93 to yield 3.15 per cent.

U.S. Governments were unchanged to up 6-32 of a point with trading somewhat active in over-the-counter markets.

German dollar bonds eased in a quiet foreign department. Germany 5½s of 1965 lost a point at 80¾. Norway's obligations improved.

Changes in the corporate list were generally small fractions early. Medium priced railroads tended to lose a little ground. Utilities were mixed. But industrials were in moderate demand.

The Treasury announced that its latest 1½ billion dollar issue of 91-day bills sold at an average interest cost of 1.208 per cent. This was the lowest charge since Aug. 17, 1950, when the rate was 1.174 per cent. A week ago, it was 1.336 per cent.

"With business loans being paid off, there evidently are more funds available for investment in short term securities," said a Treasury official.

In Financing Field.

In other new financing activity, Pan American Petroleum & Transport Co. borrowed $7,000,000 on a 3½ per cent note due 1956-61. The debt agreement calls for $15,000,000 in loans by 1955. Proceeds are for construction of refining facilities in subsidiary companies.

Plymouth Oil Co. borrowed $4,000,000 at 3¼ and 3¼ per cent interest from Guaranty Trust Co. on 1858-59 maturities.

Delhi Oil Corp. plans to offer its stockholders additional common stock to raise $10,000,000 for new working capital, P.T. Bee, executive vice president, said. Shareholders yesterday voted to increase authorized common from three to five million shares.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19 (AP)—Foreign exchange rates follow (Great Britain in dollars, others in cents):

Canadian dollar in New York open market 2¾ per cent premium or 102.87½ United States cents, unchanged.

Great Britain (pound) $2.81¼, 30-day futures, $2.81¼, 60-day futures $2.81 7-32, 90 day futures $2.81 3-16, all up 1-16 of a cent.

Belgium (franc) 2.00¼. France (franc) .25⅝ of a cent, Holland (guilder) 26.42, Italy (lira) .16¼ of a cent, Portugal (escudo) 3.50, Sweden (krona) 19.34; Switzerland (franc) (free) 23.32, Denmark (krone) 14.52, all unchanged.

FCC APPOINTEE LEE APPROVED BY SENATE GROUP

Witness Before Commerce Committee Says He Is 'Not Beholden' to McCarthy.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP) —The Senate Commerce Committee today approved President Eisenhower's nomination of Robert E. Lee to be a member of the Federal Communications Commission.

Senator Monroney (Dem.), Oklahoma, cast the only vote against recommending Senate confirmation of Lee. Senator Pastore (Dem.), Rhode Island, withheld his vote.

Lee testified under questioning by the committee at a public hearing yesterday that he was "not beholden" to Senator McCarthy (Rep.), Wisconsin, for his appointment to a seven-year term on the commission.

He said McCarthy was a friend of his and "a great guy" but had nothing to do with the appointment.

Monroney told a reporter he voted against Lee "because I don't think he has the proper qualifications for this particular and sensitive job" involving the regulation of television, radio and other means of communication.

Lee, a former Federal Bureau of Investigation agent and staff official of the House Appropriations Committee, was given a recess appointment by President Eisenhower last October.

Support by Corporations Likely Solution of Symphony Financing

Cincinnati Orchestra Endowed, and Also Aided by Fine Arts Funds, but Needs More to Expand Services.

Rising costs of operation together with the virtual disappearance of large individual gifts have produced a continuing crisis for American symphony orchestras. The St. Louis Symphony Society is now engaged in its annual maintenance fund drive and in order to furnish a comparison between the St. Louis situation and that of other cities the music editor of the Post-Dispatch recently visited Detroit, Boston, Pittsburgh and Cincinnati. This is the third in a series of reports.

By THOMAS B. SHERMAN.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 19—If the symphony orchestras of the United States could reach more deeply and more extensively into the communities they serve they could undoubtedly command a greater and more durable financial support from industry, commerce and individuals.

More services, however, require more money. So the immediate problem for every orchestra, except one or two, is a financial problem. Even the few orchestras that are blessed with relatively stable financial set-ups recognize danger signals in rising costs and, in some cases, a tendency toward falling attendance.

As for costs, it is not likely they will become smaller even for orchestras that do no more than hold what they have. Seasons of from 20 to 28 weeks can produce barely more than a subsistence wage to many players. And since salaries to musicians constitute the dominant item of expense in running an orchestra, the possibilities of reducing costs are virtually non-existent.

Money and More Money.

Citizens who have accepted the responsibility of keeping symphonic music alive must think first and almost exclusively about raising money and more money. Consequently they are highly receptive to new ideas which promise relief from hit-and-miss fund raising.

Cincinnati is one of the cities where the orchestra's economic condition is relatively stable, though by no means static. For many years the orchestra was supported by Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Taft, and fortunately for it and for other cultural institutions in Cincinnati, Mrs. Taft looked to the future.

One of the great services of her final years was to give $1,500,000 as an endowment fund. This was supplemented, in compliance with a condition laid down by Mrs. Taft, by more than $2,000,000 raised by public subscription. The proceeds were to be distributed among four cultural institutions including the symphony orchestra, which now receives about $90,000 a year from this endowment.

More recently the system of a fund for all the fine arts rather than for music exclusively was followed in the establishment of the United Fine Arts Fund which makes an annual drive in behalf of the symphony orchestra, the Taft Museum, the Cincinnati Art Museum and the Zoo Opera which gives a summer season. The symphony receives from this fund about $130,000 a year. These two sources form the bulk of its support aside from earned income. The orchestra's gross expenditures for a 28-week season amount to a little more than $500,000 annually.

City Withdraws Aid.

One item of revenue is in danger. The City of Cincinnati has been making a $25,000 donation for the last several seasons as a kind of offset to the rental charged for the use of the Music Hall, where the concerts are held. The city government now has financial troubles of its own and pending the outcome of a proposal to institute an earnings tax has withdrawn its donation.

This fact, together with the general uncertainty of the times for non-profit institutions, has caused the directors of the symphony society to do some hard thinking about future financing. And here too the idea of enlisting the support of corporations en bloc has received consideration.

Corporations are already enlisted among the strong supporters of the United Fine Arts fund and according to Lucian Wilson, president of the Baldwin Piano Co. and for many years the president of the Symphony Society, their chief officials do not have to be sold on the importance of cultural institutions.

"Obviously a city profits by the presence of orchestras, museums and colleges," he says. "They are an inducement for young executives to move here with their families and without them the city would present a barren prospect to many. This has been proved in case after case."

"Do corporation presidents respond to this argument?" I asked.

"They tell us," he answered. "We don't tell them."

How Season is Divided.

The Cincinnati orchestra, conducted by Thor Johnson, gives 20 regular pairs of concerts, 12 for young people, three "pops," four neighborhood concerts and two "specials." The "pops" are underwritten by the William H. Alders Supermarket. The Neighborhood Concerts, undertaken for the first time this season, are designed to reach parts of the metropolitan area whose residents would have difficulty in attending downtown concerts.

The first one, given recently at a school auditorium in Covington, Ky., just across the Ohio river from Cincinnati, was considered successful, though not sold out. Members of the Parent-Teachers Associations form the local sponsoring committees for these suburban concerts and receive part of the box office receipts.

The orchestra maintains a pension fund into which it pays, out of revenue, $16,000 a year.

The orchestra also takes part in the biennial May Festival; but this event—one of the most important of its kind in the middle west — is operated separately.

In Cincinnati, as in other American cities, many residents of the area regard the symphony concerts as heavily "social" and therefore somewhat exclusive. This may have been the case in earlier days and in instances where the orchestra was the favored project of one or two rich individuals.

It is no longer true, but the notion dies hard and will probably never be wholly eliminated until the orchestra find ways of establishing contacts with a larger percentage than now of their resident populations. When this is done, as in Boston, the orchestra has an opportunity to earn a greater share of its total budget.

New Ventures, New Funds.

To take on new ventures, however, greater funds are needed, at least in the first stages. So managers, trustees or boards of directors, as has been pointed out, are overlooking no possible source of revenue, new or old.

In the main these sources are endowments, public subscriptions by individuals and corporations, sponsored broadcasts or television shows, governmental subsidies and special events.

Several orchestras have substantial endowment funds but only the Cleveland orchestra is so heavily endowed as to make the raising of supplemental funds a relatively easy matter. Estate and high taxes generally, however, make the possibility of future endowments large enough to form the bulk of an orchestra's support seem remote. The same influences have reduced the size of individual gifts to maintenance funds. Several orchestras are already benefiting from municipal subsidies; it is likely that their number will increase. Decentralization, however, has so complicated the problem of financing the essential facilities of the cities that municipal subsidies for music are considered undependable.

Federal subsidies would be politically unfeasible. Three bills have been introduced into Congress which would make federal funds available to symphony orchestras, but their passage is not likely. Moreover, aside from Floyd Blair, president of the New York Philharmonic, and a few others, symphony directors oppose federal subsidy on principle and think, further, that it would be an awkward system to administer.

Revenues From Recordings.

Recordings have brought in substantial revenues to several orchestras, and others are improving their earnings in this field. What seems likely, however, is that the total royalties from this source will become more widely dispersed as the field becomes more competitive. Revenue from special events — benefit nights, fashion shows, etc.—have never bulked large in the list of total receipts, and they frequently involve the orchestra in projects not in character with its true program and function.

So by elimination one reaches corporate support as the pattern of the future for symphony orchestra financing if there is to be any future that has both artistic continuity and the possibility of expansion. The supporting of cultural institutions is not an unprecedented activity for American industrial and commercial organizations. The special task of the symphony orchestra spokesmen is to convince corporate heads of the orchestra's civic importance. The special technique is to invite joint action and not single, isolated gifts; to assure everyone that the burden will be distributed and to enlist the aid of corporate representatives in administering the funds so raised.

As has been shown in Detroit and Pittsburgh, such an approach can be successful.

2 CLERGYMEN CALLED REDS ARE CLEARED BY BISHOP

BOSTON, Jan. 19 (AP)—The Rt. Rev. Norman B. Nash, Protestant Episcopal bishop of Massachusetts, has cleared, from the church's standpoint, two clergymen named as Communists before the House Un-American Activities Committee.

They are the Rev. Joseph F. Fletcher, professor of Christian ethics at the Episcopal Theological School in Cambridge; and the Rev. Kenneth DeP. Hughes, rector of St. Bartholomew's Church, Cambridge.

Bishop Nash said in a statement last night both men denied to him "orally and in writing that they are, ever were or ever desired to be members of the Communist party, and I believe them."

FIXED SYSTEM OF DEALING WITH REDS IS SOUGHT

Objective of White House—Would Make Congress Inquiries Less Necessary.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP) —Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams said last night that the White House would like to set up a relatively permanent system for dealing with Communists. He said this would make Congressional Red hunts less necessary in the future.

President Eisenhower's top aid gave his views to reporters in an interview recorded for the Mutual Broadcasting System.

Adams replied "of course" to a question whether the White House would like to "set up some relatively basic permanent system for dealing with Communists, whether they are in the Government or not."

He said he was speaking of "executive responsibility in these matters which we have accepted and which we are discharging." And he said there is not the slightest inference of a desire to "limit the latitude" of Congressional committees, such as that headed by Senator McCarthy (Rep.), Wisconsin, in making any investigations they wish. But he continued:

"Obviously, if the executive department does its job so that there is a feeling not only on the part of Congress but the American people that this whole problem of Communism has been adequately dealt with, it is obviously going to make much less inducement on the part of the Congress to conduct these investigations."

VICTORY FORECAST FOR ANTI-RED BILL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (UP) — Representative Kenneth B. Keating (Rep.), New York, today predicted easy House passage of legislation, requested by President Eisenhower, to strip Communist conspirators of their United States citizenship.

Keating, a ranking House Judiciary Committee member, said he is certain the group will approve unanimously any "carefully worded" bill to carry out the President's recommendation.

The President's proposal — which provoked more applause than any other part of his State of the Union message — has drawn strong bipartisan support.

Bills spelling out the President's proposal were introduced yesterday by Representative Reed (Rep.), Illinois, and by Senators Ferguson (Rep.), Michigan, and Margaret Chase Smith (Rep.), Maine.

Meanwhile, Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr. sent Congress proposed legislation to increase drastically the penalties on anyone convicted of harboring a Communist fugitive or any other fugitive from Federal justice.

Senator Potter (Rep.), Michigan, introduced bills to brand the Communist party a "world-wide conspiracy" and make American membership a crime, and to permit the use of wire-tap evidence in cases involving espionage or national security.

The President's "citizenship" proposal would broaden the McCarran-Walter immigration act to take away the citizenship of any persons convicted of rebellion, or of advocating or conspiring to overthrow the Government.

In proposing tougher penalties for harboring federal fugitives, Brownell said the present penalties for harboring a federal fugitive—six months in jail and a $1000 fine—are not sufficient "to prevent Communist party members or sympathizers from concealing Communist fugitives.

Stage Designer Won't Say Whether He Was a Communist.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP) —Howard Bay, stage designer for such Broadway hits as "Carousel" and "One Touch of Venus," refused yesterday to tell the House Un-American Activities Committe whether he was a Communist as late as Dec. 31, 1951.

The 42-year-old artist insisted "no inference need be drawn as to any guilt," of subversive activities on his part.

YOUTH SHOT AS HE LUNGES INTO HOME

Wounded by Recent Robbery Victim Who Opened Door With Pistol in Hand.

A youth who lunged into the home of Henry Staples, 815½ (rear) Delmar boulevard, last midnight after identifying himself as a messenger was shot in the chest and wounded seriously by Staples.

He was captured a few minutes later after getting in a taxicab and telling the driver he had been shot. Police took the wounded youth to Homer G. Phillips Hospital, where he is registered as Lester Webb, 18 years old, a Negro, 1434 (rear) Franklin avenue. Because of his condition officers were unable to question him at length.

Staples, 60, a vendor, explained he opened his door with pistol in hand because he recently was slugged and robbed by a young Negro near his home.

Three youths arrested last night by detectives on a description of the automobile in which they were riding were identified as participants in a $66 holdup a short time earlier at a confectionery at 1636 Cole street, police reported.

The prisoners were booked as Floyd D. Smith, 20, living in the 1100 block of St. Louis avenue, who, police said, was released last August from Algoa Reformatory after serving a term for assault with a deadly weapon; and Leon E. Stoutt and Clarence G. Owens, each 17, both of whom gave an address in the 2100 block of North Wharf.

Stoutt was sitting on a pistol when arrested and the detectives recovered $66, which had been taken from Paul Robinson and Christopher McLeod, Negro operators of the confectionery, and from Ward Smith, 1428 Cole street, a customer. The victims identified the prisoners, who are held pending application for robbery warrants.

Henry Handles, manager of a drug store at 320 North Vandeventer avenue, was held up by two men and robbed of $100 last night. The robbers, Negroes, fled north in Vandeventer.

The White Mill Sandwich Shop, 1015 North Grand boulevard, scene of frequent holdups, was robbed of $25 last night by a Negro, who pointed a revolver at John Bogner, the counterman.

M'ARTHUR DENIES JAP REPORT ON MINESWEEPERS

Japanese Vessels Not Used in Landing Operations at Wonsan in 1950, He Says.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19 (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur denied today a Japanese report that he used Japanese minesweepers in Korean war landing operations at Wonsan, Korea, in 1950.

The former Far East commander said the minesweepers were used to clear suspected old Japanese mines from Wonsan and other waters in accordance with terms of the Japanese surrender and that they were not involved in belligerent action.

The Tokyo newspaper Sangyo Keizai had quoted the resigned commander of Japan's coast guard, Sanjo Oku, as saying that the use of the vessels constituted a violation of international law.

MacArthur said, in a statement issued at his office here:

"Japanese minesweepers were used to clear Wonsan harbor against suspected old Japanese mines laid against the American Navy during the latter phases of World War II.

"From the close of the war, in accordance with the terms of surrender, they had been clearing the Sea of Japan and other waters contiguous to the Japanese islands and its former possessions such as Korea of such mines.

"They performed this duty ably and gallantly. There was no violation of international or Japanese law; quite the contrary.

"Their action involved no belligerency. It was entirely humanitarian. There was no secrecy with reference to the matter except that normal to such operations."

The Japanese newspaper said yesterday that MacArthur used the minesweepers in an amphibious landing operation by United States Marines at Wonsan on Oct. 26, 1950. The newspaper said the operation had been kept secret with all members of the Coast Guard instructed to say nothing about it.

A memorial was dedicated in June 1952, the paper said, to one Coast Guard man killed in the operation when a minesweeper struck a mine and sank.

It said the commander of a Coast Guard unit resigned in protest and that Oku also resigned, apparently feeling responsible for the refusal of some of his men to obey the occupation order.

U.S. ASKS RUSSIA TO FREE MISSING ARMY LIEUTENANT

VIENNA, Jan. 19 (AP)—The United States Army in Austria has asked Soviet army authorities to release a 23-year-old lieutenant believed to be in Russian hands, it was announced tonight.

The officer is Second Lt. William Donald Adkins, 23 years old, in Indianapolis, Ind., who has been missing since Jan. 12.

The Army released the text of a letter sent by United States commander in Austria, Lt. Gen. William H. Arnold, to the Russian commander, Gen. S. S. Beriuzov, demanding the officer's release.

13 DEMOCRATS SEEK PLACES ON ST. CLAIR COUNTY BALLOT

Thirteen Democrats filed petitions at Belleville yesterday for places on the April 13 primary election ballot for St. Clair county offices. It was the first day for filing, and the absence of Republicans was unusual.

Other candidates may file until Jan. 25, and withdrawals will be accepted until Jan. 30. Many others are expected to enter the races, including a full list of Republicans.

The office of sheriff is attracting the most interest. Three Democrats who filed yesterday are Russell L. Wright of Caseyville township, a member of the county Board of Review; Herbert Schwind of Belleville, chairman of the Board of Review, and Press P. Waller of Belleville.

Sheriff Edgar Lehman, a Republican, who cannot run for re-election, has indicated that he might try for the State Legislature.

NEW SOVIET AMBASSADOR TO TURKEY IS APPOINTED

MOSCOW, Jan. 19 (AP)—The Soviet government announced last night the appointment of the former deputy minister of foreign affairs, Boris Fedorovich Podtserob, as ambassador to Turkey.

Podtserob relieves Alexander Lavrishchev who, the announcement said, is being transferred to New York.

Podtserob is a leading figure of the Soviet Foreign Ministry where for many years he occupied the post of secretary general. His duties in this capacity had to do largely with internal ministry administration. He worked closely with Foreign Ministers Vishinsky and Molotov.

Police reported the combinations of two safes had been knocked off. The theft occurred Sunday.

LODGE SAYS STUPID MEN KEPT 3 ALLIES OUT OF KOREA WAR

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP)—Henry Cabot Lodge said today "some very stupid men" in Washington were responsible for three nations not sending troops to fight in Korea.

Lodge, United States Ambassador to the United Nations, in a speech to leaders of the National Federation of Republican Women, said that in the Korean war the United States did not follow the World War II pattern of helping other nations equip troops they were willing to put in the fight.

Instead, Lodge said, this country required Allies to pay for clothes and transportation.

"This was a mistake," he said. "It was a fault of some very stupid men here. I can't mention names, but I know of three nations that would have sent troops."

BARNES HOSPITAL ANNUAL REPORT

(Including McMillan Hospital, St. Louis Maternity Hospital, and Wohl Memorial Hospital, which are conducted by Barnes Hospital for Washington University.)

This annual report for 1953 records a year of great effort by every segment of hospital personnel: doctors, nurses, other professional and non-professional employes, Trustees, and administration. The effort was great for the reason that, while maintaining the same high quality of patient care in the midst of adjusting to the many changes made necessary by the construction programs of Barnard, Children's, Renard and Wohl hospitals, more patients were hospitalized in approximately the same number of beds and, except in the medical and house staff, no increase in personnel.

This accomplishment of maintaining the hospital's primary responsibility and function, that of rendering service to sick and injured patients, required that great care be exercised to maintain the full use of hospital beds. Each hospital in the group continued to operate at capacity, and considerable attention was given to the prompt admission and discharge of patients. Frequently, it was necessary for beds to be placed in the halls or waiting rooms temporarily in order to meet the demand for hospital service.

The following is a statement of patients admitted and discharged during the year:

Patients in Hospital December 31, 1952 — — — — —	547
Patients admitted during 1953 — — — — — —	23,948
Patients treated in 1953 —	24,495
Patients discharged in 1953	23,925
Patients remaining in hospital December 31, 1953 — —	570

(Note: In addition, there were 4,058 infants, who received 30,566 days of hospital care, born in the hospital during 1953.)

The expenses of hospital operation and income received during the year 1953 are as follows:

Expenses — — — — —	$5,001,617
Income — — — — — —	$4,758,919
Net operating deficit —	$ 242,698
Net income from endowment and other sources	$ 182,217
Net deficit for the year	$ 60,481

Barnes Hospital receives no grants from federal, state or local government. Barnes Hospital's greatest need is for endowment, especially unrestricted endowment. Only 3.7 per cent of the hospital's entire income comes from endowment, and from Community Chest and other gifts. In other words 96.3 per cent of the hospital's income must be derived from charges to patients.

Over $248,000 of absolutely free care was given to 885 patients who received 12,693 days of care. In addition, a like amount was subsidized to pay-ward patients whose cost of care was more than the rates charged. The physicians on the staff, who are members of the Washington University School of Medicine faculty, also rendered several hundred thousand dollars worth of free professional care.

Improvements in service to the public are in provision of 24-hour administrative coverage. An evening and night administrator covering the period from 4:00 p.m. to 12:00 a.m. and from 12:00 a.m. to 8:00 a.m. became effective December 1, 1953. By this means over-all administration has been improved because of continuity of administrative assistance and by better co-ordination of the complex operation of the hospital. Another improvement in service to the public was in providing 24-hour, 7-day-a-week emergency service through 1953. Emergency care was received by 8044 patients, not including many others who came to Emergency and were referred to the hospitals or the clinic after quick screening showed they should not be cared for in the emergency unit.

During the year Barnes Hospital, in co-operation with Washington University School of Medicine, has developed three parking lot areas within this medical center. These three lots are located north and south of Audubon, east of Euclid; and a large area south of Audubon, west of Euclid. Approximately 280 cars can at present be parked in these areas which greatly facilitates parking for the medical staff making their rounds, hospital and medical school employes, and patients' families. However, despite the addition of these three lots, an acute parking problem still exists.

Civilian defense operations have continued in Barnes Hospital since there is a possibility of a large number of patients having to be hospitalized at any time. Meetings of the Disaster Committee are held periodically in an attempt to keep abreast of any possible situation which might develop.

Several improvements to the hospital's function and physical plant during the year were made in the continued application of the Air Line Food Service to the patients, which releases space formerly used for pantries or serving kitchens. The released space can be used for additional patient beds, examining rooms or office space. Installation of individual ice-cube machines on each floor allowed a complete replanning of main kitchen facilities and eliminated the central ice making plant, thus releasing space for the Air Line Food Service set-up and a centralized dish washer, thereby eliminating the necessity of washing patients' dishes in 30 different places throughout the hospital.

A new switchboard with six operator positions and 900 dial stations was installed in space made available by combining the dietary office with a former classroom. This has given the hospital additional trunk lines and additional stations throughout the Medical Center, and also made possible the addition of telephones in more of the private rooms.

The David P. Wohl Jr. Memorial Hospital was opened on November 20th. This unit will help meet the heavier demand for more private patient beds. The auditorium in this new building not only will release the space occupied by the present auditorium on the third floor of the administration wing of Barnes Hospital, but, being on the ground floor of Wohl (with access from three directions) takes considerable amount of traffic out of the corridors and off the elevators of Barnes Hospital. The office space provided in the non-hospital part of the building has released space which will enable Barnes Hospital to reactivate the old operating room suite. These and other helpful rearrangements have long been needed.

The construction of Barnard Free Skin and Cancer Hospital, a five-story structure connecting the Barnes Hospital and the Mallinckrodt Institute of Radiology, is going forward. The hospital, owned by the Barnard Board of Directors, will be operated by the Trustees of Barnes Hospital for that Board of Directors. When this hospital is opened it will provide complete facilities for the care of cancer patients and patients with skin diseases. The betatron, located in the building and being operated by the Mallinckrodt Institute of Radiology, will provide up-to-date facilities for therapy and research. An anonymous donor has provided the additional fifth floor, in which it is planned that the tumor clinic will be located.

With the construction of Renard Hospital, plans for expansion of the Psychiatric Service continued to go forward. The 7 story, 100-bed addition to the hospital group, owned by Washington University and to be operated by the Barnes Trustees, is being constructed partially from the proceeds of a grant-in-aid received under the Hill-Burton Act administered in the State of Missouri by the Department of Health and Welfare. Renard Hospital, providing facilities for additional hospital beds, doctor's clinical practice quarters, and laboratories, will front on Audubon Avenue east of Wohl Hospital. Begun in September 1952, it is expected that construction will be completed and the building will be ready for occupancy by late fall in 1954. The bridge leading to Renard Hospital from Audubon and crossing the Wabash Railroad tracks provides additional space for the Barnes Hospital laundry which will be under the bridge extending from Renard Hospital north to the property line. This will permit rearrangement of the laundry so that not only will more space be added but the second floor of the laundry building can be used for medical record storage.

The Trustees express their deep appreciation of the combined outstanding efforts of the staff physicians, nurses, and all other personnel. The Trustees extend their gratitude to the Washington University School of Nursing for the training of student nurses, and urge qualified young women to enter this interesting field of endeavor.

The following is a summary statement of the assets of Barnes Hospital as of December 31, 1953:

Investment in real estate, stocks and bonds	$2,096,273
Hospital buildings, grounds and equipment — — — —	$2,040,212
Current and working assets — — — — —	$ 988,277
Total assets — — —	$5,124,762

Now They've Made Two-Headed TV Set

By John Crosby

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.

AND now it's two-headed television. The Allen B. Dumont Laboratories has developed a set which can receive two pictures at once. You wear a pair of polarized glasses which filters out one picture and leaves the other one. If you want to switch to the other one, you turn the glasses around.

JOHN CROSBY

In short, while the husband is watching the fights, the wife can be looking at Bob Hope. She's laughing. He's yelling: "For Pete's sake, keep your left up, ya dope!" The possibilities for marital chaos are endless.

The minute the program is over, she's saying: "Why doesn't Bob Hope drop those Bing Crosby jokes?" He's thinking: "I owe Ryan 10 bucks. What ever made me think Mendez was a fighter?"

Two discontented people—but discontented about different things. In the old days, they could both hoot at the same commercial and it was very good for their souls. It brought them together. With this gadget, they got nothing to talk about except the high cost of living.

★ ★ ★

I HAPPENED TO BE on hand to watch this monstrous device the first time it was shown to the public. Two shows were on—Conrad Nagel, emceeing a variety show, and some female baking a pie. Well, I put the glasses on one way and sure enough the pie disappeared and Conrad Nagel came through, handsome as ever. Then I tried the glasses on the other way around. Something went awry. (Conceivably I had a pair of defective glasses.) The pie swam back into view, all right, but Mr. Nagel stayed on. The Nagel face was right in the middle of the pie and the lady presently smeared it from top to bottom with whipped cream.

It was far and away the most entertaining cooking show I've ever witnessed. Some personalities, I reflected, are too strong for polaroid, they'll shine right through anyway. That brings up some interesting possibilities. An actor will be making love to some girl in the parlor and right smack in the middle of it, Hopalong Cassidy will ride through, hell for leather. Don Newcombe will be throwing low inside pitches at Arthur Godfrey. (No polaroid is possibly strong enough to filter out Arthur Godfrey. If Paley can't control Godfrey, polaroid will never manage it.)

★ ★ ★

OVER IN RUSSIA, the livestock is being frightened out of its wits by "Tarzan" pictures, according to Pravda. Over here, where Tarzan has long since lost any scare value, they scare us with two-headed television sets. We're way ahead of them.

As a matter of fact, the technicians have all sorts of little surprises for you coming up. Along with two-headed television, we may also soon have no-headed television. This prediction comes straight from the lofty one-headed dome of Pat Weaver, NBC's new president, who is quoted in "Sponsor" magazine as saying:

"In the future no one will think of making a TV set that does not have a knob that turns the video off. They don't bother making that installation now because of the extra cost. But it is inevitable that people will want to listen to blind sets—even with variety programs like Berle. Once you've watched a show a lot you can tell what it looks like and picture it in your mind. People will want to play their TV sets like background music."

★ ★ ★

WEAVER HAS MADE a good many startling predictions in his day but this is one of the most—well—interesting of all of them. Seems to me, though, that in the long distant past we had something like Weaver's headless television set. We called it radio.

Try and Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

WHEN Gregory Ratoff came to New York last, he demanded the name of a restaurant that served the best soup in town. He was told of a place on the lower East Side that was so fastidious in its preparations that an order had to be placed two days in advance. Happily, Ratoff ordered the borscht by phone. Just before he left for the restaurant, a friend warned, "That's a tough neighborhood you're invading. Full of crooks. Better keep an eye on your hat and coat."

Ratoff turned up at his movie office the next morning in a very subdued mood. "How was the borscht last night?" he was asked. "I never had it," grumbled Ratoff. "It's your advice that's responsible! While I was watching my hat and coat, somebody stole my borscht!"

MARIE WILSON, who has made a big hit playing a dim-wit, was dismayed to learn that her husband hoped to have his portrait painted by a Los Angeles artist. "How can you dream of a silly thing like that!" she chided. "On the very eve of our trip to Europe! Wait till we get there—and you can have yourself painted by one of the famous old masters!"

The Dean

Speaks Up

Facts About Martinique

By Adele Starbird

IT'S all very well to write about hibiscus and oleanders, but one needs a few solid facts upon which to hang these flowery garlands. I'm going to try to give the minimum number about Martinique, which I visited on my recent trip, in capsule form, quickly and all at once.

DEAN STARBIRD

Columbus, who seems to have been everywhere at least once, landed on Martinique, which the Carib Indians called "Matinino," the "Isle of Flowers," during his fourth voyage in 1502. A modest monument, which I have duly visited, marks the spot.

The island was colonized by the French under Richelieu, when a young nobleman, Esnambuc, arrived with 80 men and built the fort of St. Pierre. A descendant of his was Josephine, whose grandson would be emperor—one of the worst rulers France has had.

The little colony prospered and maintained a flourishing trade with Europe. Spanish ships brought African slaves toward the end of the century.

★ ★ ★

THE DUTCH attacked in force and were repulsed. During the next century the English attacked five times, were repulsed twice, but succeeded on three occasions in getting possession of the island. Rochambeau, who played a decisive part in our Revolutionary War, was defeated on Martinique by the English in 1794. It must have been a sweet revenge. In 1814 Martinique was recognized by the European powers as a French colony and had peace until World War II.

At that time Admiral Robert took over in the name of the Vichy Government. The American Government, fearing that the magnificent harbors of Martinique would serve as refueling bases for German submarines, enforced a rigid blockade.

At the end of the war, the French Assembly took Martinique in as a full-fledged department of France—somewhat the same procedure as our projected statehood for Hawaii. This policy is called Assimilation, and is always spelled with a capital letter. As far as I can judge—maybe I know all the wrong people—the Martinicans don't like it; they claim that the colonial status was better.

★ ★ ★

ONE OF THEIR NOVELISTS has written in satiric vein: "This scrap of the universe furnishes France—in small quantity—sugar, rum, cocoa, bananas, a senator and two deputies. If you subtract all the rest, these two last contributions would in themselves suffice to justify the usefulness of the little colony, for France—as everybody will agree—has a great need of parliamentarians, and the minute island in its modest way, furnishes three of different colors—as concerns skin, if not politics."

Speaking of a corrupt election, the same author says that the islanders were amazed and delighted to discover when the votes were counted that the population of Martinique approximated that of the United States.

★ ★ ★

SLAVERY WAS ABOLISHED in 1848. The Martinicans are for the most part a mixed race; the percentage of pure whites or pure blacks is small. The Negroes themselves will tell you that there is no discrimination and no race tension in the island. I think that there is some.

They will tell you also that there is no voodoo here, as there is in Haiti, that the superstitions of the people are of French origin, not African. That also is only partly true. A reading of their folk tales shows traces of African magic, of zombis and "gens gages," human beings who are sold to the devil. For instance, on New Year's day, they will give one another a present of oranges, the seeds of which must be carefully preserved to ward off evil. And back of that custom is a delightful folk tale which I may relate some other time.

But they are right in claiming that theirs is a French culture. They send their sons and daughters to Paris; they have the French system of primary education, their cuisine is entirely French, with very few Creole influences. And every one of them feels that he is just as truly "fils de France" as any Bourbon king.

Portrait of Mink-Made Man

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK, Jan. 19 (AP).

COL. FRANK C. GOTHIER is a mink-made man. "I never inherited a penny in my life," said the Colonel, who is perhaps the only man in America who wears a mink coat and also owns 9000 live mink, 400 hogs, 1400 acres of Iowa bottomland and a Colorado gold mine.

"Of course, it's just an old gold mine," he explained modestly. "I bought it for the taxes on it.

"I suppose there are any number of people who own gold mines. But the only other fellow I ever heard of who had his own mink coat was that Russian they called Rasputin. After he got himself killed the Russian government sent his coat over here, and it sold for $2200, although it was 25 years old."

To the Colonel this is sound proof that a mink coat wears better than a Russian political figure.

Gothier, a stalwart 6-foot, 3-inch man of 65, is the dean of United States mink ranchers and a pioneer in the breeding of new fur types.

"Mink have fascinated me all my life," said the Colonel, who came here to sell 2000 pelts. "I trapped 'em as a boy near my home at Anthon, Ia.

"I had a good home, but I left it at 12 because the farm was too small an operation for a family of seven.

"I wanted to be independent and make my own way. So I went out to South Dakota and rode the range before they even had a railroad. When I married, I figured that was no life for a married man, so I came back to my old home town, took a small piece of land and settled down."

* * *

IN 1916 Gothier began breeding mink, but didn't make a dollar out of them for 17 long years. He made the farm pay his living and the cost of his breeding experiments.

He became one of the nation's best known fur judges and a top auctioneer. His title of Colonel, conferred by the state of Iowa, is a tribute to his work at more than 1000 auctions.

"My dream was always to create a better mink," he said. "Over the years I cross-bred six species of American mink and five species from Alaska and Canada. I've produced mink in 12 different colors.

"Right now I'm interested in white mink and buff mink, because they're new. I always like to do something new. I get one white mink out of every 16 I produce.

"I've been told several times that this is impossible because it violates Mendel's law of heredity. But my mink never heard of the law. You never can tell what a mink will do."

The Colonel wears a hat made of wild jackrabbit fur.

"We feed the mink wild jackrabbits by the ton," he explained. "We also feed 'em horsemeat, herring, buttermilk, cereals, yeast and tomato juice."

* * *

THE mink respond to this nourishing diet by being amazingly co-operative in the Colonel's breeding experiments. A mink born in May will produce an average litter of four kits one year later. But except for those kept to restock the herd, the mink born in May are electrocuted and pelted the following December.

COL. FRANK C. GOTHIER WITH A "BREATH OF SPRING" SAPPHIRE MINK..."YOU NEVER CAN TELL WHAT A MINK WILL DO."

"I don't know of any animal that grows so fast," said the Colonel.

The mink have an all-around value in peace and war. Their fur is made into fine garments to clothe lovely ladies. Their carcasses are ground into tankage and fed to hogs. Their grease is made into glycerine and winds up in high-explosive shells.

Col. Gothier, who did as much as any man to turn this wild little creature into a multi-million-dollar ranch animal, says he has a deep respect for mink.

"They're naturally vicious," he said, "but they're the greatest mothers in the world. They're good to their kits."

Dining Table Flattery

By Elizabeth Hillyer

GENERAL lighting is needed for the dining room, but today's idea is that it isn't enough. The same fixture that provides glareless and far-reaching illumination for the whole room can do more when it's asked to — the new hanging lamps can be pulled down to make silver and dishes sparkle, and to flatter everyone at the table.

The lamp sketched is called a reel pulley fixture. It can be raised to the ceiling or lowered to eye level—the reel adjusts from three and one-half inches to six feet.

Washability is its plus-practical feature. Even the bright brass parts are coated with plastic to make them washable and the shade is of a plastic fabric. The handle is walnut.

A strictly modern look didn't keep the first of the new ceiling fixtures out of traditional rooms — the idea is too good — but there are more now like this one which catch an echo of old hanging lamps in their design.

My Day

Tribute to Jewish Leader

By Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK.

SUNDAY a unique party was given in New York City in honor of Dr. Israel Goldstein. This party was an informal reception for the many people whose troubles and difficulties have been heard by members of the Jewish Conciliation Board of America, Inc., of which Dr. Goldstein is the president. He is also the president of the American Jewish Congress and a distinguished rabbi.

It would take too long to enumerate his various contributions to public life. Here I want to report to you only on this particular party. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas was the principal speaker and the place of meeting was the old Educational Alliance building on New York's lower East Side.

* * *

MANY OF the people gathered there were survivors of Hitler's concentration camps, others were products of New York's tenements. There were also present judges and lawyers and business leaders who sat on the panels to hear the cases and to settle the disputes for these people to the satisfaction of both the plaintiff and defendant.

The presiding officer for the afternoon was Gen. David Sarnoff, president of the Radio Corp. of America, and the names of those who have sat on the panels are well known in New York's business and professional life. Some 6000 cases have been amicably settled by this conciliation board, thus bringing a measure of peace and comfort to a segment of the human race many of whom have been through so much in the past that they are now frightened by each new threat to their security.

FRIDAY WE SPENT most of the morning traveling from Miami University, Oxford, O., to Ohio Wesleyan University. We arrived in Delaware, O., in time to be taken for lunch to a delightful little restaurant run by a man known as Mr. Bun because his father was a baker. His son is called "Biscuit" and another member of the family "Crumb," so they are well identified with their occupation!

We had a quiet time until we were called for to dine with an inter-racial fraternity. This is one of the fraternities which takes in people of various races and seems to flourish in this university which emphasizes international interests and has one course even in practical politics.

I enjoyed very much having an opportunity to meet with the boys of this fraternity and then we went to the hall for the evening meeting.

This area of Ohio is, of course, Senator Bricker's territory and inevitably I was asked what I thought of the Bricker amendment. I begged those present to read the New York City Bar Association's brief on the subject. No one will deny that the distinguished lawyers belonging to the New York City Bar Association have among their members some of the finest constitutional lawyers in this country and I think their brief deserves a careful reading since they believe that this amendment is harmful and can be dangerous to our foreign relations.

Long Cooking Is Necessary For All Pork

By Edith M. Barber

WE no longer talk about food "bargains," especially when it comes to meat. The less expensive items are now called "thrifty" buys. Right now pork falls in that category. Chops and roasts, ham and shank hocks and "picnics" will do well by the budget.

As I am sure you know, all pork needs comparatively long cooking. Even a small roast of fresh pork will take about three and a half hours to bake in a small oven at 325 degrees F. It should be baked uncovered; if you have a meat thermometer, it should read 185 degrees F. when the meat is done.

More fat than you will need for gravy will accumulate in the roasting pan. What is left over can be put to good use as drippings.

Pork chops should be browned slowly on both sides. A very small amount of liquids should be added. Then cover, and allow the meat to simmer 20 to 40 minutes, depending upon the thickness of the chops.

Even spare-ribs need thorough cooking. They should be browned thoroughly, either in a hot oven or on the stove and then allowed to simmer under cover for at least an hour.

Barbecued Pork Chops.

Four pork chops, salt, pepper, four slices onion (¼ inch thick) one tablespoon brown sugar, one-half cup catsup, two tablespoons lemon juice.

Cut a little fat from the edges of pork chops and fry out in a heavy skillet. Remove pieces. Brown chops on both sides in the hot fat. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and top each chop with a slice of onion. Sprinkle with brown sugar. Combine catsup and lemon juice and pour over chops. Add a little water to cover bottom of skillet. Cover and cook over low heat until tender, about 40 minutes, adding a little water if needed to prevent sticking. Yield: four servings.

Chemise Dresses

Claire McCardell continues to like the chemise type of dress to be worn belted or unbelted. She makes these of many different materials including light weight woolens that are gay in colors and design. Wool jersey is a favorite fabric. Crease-resistant linen in shades of green are featured, among them being acid green.

Let's Explore Your Mind

By Dr. Albert E. Wiggam

Answer to Question 1.

READING good books or booklets will help. The best booklet I know of on the subject is, "Preparation for Marriage," by American Institute of Family Relations, 5287 Sunset boulevard, Los Angeles, Calif. It is "wholesome," yet pulls no punches. The price is 25 cents, non-profit. Unhappy couples should also see a marriage counselor.

Answer to Question 2.

Yes. Psychologist H. L. Hollingworth has shown that advertisements of personal articles—perfumes, clothing, food, should appeal to the lower brain—the animal and "instinctive" desires. Advertisements for impersonal articles, such as books, tools, automobiles, should appeal to the higher brain—the gray matter you think with.

Answer to Question 3.

No, they usually weaken one. Nothing strengthens a child for meeting life as does understanding, and a satisfying infancy and childhood. Nothing weakens him as does harsh treatment, criticism and ridicule. One psychologist says harsh treatment by parents makes liars of children in order to escape punishment. It also often makes them stutter.

How It Started

By Jean Newton

To 'Gargle.'

WE all know what "to gargle" signifies. The reader who asks for its origin gives a very satisfactory definition of the early morning ablution. He gives the emphasis to the throat even though he is unaware of the part the word "throat" plays in this term's origin.

The noun "gargle" is an offshoot of "to gargle." It is quite correct to employ this in allusion to the liquid, the water or medication used in gargling, the preparation being "a gargle."

"Gargle" comes to us directly from the French "gargouiller," deriving from the word for throat, in Late Latin "gorga." So the gargle goes back to the throat.

Common Interests

By Dr. Paul Popenoe

A VARIETY of things draw men and women together and cause them to marry. Sex is only one, although a highly important one, but this attraction does not guarantee a happy marriage, by any means.

Hardly second in importance is the hunger for companionship.

Few marriages based on sex attraction alone can endure. Many more based on a desire for companionship go along happily year after year. Of course, the very best marriage is one in which both hungers, along with a number of others, are satisfied.

★ ★ ★

MRS. E. DOESN'T BELIEVE her marriage is building up enough companionship. "I'm glad to see that you enlist the aid of husbands for the benefit of their wives," she writes me. "I have long tried to persuade mine that I depend much on his help, especially in his bringing home guests to stimulate my life.

"So often when I have wanted to see a show, I get the answer: Go ahead; which either means go alone, or else get some other woman who might be willing to leave her home for a hen party with me. My husband can not understand that I married him for companionship and love, and that I can be lonesome for him even in a group of others. Joining a full week of women's activities can still leave a wife feeling lonesome, unhappy and uninspired, if she believes her husband has no more interest in her than he has in a house to use as a convenient center.

"We women who droop on the sidelines can only get a lasting answer to our needs, from changed attitudes on the part of our husbands."

★ ★ ★

A MILLION WOMEN will say Amen, Mrs. E. Every husband and wife need activities that will bring them closer together. Just what these activities are will be different in each home. Sociologists E. W. Burgess and Paul Wallin, in a recent book, remind us "a common interest may be quite divisive if it leads to competition and conflict," and they tentatively classify common interests as follows:

Little or no binding effect: sports and games.

Some binding effect: friends, reading, dancing.

Considerable binding effect: music, theater, church.

Great binding effect: same or similar professional interests, active community service, devotion to a common cause.

Perhaps many readers will disagree with that classification. If so, make one for yourselves. Decide what you can do together that you will both enjoy, and that will most strengthen your marriage. Then do it—frequently.

Fix It Yourself

By Hubbard Cobb

IF you don't believe that the human being is a pretty rugged article, take a look at the inside of some water pipes and see what the water that humans can thrive on will do to something as delicate as galvanized iron.

If the pipes have been in place for any great length of time the interior may be heavily coated either with rust or with mineral deposit. This restriction in the size of the pipe obviously means that less water can flow through it and this means that less water will flow out of the faucet at the end of the pipe.

A situation like this is not easily solved. The best remedy, of course, is to replace the existing lines with copper tube which can be run through the walls and ceilings with a minimum of fuss and bother. The existing lines are left in place when possible for to remove them would require ripping away sections of both floor and walls.

Needless to say, installing a new plumbing system of copper tubing is going to cost someone some money and that someone will doubtless be you.

Another solution to clogged water pipes that seems to give pretty fair results for awhile is to replace the fittings, elbows, bends and Tee's. Seems that these fittings become clogged up faster than the straight runs of pipe and if new ones are installed you'll get some temporary relief.

Sometimes it's possible to pull a small chain through a length of pipe that is rusted and the chain will break up the deposits of rust. Trouble here is that often when the rust is removed there isn't much else to hold the water in the line and a leak develops.

Martha Carr's OPINION

REG U S PAT OFF

Dear Martha:

I ENTERTAINED six women for luncheon and a card game. Most of the women play canasta frequently and I thought this would be the preferred game. But on finding out at the last moment that one woman didn't play, we all asked her to sit in and learn the game. She refused and said she would rather play pinochle. Another guest said she didn't play pinochle so we went ahead with our canasta game, the sixth being an outsider. Was I wrong? To whom should I have catered?

INSULTED HOSTESS.

It is never easy for someone to learn a game surrounded by a group of experts. Most people become self-conscious and embarrassed under those circumstances and are really more comfortable sitting out the game even though others urge them to play. It's hard for experienced players to accept a neophyte's mistakes so the entire situation becomes awkward. It seems to me that if the guest knew it was to be a canasta party, she should have declined the invitation since she doesn't play, but having accepted, she should have tried to go along with the majority. However, don't let yourself feel "insulted" over it. It's not worth a quarrel that could break up a friendship.

★ ★ ★

Dear Martha:

THERE HAS BEEN AN ARGUMENT around our house since I told my parents I have been invited to go on a vacation to Florida this summer with my boy friend and his parents. We are going to become engaged in June and this will be in July. My parents say it doesn't look right. Is this permissible or not? STUMPED.

By strict rules of etiquette, it would be "permissible" as long as you were the guest of his parents. However, if your own parents feel it would not look right, then it would be far better to sacrifice the pleasure of the vacation trip than to risk any criticism of yourself for going, or of your parents for permitting you to make the trip.

★ ★ ★

IN ANSWER TO Wondering: This does seem like a lot of money for a ninth-grader to spend on one evening's entertainment. However, if your parents permit you to be a member of the social organization, I should think they would want you to participate in its activities. It must be their decision, of course, and probably will depend on whether the others are taking dates and if adults are to be at the party with the young people.

Martha Carr's pamphlet, Guide for the Bride, will answer many of your questions on wedding etiquette. For your free copy, send your request to Martha Carr at the Post-Dispatch, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

'Child Labor'

By Angelo Patri

IT is my hope that those mothers who never seem to let up in their household work will give thought to themselves and take things just a little easier. Some of these mothers might say, "But the children . . ." And my answer to that would be to the effect that an overworked mother can't give her offspring the attention they need because she is too busy doing many things for them that they might well do for themselves.

Youngsters can do much more than their mothers think advisable. I know of a small boy who looks after the garage and keeps the place clean. Nobody told him to do the work, but he likes his job.

★ ★ ★

I ALSO KNOW of a little girl, whose head scarcely reaches to the table top. She washes dishes, sometimes standing on a chair, and does a good job of it. Some of the neighbors look upon this as a sort of "child-labor" idea, not thinking that it is really juvenile education on a sound basis.

As soon as a child shows that he can help himself in some things, he should be permitted to do so. It is good for his mental and physical growth. When a mother organizes her household so that each child has duties, she not only eases her own load, but also teaches the youngsters something that is of value to them.

Many a loving mother errs by not permitting her children to do chores around the house. This work can be done cheerfully and to the youngsters' satisfaction. They like to hear their mother say: "That's fine. Youve saved me a great deal of time today. You're a great help."

★ ★ ★

THE MORE USEFUL and variety of tasks a child can perform, the more capable he or she becomes. The saving of time and effort for a mother gives her a chance for relaxation—when she may read, make a call, attend a meeting, knowing that all the household tasks are well under control and that the youngsters can take care of themselves for the time being.

It is no kindness to children to have them think mother must toil while they go to school and spend the rest of the time, or most of it, in play. It is far better for them to know how to do chores and take an interest in this light work. Children learn quickly and enjoy what they do, particularly when they get a pat on the back from Mom.

Social Problems

By Emily Post

A VERY distressing problem is described in this letter: "A young woman I know lost her husband about six months ago. His death was very sudden and she was quite broken up over it. Having no family to turn to, I told her that whenever she felt like getting out of the house, she could come over to my house so as not to be alone. I was only too glad to help her over this very trying period, but now after six months she still continues to come in almost every night of the week. My husband, who was very sympathetic in the beginning, is getting tired of this intrusion on our privacy and 'takes it out on me.' She is a very nice person and is always buying presents for our little boy and I can't bear to hurt her, but if I don't do something I'm afraid I will drive my husband out of the house. Can you help me?"

This is a very difficult problem to solve. The only solution I can think of lies in the hope that you have a number of friends who, like herself, are possibly alone and would be very glad to be friends with her. If you ask them one at a time with her, you could perhaps encourage their friendship.

DEAR MRS. POST: When passing a plate at the table for a second helping, shouldn't the knife and fork be removed and held in the hand? A friend of mine tells me that both implements should be left on the plate. Which way is right?

Answer: Your friend is right, but a note should be made that the implements should be placed well in toward the center of the plate close together to prevent their falling off.

Atomic Airliners 50 Years From Now

Eddie Rickenbacker Predicts Giant Planes Will Span U.S. in About an Hour, Atlantic in Two

By Eddie Rickenbacker
Chairman of the Board, Eastern Air Lines

Space ships carrying 1500 to 2000 passengers at speeds up to 5000 miles per hour. . . . Guided atomic missiles swooshing to distant targets at 25,000 miles per hour. . . . Giant military and commercial planes so built and controlled as to be impervious to any weather conditions.

These are some of the possibilities envisaged in the next half century of aviation by one of America's pioneer and best-known airmen, Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, who herewith gazes into the future and "the next 50 years of aviation."

NEW YORK, Jan. 19 (INS).

ANY attempt to visualize, within 50 per cent of reality, what will be accomplished in the next 50 years of aviation would, in the eyes of his friends, qualify one as a fit subject for an insane asylum.

I can speak from experience because, just 25 years ago, I ventured such a glimpse 25 years ahead.

Despite the fact that several of my predictions fell far short of what actually has taken place, my description of multi-engined transports, of trans-oceanic air services, of wide-ranging, high-flying military aircraft, and, yes, helicopters, sounded to many like the outpourings of an unbalanced mind.

Yet, with this popular penalty vividly in mind, I will make the following predictions for aviation 50 years from now:

Long before that year is reached military aircraft, both fighters and heavy bombers, will progress from turbo-jet engines at the speed of sound to the more powerful ram-jet engines that will drive speeds up to 2500 to 3000 miles per hour.

These will be the forerunners of atomic-powered fighters and bombers cruising 25 to 50 miles above the earth with a range to circle the globe without refueling.

Even these will be but stepping stones to rocket-driven guided missiles which will make obsolete our present conceptions of fighters and bombers. Carrying a much further developed and devastating atomic bomb, these war machines will be controlled electronically and will require the help of human beings only at a point of take off.

Speeds of these nuclear-powered guided missiles will increase progressively from 2500 miles an hour to 25,000 miles an hour and they will locate their targets with acoustical devices as yet undeveloped.

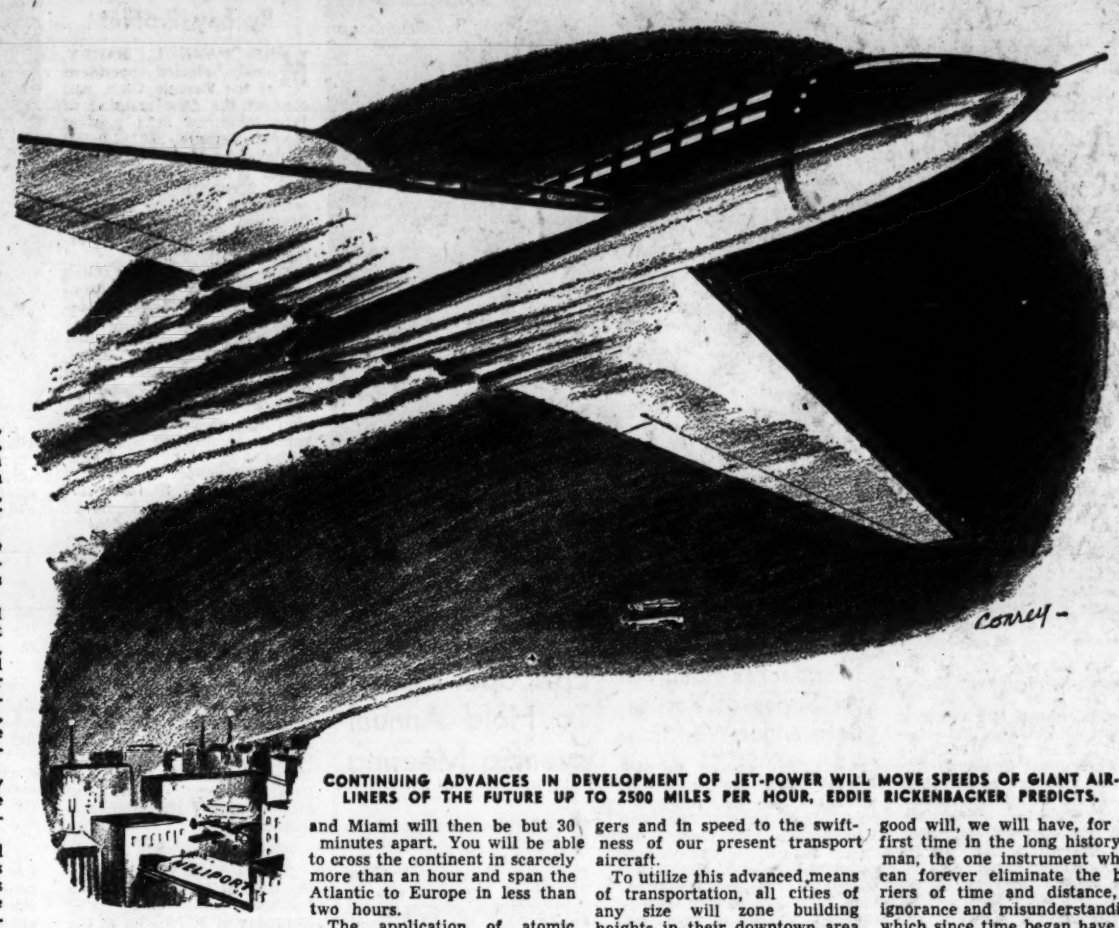
This, I admit, is an ugly picture, but yet as man develops his ability to engineer those deadly instruments, the need for them will diminish proportionately. In this lies mankind's greatest hope since the beginning of time.

★ ★ ★

SPECTACULAR as are the developments ahead for military aircraft, the advance of aviation as the world's primary transportation means of travel over any appreciable distance will be equally fantastic.

Transport planes will progressively graduate from today's "giant" aircraft with their 350 miles an hour to veritable airliners which will cruise high above the weather with silent vibrationless comfort, initially in the speed band of sound or about 600 miles per hour.

Continuing advances in the development of jet-power will move these speeds even up to 2500 miles per hour. New York and Miami will then be but 30 minutes apart. You will be able to cross the continent in scarcely more than an hour and span the Atlantic to Europe in less than two hours.



CONTINUING ADVANCES IN DEVELOPMENT OF JET-POWER WILL MOVE SPEEDS OF GIANT AIRLINERS OF THE FUTURE UP TO 2500 MILES PER HOUR, EDDIE RICKENBACKER PREDICTS.

The application of atomic power to transport aircraft will bring to reality aviation's inherent potential of being man's most economic, as well as safest, means of travel.

Because of the infinitesimal weight of atomic engine fuel by comparison with the weight of thousands upon thousands of gallons of gasoline now required for propulsion, the atomic engine will make possible tremendously increased payloads and ranges. This will mean far more efficient aircraft and consequently lower and lower cost for the traveling public and the shipper.

While these atomic powered airlines will link all major cities over the continent and across the world, helicopters will progress from today's reciprocating engines first to jet power and then to atomic propulsion, increasing in size and carrying from 50 to 100 passengers and in speed to the swiftness of our present transport aircraft.

To utilize this advanced means of transportation, all cities of any size will zone building heights in their downtown area and bridge streets to make heliports of adequate size an ideal convenience for the greatest number of people.

★ ★ ★

ALL flying, from the development of electronic devices and control, will be made independent of the weather.

Finally, in the span of this next half century of aviation, space ships may become commonplace for interplanetary travel.

With luxurious accommodations for 1500 to 2000 passengers, they will use atomic power to develop speeds up to 5000 miles per hour or better and will have a practically unlimited range. In range, spaceships by the year 2054 will be semi self-sustaining planets in themselves.

What lies ahead for aviation? Our progress will be limited only by the limits of human imagination. To make these things and even far greater wonders, man already has God-given intelligence, the capacity for the knowledge they will require.

Yet, unless he can anchor our knowledge to moral principles, science may turn out to be not the guide, but the betrayer of humanity. With aviation's development in the hands of men of good will, we will have, for the first time in the long history of man, the one instrument which can forever eliminate the barriers of time and distance, of ignorance and misunderstanding, which since time began have set men apart from and against each other.

In terms of human relationships, these advances in aviation mean that the world will grow progressively smaller. Then people of all nationalities will have, within their own hands, the means of meeting and understanding all people and for eliminating the petty hates and jealousies which breed wars.

For in the years ahead every community on the face of the earth will be a port of entry and departure for every other city, town and hamlet, on the vast ocean of air on whose shores every man lives.

Then, instead of being the most deadly weapon God ever let man create, the airplane will truly become the angel of peace He intended it to be.

Disconnecting Radiators.

FEW things can get us in quite so bad a frame of mind as trying to paint the section of a wall in back of a radiator or trying to refinish the floor under the radiator.

We worried about this for a time and then made a test which proved that it's usually much quicker to disconnect the radiator and move it out of your way than try to work with it standing right in the way.

Needless to say, you don't want to disconect a radiator when you've got a head of steam in the boiler so let the fire go down low. If you have a hot water radiator, remove enough water from the system so that the water level is below the radiator in question.

Turn off the radiator shut off valve and then place a pan under the union between valve and radiator. The purpose of the pan is to catch the water that is probably sitting around in the pipe and the radiator. When the union has been disconnected the radiator is ready to be moved out of your way. Don't try sliding it on the floor because the legs will not do the floor one bit of good. Your best bet is to get an old piece of carpet or heavy cardboard under the radiator and slide carpet and all out of your way.

Replacing the radiator is easy except that you'll have to fool around a little to get the radiator properly lined up with the valve. Be sure that the nut on the union does not become cross threaded. As you tighten up the nut it will pull the radiator close up to the valve.

Tweezers or a strawberry huller will do a good job of pull-out pin feathers from poultry.

Secrets of Charm

Sharing the Expenses

LET'S tackle a really tough problem today, the problem of a careerist or girl with more than ample allowance, who is interested in a young man whose weekly salary leaves little for the luxuries and the kind of entertainment she not only enjoys but can take for granted. Must she pretend to be a stay-at-home if she wishes to have his company? Or may she instigate and share the kind of entertainment she likes.

Now that women are competing with men in almost every business and profession, it is fairly obsolete to cling to the old convention of no matter what the circumstance, it is the man who pays.

★ ★ ★

CAREER WOMEN of today naturally pay any expenses they incur in the daily course of their work, frequently sharing them with men engaged in the same activity. More and more wives, especially those recently married, assume part of the load of getting the marriage and home established. Practical considerations have made these changes in custom necessary.

But how far can a woman go in sharing the expenses of entertainment that she shares with a man on purely a social basis? The deciding factor is one of motive. Whatever the situation may be, wisdom lies in being frank. Only those who overrate money make a point of it.

★ ★ ★

WHEN SEVERAL couples go out together, if it is agreed on beforehand, girls as well as men can each pay their part of the check. Usually such parties are an intimate group of friends whose mutual respect and understanding is what makes the entertainment not only enjoyable but possible.

A girl may call a man and say, "I have two tickets for such-and-such a show or game. Would you like to go with me?"

It is also permissible for any girl to invite four or more to dinner in a restaurant or club and arrange payment beforehand, thus precluding any embarrassment to the man invited.

On the whole, the considerations involved are a matter of intent, not so much what you do but why you do it. If you are impersonal and not possessive or scheming, your motives will not be questioned. If the men involved, obviously pay all that they can, their character and purpose cannot be subject to criticism. Practicalities and honest considerations have modified many of the social usages of yesterday.

Contract Bridge

By Ely Culbertson

THE hand below is perhaps one of the best of all proofs that contract bridge is not merely a game of aces and kings, or mathematical proficiency, or good memory, or any of the other qualities usually attributed to it. It is a hand that points up what is loosely called, for want of a better term, "psychology."

NORTH: ♠KJ6 ♥K ♦J1053 ♣Q10762

WEST: ♠873 ♥Q75 ♦Q642 ♣K85

SOUTH: ♠AQ4 ♥AJ109862 ♦7 ♣43

East	South	West	North
1♦	4♥	Dble.	Pass
Pass	Pass

As may be seen, West's double of four hearts was none too "solid," but West felt sure that in addition to his heart queen, his club king would probably be good for a trick, and East ought to be able to deliver a couple of tricks defensively.

West opened his fourth-highest diamond, and East, hoping it was a singleton, tried to cash both the king and the ace. South ruffed the second trick and took stock. He could hardly feel confident over his prospects. He had lost one trick, it was evident that he would have to lose a trump trick, and there was every reason to think that the opponents would grab their two high clubs.

All this explaining takes much longer than it took South to act. He led a trump to the blank king, returned the jack of diamonds—and discarded his low spade.

West reacted precisely as South hoped. If South was in such a dither to get rid of spade losers, West would have something to say on that subject! So, having taken the diamond trick, West shifted to spades as quickly as he could get the eight-spot out of his hand. He was extremely shocked when South won the trick with the ace, cashed the trump ace, then overtook the spade queen in dummy and discarded one club on the diamond 10 and another on the jack of spades. The best way to appraise South's "psychology" is to visualize what would have happened if he had discarded a club on the jack of diamonds.

When you are serving cube steaks, allow about a quarter pound for each person. The best way to cook the steaks is to brown them quickly in a little fat in a heavy skillet, then cook slowly for a minute or two. Sprinkle the steaks with salt and pepper after they are cooked.

Spring Styles

Dark blue dresses of a silk fabric that has a definite luster are among the spring styles in the Paul Parnes collection. One that is outstanding follows the Empire linen with high, snug bustline and a simulated bolero front. There is a large taffeta bow at the neckline, the taffeta featuring white polka dots on a navy background. Another dress is a shirtwaist style with front buttoned-opening to the hipline. It has a detachable white pique collar, front-side pleats and center-back pleat in the skirt.

Uncle Ray's Column

By Ramon Coffman

DURING early months of airplane flight, most aviators tried to stay near the ground. When Wilbur Wright broke a distance record, his biplane traveled at an average height of only 25 feet. Other pilots also stayed close to the ground, seldom arising more than 75 feet.

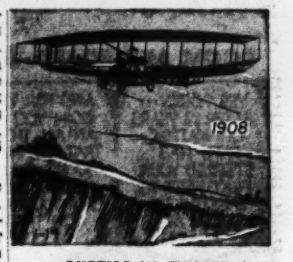
There were reasons for the low flights. In the first place, the motors were poor (by modern standards) and could never have lifted the pioneer planes a mile, or even half a mile.

* * *

ANOTHER REASON was the fear of accidents. The pilots believed they were safer if they kept near the ground. As it turned out, dozens of them suffered crashes, but fatal accidents were rare.

A man who did a great deal to prove that high flights could be carried out with success was the American, Glenn Curtiss. During his young manhood, Curtiss spent much time racing with bicycles and motorcycles. He set a new world's record for the fastest one-mile motorcycle trip.

At the age of 30, Curtiss turned to aviation, and started winning prizes for his skillful work as a pilot. Forty-four years ago, he learned about a prize of $10,000 offered by the New York World for an airplane flight from Albany to New York City. After careful work on his biplane, he soared out of Albany. Just before he started, he was handed a letter from the mayor of Albany to be delivered to the mayor of New York.



CURTISS IN FLIGHT.

* * *

AWAY HE FLEW, part of the time soaring more than 1000 feet. At one point in his journey, he had to pass through a gap in Storm King mountain, and his plane lurched sidewise with a drop of about 30 feet. A quick shift of the front control saved him and he went onward.

The prize offer allowed for two stops, and Curtiss took advantage of them to fill his gasoline tank, but he finished the journey. He delivered the first letter carried by an American airplane and won the $10,000 prize. His flying time was two hours and 50 minutes, for a distance of 142 miles.

Romance in Rio

by Anne Allison

Synopsis

LANA MARTIN, working as a model for BRAD DUNHAM'S advertising agency, is jilted by JOHN MATHEWS, who announces he is going to marry another girl. Brad suggests to Lana that she take a trip to Rio. After three days of sickness on the ship, Lana recovers sufficiently to go to the dining salon. There she meets and dances with RAUL NEVES.

CHAPTER THREE.

AS their first evening progressed Lana became more intrigued with Raul Neves. He frankly confessed that he had arranged for their small table in the dining salon.

"But how," Lana asked more amused than annoyed, "did you know who I was? I've been in my stateroom ever since we left New York."

He shrugged. "It was simple. I saw you the night we sailed. Beautiful and unhappy. Waving goodby to a man, not so beautiful but also unhappy." He glanced at her keenly. "We will let that pass for the moment. How did I know your name? The purser is a friend of mine. He let me look through the passports until I found your picture."

"Passports are private papers," Lana pointed out.

His dark eyes lit up with amusement. "It's not precisely an issue of law, is it? And you must admit that the idea was successful."

Most of the others had left the dining salon now and the lights were dimmed. The ship creaked faintly, and the noise of the ventilators was a pleasant burr in their ears.

"I like you, Lana Martin," Raul informed her as if he were conferring a great distinction. "You are a woman who knows when to keep silent. A great gift. Most North American girls do not interest me."

BUT Lana was not irritated by his conceit nor bored with his flattery. It was balm to the spirit of the girl John Mathews had jilted only a few days ago.

"I've never known a Latin before," Lana said smiling, "I can see I have a great deal to learn."

His dark eyes were unfathomable. "It will be an experience," he promised modestly. "Latin men do not compromise with what they want. They get it. Always."

"And do the women never object?"

"Our Brazilian women?" He smiled. "No. As for girls from your country, I have never known any. Perhaps, I, too, have a great deal to learn."

But if Raul Neves of Rio de Janeiro was interested in learning North American ways he gave no sign of it. He breakfasted in his stateroom in true Latin fashion and not even for Lana would he appear on deck before 11. He loathed games and arrogantly refused to take part in shuffleboard or deck tennis. The swimming pool was too small to suit him. "We who have known the beach at Rio," he told Lana, "could not possibly enjoy splashing in this," he waved a well-manicured hand, "this tub. Come. We will walk around the deck."

Promptly at 2 o'clock Raul disappeared for his siesta. "It is barbaric not to sleep after the noon meal," he insisted. "You, Lana, must get the siesta habit. There is nothing else to do in Rio anyway, after lunch."

When the sirens announced a fire drill during Raul's siesta hour, he flatly refused to come on deck. His room steward could not persuade him and finally the angry Captain sent a ship's officer to fetch him. Raul appeared, haughtily, carelessly dragging his life preserver behind him.

"So ridiculous," he complained to Lana, "to have a drill when there is no danger. This efficiency annoys me—but yes, I am annoyed."

His handsome face was like a thunder cloud but he reminded Lana so much of small boys who could not have their own way that she only smiled at him. A moment later he was his old charming self.

LATER as they walked lazily around the sunny deck straining their eyes for the first glimpse of the South American coast, Raul again brought up the subject of Brad Dunham. "The very large American," he began delicately, "who was shouting to you from the pier when we left New York. He is in love with you—no?"

"No," Lana replied. "He was my employer. Just a friend."

Raul sighed. "Never will I understand these American men. How is it possible for any man to be just a friend to a girl like you? In Brazil," he shrugged, "it could not happen."

"Perhaps that's the way I want it," Lana said, wondering how she had become involved in such a personal conversation with a man she had known so briefly.

He smiled. "In Rio it will be different. You will not want it 'that way.' I will never be your friend, and," his eyes caressed her "you will not want me to be."

A moment later he was making plans. "You will stay at the City Hotel of course. I will make all the arrangements."

"Why the City Hotel?" Lana made a pretty picture at the rail in her simple blue denim slacks and halter, her hair caught by the brilliance of a tropical sun.

Raul glanced at her closely but his voice was casual. "It is the best hotel. Naturally you will stay there. Everyone does."

Lana moved in a dream world of her own which made the past seem unreal. Had she ever met John Mathews on that snowy evening at the Algonquin? Had he really broken their engagement because of a widow from Los Angeles named Marian Ames?

But that night the reality came back sharply. For as Lana waited on deck for Raul she saw a girl coming out of the bar. A slender girl, not too tall, with dark hair and cool green eyes. It was, without question, Marian Ames.
